C. status of any publicly announced new product or service;

Pursuant to the July 2014 Merger the Company added "JPO Ultra Blend Series" and "JPO 100 Series" to its product line. During the past year, the Company also added MOP ® Maximum Oil Pickup – Plus to its product line. For a more detailed description of these products, please see subsection B. above.

D. competitive business conditions, the issuer's competitive position in the industry, and methods of competition;

The issuer competes with many traditional oil absorbtion products ther are many clay-based products such as Oil Dry and Speedi Dry that have significant acceptance in the market. There are also a significant number of other new products that are vying for a portion of the oil absorption and clean up market, many self-described as "green" or "environmentally friendly". The issuer is not aware of any other products that allow recovery of oil from the product following its use. Such recovery allows both re-use of the oil recovered as well as re-use of the absorbent product, allowing the user to reduce its environmental costs. In protoing this aspect of its products, the issure must overcome the tency of customers to stay with traditional methods and materials. Accordingly, the issuer and JPO Companies, Inc. have incurred significant up front marketing and demonstration expenses to expose the products' potential to customers.

E. sources and availability of raw materials and the names of principal suppliers;

While the formula for MOP is a trade secret, it is possible to say that all the major components of MOP sorbents are created from all recycled materials and our raw materials are plentiful. For customers and others interested in recycling and environmental stewardship it is important to know that the sorbents are created from sectors of the waste stream, known as "recovered materials" the US Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA's) term for materials that are technically recyclable but that otherwise are without markets for the recycled materials. EPA, understandably, places a high priority on the use of items that employ "recovered materials" giving the Company's products an additional leg up on the competition in government bids and contract negotiations. Furthermore, because recovered materials constitute the highest percentage of our sorbent's makeup, the Company's raw materials costs are more stable and predictable and less subject to the fluctuations of the market for other raw materials like polypropylene. Our core products are made from recycled materials that are readily available worldwide. The Company does not rely on any one or several principal suppliers.

F. dependence on one or a few major customers;

The company is not dependent on any one or a few major customers.

The company is in the process of implementing their August 1, 2014, Business Plan, which represents a conservative plan for growth that forecasts the Company achieving profitability during the first year of this plan. The Company intends to make strategic investments, where possible, in the long-term foundational aspects of the company including, product development, patents, intellectual property and people, (our sales and management team). The Company is focusing on areas with the best prospects for sales in the early stages of capital acquisition and then expanding into areas with higher capital and development costs as funds become available either through growth or investment. International sales are expected to be closed in Saudi Arabia, Singapore, Angola, Israel, Columbia, and Ecuador in the first half of 2015 (all of which are expected to be "pre-paid" orders).

The Company intends to utilize the following strategies for growth:

- ✓ Implementing a marketing plan and sales campaign that begins with a focus on compliance and government/organizational mandates – particularly in the markets least penetrated by competitors, then gradually advancing into the more competitive markets as the company builds cash reserves, credibility, market share and brand recognition
- ✓ Focusing sales efforts on producing and supplying the most effective and lowest cost oil spill response and mitigation products and related services
- ✓ Continuing to build a regional, national and international distribution system through a combination of geographic and specialty market driven distributors who are already delivering other related, but not competitive, products into the markets essential to success of the efforts

- ✓ Purchasing inventory through outsourcing and using newly acquired equipment to increase available inventory
- ✓ Creating new products that expand the markets for MOP and JPO products, including the lucrative consumer market, through branded products and private label products
- ✓ Educating the public on the benefits of our products, those environmentally sustainable solutions for usefully recapturing up to 95% of an oil spill but, also, the greenest methods for cleaning up spills
- ✓ Maintaining a pricing structure that positions the Company competitively within the range of other sorbents, providing a substantial profit range and margin that comfortably allows advantageous bids in more competitive markets and environments – on top of being far beyond them in effectiveness
