Notes to Financial Statements

Note 1 – Basis of Presentation and Significant Accounting Policies

Business
Optec International, Inc. (Formerly Green Meadow Products, Inc. "the Company", “GMP”, "Optec", "we", "us" or "our") was incorporated under the laws of the State of Wyoming on June 22, 2013. The company changed its year end from June 30 to December 31.

Basis of Presentation
Our financial statements are prepared using the accrual method of accounting as generally accepted in the United States of America (U.S. GAAP) and the rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

Use of Estimates

In preparing financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, management is required to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and accompanying notes. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Estimates are primarily used in our revenue recognition, fair value assumptions in accounting for derivative liability, intangible assets and long-lived asset impairments, stock-based compensation, and deferred tax valuations.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all highly liquid investments with an original purchase maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents.

Accounts Receivable

Accounts receivable are comprised of unsecured amounts due from customers. As of September 30, 2026 and September 30, 2025, the company has accounts receivable of $0.

Property and equipment

Property and equipment are valued at cost. Additions are capitalized and maintenance and repairs are charged to expense as incurred. Gains and losses on dispositions of equipment are reflected in operations. Depreciation is provided using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets.

Basic and Diluted Loss Per Share
The basic net loss per common share is computed by dividing the net loss by the weighted average number of common shares outstanding. Diluted net loss per common share is computed by dividing the net loss adjusted on an “as if converted” basis, by the weighted average number of common shares outstanding plus potential dilutive securities. For the three months ended September 30, 2026 and 2025, there were 4,747,385,431 and 4,747,385,431 common shares issued and outstanding. Shares issuable from Convertible preferred stock, for which a variable number of shares may be issued upon conversion, that had an anti-dilutive effect were not included in the calculation of diluted net loss per common share.

Revenue Recognition

The Company recognizes revenue in accordance with ASC Topic 606, Revenue From Contracts With Customers. Revenues are recognized when control of the promised goods or services is transferred to the customer in an amount that reflects the consideration the Company expects to be entitled to in exchange for transferring those goods or services. Revenue is recognized based on the following five step model:

- Identification of the contract with a customer
- Identification of the performance obligations in the contract
- Determination of the transaction price
- Allocation of the transaction price to the performance obligations in the contract
- Recognition of revenue when, or as, the Company satisfies a performance obligation

Performance Obligations

Revenue is recognized when all of the following criteria are satisfied: (i) a contract with an end user exists which has commercial substance; (ii) it is probable the Company will collect the amount charged to the end user; and (iii) the Company has completed its performance obligation whereby the end user has obtained control of the product. A contract with commercial substance exists once the Company receives and accepts a purchase order or once it enters into a contract with an end user. If collectability is not probable, the sale is deferred and not recognized until collection is probable or payment is received. For product sales, control of products typically transfers when title and risk of ownership of the product has transferred to the customer. Payment is received before shipment of the product. Net revenues comprise gross revenues less customer discounts and allowances, actual and expected returns. Shipping charges billed to customers are included in net sales. Various taxes on the sale of products and enrollment packages to customers are collected by the Company as an agent and remitted to the respective taxing authority. These taxes are presented on a net basis and recorded as a liability until remitted to the respective taxing authority.

Contract Costs

Costs incurred to obtain a customer contract are not material to the Company. The Company elected to apply the practical expedient to not capitalize contract costs to obtain contracts with a duration of one year or less, which are expensed and included within cost of goods and services.

Contract Liabilities

The Company may at times receive payment by credit card at the time a customer places an order. Amounts received for undelivered product are considered a contract liability and are recorded as deferred revenue.

Advertising and Promotion

All costs associated with advertising and promoting products are expensed as incurred. These expenses were $0 and $0 for the three months ended September 30, 2026 and 2025, respectively.

Technology and Development

All costs associated with technology and development are expensed as incurred. These expenses were $0 for the three months ended September 30, 2026 and 2025.

Stock-Based Compensation

Under FASB ASC 718-10-30-2, all share-based payments to employees, including grants of employee stock options, to be recognized in the income statement based on their fair values. During the three months ended September 30, 2026 and 2025, the Company's stock-based compensation expense was $0 and $0, respectively.

Income Taxes

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the future tax consequences attributable to differences between the financial statement carrying amounts of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax bases. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. A valuation allowance is provided for significant deferred tax assets when it is more likely than not that such asset will not be recovered through future operations.

Uncertain Tax Positions

In accordance with ASC 740, "Income Taxes" ("ASC 740"), the Company recognizes the tax benefit from an uncertain tax position only if it is more likely than not that the tax position will be capable of withstanding examination by the taxing authorities based on the technical merits of the position. These standards prescribe a recognition threshold and measurement attribute for the financial statement recognition and measurement of a tax position taken or expected to be taken in a tax return. These standards also provide guidance on de-recognition, classification, interest and penalties, accounting in interim periods, disclosure, and transition.

Various taxing authorities periodically audit the Company's income tax returns. These audits include questions regarding the Company's tax filing positions, including the timing and amount of deductions and the allocation of income to various tax jurisdictions. In evaluating the exposures connected with these various tax filing positions, including state and local taxes, the Company records allowances for probable exposures. A number of years may elapse before a particular matter, for which an allowance has been established, is audited and fully resolved. The Company has not yet undergone an examination by any taxing authorities.

The assessment of the Company's tax position relies on the judgment of management to estimate the exposures associated with the Company's various filing positions.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

In preparing the financial statements, management considered all new pronouncements through the date of the report. No other new accounting pronouncements issued or effective during the three months ended September 30, 2026, have had, or are expected to have a significant impact on the Company's financial statements.

Note 2 – Going Concern

As shown in the accompanying financial statements, the Company has insufficient cash on hand and incurred net losses from operations resulting in an accumulated deficit of $35,291,891 and used $18,808 of cash from operations during the three months ended September 30, 2026. These factors raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. The Company is currently seeking additional sources of capital to fund short-term operations. The Company, however, is dependent upon its ability to secure equity and/or debt financing and there are no assurances that the Company will be successful; therefore, without sufficient financing it would be unlikely for the Company to continue as a going concern.

The financial statements do not include any adjustments that might result from the outcome of any uncertainty as to the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. The financial statements also do not include any adjustments relating to the recoverability and classification of recorded asset amounts or amounts and classifications of liabilities that might be necessary should the Company be unable to continue as a going concern.

The shares of common stock issuable upon conversion of the Notes listed above will be restricted securities as defined in Rule 144 promulgated under the Securities Act of 1933. The terms of each convertible note placed a “maximum share amount” on the note holder that can be owned as a result of the conversions to common stock by the note holder of 4.99% of the issued and outstanding shares of the Company.

Note 7 – Commitments and Contingencies

Legal Proceedings

The Company may be subject to legal proceedings and claims arising from contracts or other matters from time to time in the ordinary course of business.

On December 20, 2022, RB Capital Partners, Inc. initiated a court proceeding in the Superior Court of the State of California, County of San Diego, North County Division, to sue severally Roger Pawson, the former Chief Executive Officer of Optec, and the Company related to bridge loans, notes and related accrued interest and late fees.

On October 11, 2024, RB Capital Partners received a final judgment against Mr. Pawson and the Company in the amount of $14,811,270.50. The judgment also barred Mr. Pawson from acting in any capacity as a director or officer of Optec and ordered the return of 55,000 Preferred shares owned by Pawson to the Company Treasury.

On November 11, 2024, Judge Earl Maas appointed a court receiver in Kevin Singer. Acting on the order of the court, Mr. Singer and attorney Jackson Wyche crafted the share purchase agreement (“SPA”) whereby $250,000 of the judgment was erased and 55,000 shares would be issued to the new CEO. Singer subsequently interviewed Mr. Gregory Boehmer as a candidate to take control of the company as CEO. Singer put forth Mr. Boehmer to the court as the choice candidate and Mr. Boehmer took over as CEO in January of 2025.

Due to a number of unexpected delays, the court approval of the SPA was delayed.

At a hearing on February 20, 2026, in the Superior Court of the State of California, County of San Diego, North County Division, Judge Maas granted the petition of the Court Receiver Kevin Singer to order the completion of the Share Purchase Agreement. Judge Maas ordered Pacific Stock Transfer to cancel the 55,000 Preferred Shares held by Roger Pawson and issue the 55,000 Preferred Shares to Gregory Boehmer. The Share Purchase Agreement was completed on June 25, 2026 with the return of 55,000 Preferred Shares to the Company Treasury and subsequently issued to Mr. Boehmer.
