

Global Entertainment Holdings Commences Development of Mobile App for “You’ve Got The Part!”

Los Angeles, CA – May 22, 2017 – Global Entertainment Holdings, Inc. (OTC: GBHL), is pleased to announce it has commenced development of a mobile application for You’ve Got The Part (“YGTP”).

GBHL has retained the development team at Tbox Solutionz to build its mobile App. MK (Mary-Kathryn) Tantum will work directly with the CEO of the development team to supervise the App build for GBHL. Ms. Tantum developed the Company’s WeedWeb portal (www.WeedWeb.com), and has a great deal of experience with web design, marketing and development of mobile Apps.

The initial build of the YGTP App will entail a native mobile application for the iOS platform only, which will be fully integrated with the YGTP website. After the iOS platform is finished in early July, it will be thoroughly tested prior to developing the Android version.

Jackie Giroux, originator of YGTP concept and President of Global Universal Film Group, commented, “Our team couldn’t be more excited about the development of our innovative social media App for You’ve Got The Part, which we believe will shape the future of how raw new talent gets discovered. With the meteoric rise in popularity of TV shows like ‘America’s Got Talent’, millions of people watch daily as contestants work diligently for months and spend tens of thousands of dollars in hopes of becoming a ‘star’. Once launched, our YGTP App will give everybody the chance to be a ‘star’ in a Hollywood movie with very little effort and for less than the cost of a cup of coffee!”
