MIHI CEO & CMO Discuss The Advantages Of Its Telemedicine Platform To Rural Physicians And Patients

Provides Patients Easy Access To Top Specialists And Increases Revenues Of Physician Practices;

DULUTH, GEORGIA – 08/10/2016

Medina Innovation Holdings, Inc. which is changing its name to Medical Innovation Holdings, Inc. (“MIHI” or the “Company”) (OTC: MIHI), today, released the observations of the Company’s CEO & CMO regarding the Company’s innovative response to the perennial complaints of rural populations and practitioners alike, and described how the Company’s telemedicine plan provides the long awaited benefits for both rural doctors and their patients.

Simply stated, the Company’s plan provides needed specialty practice medical services to underserved rural patients in the setting of their primary practice provider at no additional cost to them. It also provides the rural physician with administrative support, additional income, and the ability for the practice to grow exponentially and to provide access to much needed specialist practitioners.

Arturo “Jake” Sanchez, CEO and Director, stated: “Basically, the Company saw the problems inherent in the current healthcare system and created a better solution. There is a tremendous patient demand for access to not only affordable care but also high quality care. Consumers are playing a more direct role in their care options and physicians are demanding better ways to provide that care for their patients. We provide both.

Plus, we give the practitioner a distinct marketing advantage, which can create additional revenues for the practice. Our plan is designed to increase patient acquisition and retention given the practice’s new ability to offer the whole array of specialty services provided by the Company. Also, the Company’s plan, by making sure the practices are quickly and efficiently receiving reimbursement for the services, provides a consistent cash flow that the practices can rely upon.”

Dr. Christopher JWB Leggett, the Company’s Chief Medical Officer added: “For the patients, it is really a matter of being exposed to high quality primary care, having access to top tier specialty care and the convenience of receiving these medical services in their own hometown. After undergoing our thorough virtual clinical evaluation there may be no need to endure the anxiety, family disruption, and discomfort of having to travel back and forth to the nearest major city to receive adequate care. Our goal is to provide a pathway for patients to access specialists and all the necessary emerging diagnostic and therapeutic technologies to manage acute disease states, post-acute care, wellness visits and preventative medical strategies that will help keep patients healthy.”
