A. a description of the issuer's business operations;

ValueRich, Inc. and its wholly owned subsidiaries are in the business of buying, selling, building and marketing Real Estate assets. The company currently owns and operates a 350-acre Development consisting of two communities named Ravello and Visconti. The communities are comprised of 440 build-ready lots, located along the St Lucie River in Port St. Lucie, Florida. The company bought these properties when the real estate market was not performing well and the company has positioned itself to enjoy the rebound of real estate prices, future growth of Florida and new home construction starts. It is our intention as a company to produce a "think different" home for the housing industry that creates a new standard of quality, design and technology, while offering tremendous value and green technology cost efficiencies. Our homes will incorporate a modern architectural style mixed with Mediterranean and Tuscan elements and be designed to be uniquely different than the typical mass-produced home in the Florida market. The Visconti Homes are to be constructed in the residential developments named Visconti.

principal products or services, and their markets;

The Visconti Home is a blend of design driven elements, architectural edginess, technology, quality craftsmanship, and pricing structure should all be key factors in attracting buyers of our homes. As we move forward with our business plan, we recognize that building homes in this country has dramatically changed. Builders are competing against years of overproduction, foreclosures and short sales. One of our core sales and marketing beliefs as builders is the understanding that our product must capture the imagination of potential new homebuyers the way other exciting products have been launched to great fanfare. We believe the Visconti Home will do just that: capture the imagination and attract buyers that will get excited about our quality, design, technology and uniqueness.

While we implement general sales and marketing efforts to attract a wide range of potential homebuyers we also intend to target an up-and-coming demographic that represents a new and growing category of homebuyers. The national housing market has dramatically and significantly changed, but recently new home construction has started breathing life back into the housing market. We are seeing trends where newly built, quality housing product is rebounding. We believe a wide range of buyers including investors, foreigners, upwardly mobile professionals, retirees and first-time homebuyers are purchasing well-designed, quality homes in good neighborhoods.
