NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
FOR THE SIX MONTHS ENDED
JUNE 30, 2015
(Unaudited)

1. The Company's Organization, History, and Current Operations

Automated-X, Inc. (OTC Pink: AUTX), formerly Interline Resources Corporation, develops and integrates next-generation automated technologies into retail store environments and other areas of application where efficiency is improved through automation. The Company intends to take a leading role in automated retail to constantly raise the bar with state-of-the-art convenience, security, and laborsaving technologies. It intends to eventually expand its kiosk offerings in other retail growth sectors, including other automated technology systems focused on convenience and price-driven automation opportunities.

The Company was originally formed in the State of Utah on October 7, 1988, as Port City Corp. In October 1990, the name of the Company was changed to Interline Resources Corporation ("Interline") which operated in the oil and gas industry involving natural gas gathering and processing, a crude pipeline operation, propane retails sales and oil well production in east- central Wyoming and eastern Utah. On October 15, 2009, Interline filed a Form 15 terminating its registration as a 12(g) company and choosing to adopt an alternative-reporting standard for the filing of its subsequent (unaudited) financial reports. On September 21, 2013, Interactive Pipeline Co., which was a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company operating in oil and gas, was spun off in consideration for the surrender back to the Company of a total of 208,597,412 of the Company's common shares by the two senior executives of Interline. At that date, the Company no longer had an interest in pursuing any oil or gas operations. Just prior to the aforementioned spin-off, on August 31, 2013, the Interline acquired Mindstream Media LLC ("Mindstream") through a cashless Stock Exchange Agreement.

On March 26, 2014, DNDK Partners purchased controlling interest in Interline Resources Corp. by acquiring 1,000,000 shares of restricted Series B Preferred Stock and 446,541,107 restricted shares of common stock of the Company. The Series B Preferred Stock has the right to vote 80% of the votes on any matter requiring the vote of shareholders.

On April 8, 2014, the Company reduced its authorized share capital from 2,000,000,000 shares to 500,000,000 shares, and on May 21, 2014, it received approval to process a 1 for 5,000 reverse split of its issued shares such that at that date there were only 166,277 shares issued and outstanding.

On May 27, 2014, the Company then acquired QUICKflickUSA, Inc. ("QUICKflick"), a company incorporated in the State of Washington on August 29, 2011 as an entertainment rental kiosk company, for 60,000,000 shares of common stock of the Company. Originally founded in 2007, QUICKflick quickly became the leading entertainment kiosk retailer in Canada, doing business with major retailers that included Canada Safeway, 7-Eleven Canada and Rexall Drug Stores. A lack of population density in Western Canada led the management team to concentrate its effort in the United States. This strategic acquisition will become the platform for corporate expansion into other high-growth convenience/price-driven retail automation opportunities.

On July 10, 2014, the Company announced, through its Board of Directors, that it had commenced the preparation of a Regulation A filing statement for submission to the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). The offering, subject to market, valuation and business conditions, and other prevailing factors, was anticipated to be for 10 million shares of Regulation A qualified common stock to be offered at between $0.15 to $0.20 per share, not to exceed two million dollars. Due to subsequent corporate events that strengthened the company's operations, the company has not yet amended or refiled the Regulation A statement.

On November 20, 2014, the Company announced a corporate name change to Automated-X, Inc. and that the Board of Directors and majority Shareholders had approved a 5-for-1 forward split. The name change to Automated-X, Inc., better reflecting the strategy and direction of the Company, was approved as an amendment to the Company's Articles of Incorporation by the state of Utah. The Company then proceeded to report to the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) for name change approval as well as request for the new stock trading symbol of AUTX, from IRCE. The 5-for-1 forward split became effective December 3, 2014, while the name and symbol change became effective January 5, 2015.

On January 8, 2015, the Company moved its corporate headquarters to 222 Merchandise Mart Plaza, Suite 12245, Chicago, IL 60654 (from 2950 North Loop West, Suite 500, Houston, TX 77092).

On January 23, 2015, two majority shareholders retired a total of 200 million shares of restricted stock to the Company's stock treasury account. The retirement of this stock reduced the total issued and outstanding shares to 114,669,205 shares, significantly increasing the ownership percentage of the Company by its public shareholders.

On April 6, 2015 the Company issued a total of 2,073,346 restricted common shares to certain Officers in lieu of compensation, which increased the total issued and outstanding common shares To 116,742,551.

Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Accounting Treatment Following the Acquisition of QUICKflickUSA, Inc.

As a result of the acquisition of QUICKflickUSA, Inc. ("QUICKflick") on May 27, 2014, with the Company's stock, for accounting purposes, QUICKflick was treated as the continuing reporting entity. The financial reports filed after this transaction have been prepared as if QUICKflick were the legal successor regarding the Company's reporting obligations as of the date of the acquisition. Therefore, all financial statements filed subsequent to the transaction reflect the historical financial condition, results of operations and cash flows of QUICKflick, for all periods presented.

Cash

The Company may maintain cash and cash equivalent balances at financial institutions that are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Deposits with these banks may exceed the amount of insurance provided on such deposits; however, these deposits typically may be redeemed upon demand and, therefore, bear minimal risk. The Company did not have any cash equivalents at either June 30, 2015 or December 31, 2014.

Accounts Receivable

Accounts receivable are valued at management's estimate of the amount that will ultimately be collected.

Inventory

The Company presently adopts the conservative approach of expensing the cost of purchasing DVD inventory for its kiosks within cost of sales. Accordingly, no inventory of DVD's on hand at the end of any accounting period is reflected on the Company's balance sheet. This may cause spikes in our cost of sales from time to time based on the timing when larger quantities of newly released DVD's are purchased to stock our kiosks.

Fixed Assets

Fixed assets are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation. Depreciation is recorded on a straight-line basis over a period of the shorter of the related applicable lease term or the estimated useful lives of the assets ranging from three to five years.

Other Long Term Asset (Note Receivable)

The note receivable from Avanti has been performing as anticipated. This note, received in August 2014, was for the sale of the MindStream asset that was sold because it no longer fit with the overall corporate strategy. In management's opinion, the note is performing and is fully collectible.

Revenue recognition

Revenue from the sale and rental of films is recognized upon the customer making the sale or rental transaction at the relevant QUICKflick kiosk.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions (if any) that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Net Loss per Share

Net loss per share is calculated using the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding during the year. The Company has adopted the provisions of SFAS No. 128, Earnings per Share.

Provision for Income Taxes

At this time, no provision for the payment of income taxes is required on the results of the Company's operations through June 30, 2015. Accumulated net losses through June 30, 2015 totaled $2,366,947.

Liabilities

The Company's liabilities are as follows:

Accounts Payable and Accrued Expenses totaled $ 360,954 and $239,688 at June 30, 2015, and December 31, 2014, respectively. These are obligations that are incurred during the normal course of the operating cycle.

Debt Payable totaled $ 673,369 and $576,479 at June 30, 2015 and December 31, 2014, respectively, of which $ 105,843 is due within 12 months of June 30, 2015 and of which $ 557,140 and $ 407,328 at June 30, 2015 and December 31, 2014 respectively are due to related parties.

Stockholders' Equity (Deficit)

The Company's stockholders' net deficit amounted to $(526,873) at June 30, 2015, compared with a net deficit of $(214,800) at December 31, 2014 primarily due to the net operating loss of $(322,440) incurred for the 6 months ended June 30, 2015.

6) Issuer's Business, Products & Services / Management Discussion & Analysis

The following Management's Discussion & Analysis (MD&A) should be read in conjunction with Automated-X, Inc. financial statements for the six months ending June 30, 2015, and the notes thereto. The Accompanying Financial Statements have been prepared from the books and records of the Company and have not been subject to independent review and audit. The financials reflect all adjustments known to management necessary to fairly reflect the results of operations and financial position of the Company for the periods presented. This MD&A is prepared as of June 30, 2015.

These forward-looking statements are often identified by the use of forward-looking terminology such as "believes," "expects," "anticipate," "optimistic," "intend," "will" or other similar expressions. Description of Business

Automated-X develops and integrates next-generation automation technologies into retail chain store environments. The Company provides its sophisticated services on a turnkey basis to major retail chains via a symbiotic relationship with our retail hosts and their built-in customer bases. Automated-X currently maintains one single backend, integrating each business unit, ensuring efficiencies which include integrated reporting, inventory management, customer tracking, data services, security and other integrated information technologies. Operating in a rapidly-growing market segment, the Company pays as much attention to back-end integration and ongoing engagement as to front-end placement and experience, making the transaction faster and easier for the customer and more profitable for the retailer. Above all, the Company focuses on an engaging and rewarding customer experience, which benefits all stakeholders.

Automated-X acquired QUICKflickUSA, Inc. ("QUICKflick") in Q2 2014. QUICKflick was the first to broadly test the entertainment kiosk rental concept in Canada. The Canadian test allowed QUICKflick to develop a better expandable kiosk technology and gain critical knowledge in operating and expanding a kiosk operation. QUICKflick then entered the US market in 2011 in order to capitalize on the strong consumer interest in movie entertainment, an established familiarity with the self-service retail concept, and a market that is 10x the size of the domestic Canadian market. QUICKflick retained critical industry experts to help define the opportunity in the US market and the marketplace in general, the value proposition to the consumer, and to develop a strong expandable technological platform.

QUICKflick aims to place its kiosks in high traffic retail locations inclusive of grocery, drug, and convenience stores that consumers visit frequently. This allows our products to be an easy, impulse buy (or rental), minimizing the need to go out of the way or to preplan other entertainment options. To rent a title, consumers use an interactive user interface to browse and select any one of our many titles, swipe their credit or debit card, and receive movies or video games. They can return their rentals to any of our locations, not necessarily the same location where the movie was rented. In addition, our consumers may reserve a movie or video game online and pick it up at the selected kiosk location. Most kiosks have an average of upwards of 400 different titles available for rental with a kiosk capacity of up to 800 discs, both of which are higher than the industry average by 50% - 60%. For each night the consumer chooses to keep their movie or video game, they are charged a nightly rental fee for each disc rented. Our nightly rental fee is as follows: DVD - $1.35; Blu-ray - $1.50; Games - $2.00, per night, per disc, plus applicable taxes. Rentals are due back the following night by 9PM. For each night that each product is kept out past 9PM, customers are charged the nightly rental fee until the disc is returned, up to 14 days at which time the disc is theirs to keep and they are charged for the purchase of the disc only (nightly rental fees are not charged in this scenario).

During Q4 2014, we commenced to deployment of kiosks in 13 locations in Remke Markets, a regional grocer in the Cincinnati metropolitan area. The machines continued to operate during the six months ended June 30, 2015. QUICKflick offers more value to customers by providing the best content sooner, and quicker than competitors as well as daily rental fees that are currently 10% lower than major competitors. This combination gives QUICKflick a competitive edge over other market providers. Further, QUICKflick looks to align itself with more independent studios and filmmakers to allow content to go direct to the consumer. Many independent filmmakers have quality product that does not fit within the framework of traditional distribution methods. QUICKflick will be looking to help these groups find an audience for their creations.

For consumers, QUICKflick offers a simple and inexpensive life routine without sacrificing quality. For retailers, a kiosk program is another source of revenue and differentiation from their competition, while providing a value-added, loyalty-based service to their consumers, without committing large capital investments or operational budgets to do so. Differentiating features include:

QUICKflick has the unique ability to release a wide selection of new release movies without the usual 28-day delay in the release of new content that most of the larger DVD rental providers have to deal with.

QUICKflick currently offers a less expensive fee structure than its competitors by about 10%.

QUICKflick machines are quicker, so customers experience faster rent and return times, resulting in less wait.

Operating results for the 6 months ended June 30, 2015

Industry and Consumer

Inclusive of Blu-ray and video games, the DVD rental industry is estimated at about $3.3B, with the largest competitor (Redbox) owning the majority of the physical disc rental market. Total filmed entertainment spending by consumers is projected to double over the next 3-5 years. Current projections suggest some additional growth in digital consumer entertainment at the expense of the physical content, however, the physical disc rental market is still estimated to remain strong over the next 3-5 years.

While there is little doubt about the continued growth in digital entertainment spending, we also believe the current DVD and Blu-ray rental industry projections underestimate the demand from a continued influx of the value-conscious immigration population, aging population, and everyday regular consumers who prefer inexpensive, impulse driven entertainment solutions not requiring additional equipment, high-speed Internet coverage, or long-term contracts when they simply want to watch a movie. According to the 2012 US Census Bureau, over half of the US population's households live on combined incomes of $50k or less. This population audience is likely price sensitive, especially with respect to discretionary spending, including movie entertainment, and, therefore, represents a logical target customer for our value proposition.

Our success is driven both by consumers and Retailer-Partners. For consumers, we offer a simple and inexpensive life routine without sacrificing quality. For Retailers, a kiosk program is another source of revenue and differentiation from their competition, while providing a value-added, loyalty-based service to their consumers, without committing large capital investments or operational budgets to do so.

A recent Markets and Markets research report:
(http://www.marketsandmarkets.com/Market- Reports/retail-automation-market-1247.html) announced that the total retail automation market was valued at $93.04 billion in 2013 and is expected to reach $275.43 billion by 2020, at a CAGR of 16.7% between 2014 and 2020. Retail automation has witnessed profound growth in the last five years. Governmental regulations and retailers wanting to save costs on the industry products are expected to be future key drivers. According to the report, both these factors are expected to be the key drivers for the retail automation market. Growing awareness of new technologies and the developments towards the integration of such technologies are also expected to propel the market growth in the future. The global retail automation market is segmented into three categories that include: products type, industry vertical, and geography, with product segment including the unattended terminal or kiosk. Impactful design combined with technology is leading to kiosks that can offer unique solutions and experiences to shoppers.

Retailers and brands are attracted to kiosks for three major reasons:

- The small footprint that Automated Retail units command allows retailers to potentially gain revenues and profits from underutilized spaces and for brands to gain additional space in-store.
- Units can provide the speed and convenience of shopping online.
- Units can provide shoppers with new experiences that complement and enhance the overall shopper experience.

The report reaffirms management's market focus.
