The merger among AppTech and Transcendent was accounted for as a reverse acquisition and change in reporting entity, whereby Transcendent was the accounting acquirer. At the date of acquisition, AppTech didn't have any operations and nor significant assets and liabilities. Holders of shares of common stock are entitled to one vote for each share on all matters to be voted on by the stockholders. Holders of common stock do not have cumulative voting rights. Subject to preferences that may be applicable to any outstanding shares of preferred stock, the holders of common stock are entitled to share ratably in dividends, if any, as may be declared from time to time by the board of directors in its discretion from funds legally available therefore. Holders of common stock have no preemptive rights to purchase the common stock. There are no conversion or redemption rights or sinking fund provisions with respect to the common stock. The Issuer may issue additional shares of common stock which could dilute its current shareholder's share value.

Preferred Stock:

Additional class of securities: 100,000 shares of preferred stock

Shares of preferred stock may be issued from time to time in one or more series as may be determined by the board of directors. The board of directors may fix the designation, powers, preferences and rights of the shares of each such series and the qualifications, limitations or restrictions thereof without any further vote or action by the stockholders of the Issuer, except that no holder of preferred stock shall have preemptive rights. Any shares of preferred stock so issued would typically have priority over the common stock with respect to dividend or liquidation rights. Any future issuance of preferred stock may have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change in control of the Issuer without further action by the stockholders and may adversely affect the voting and other rights of the holders of common stock.

At present, the Issuer has no plans to issue any preferred stock or adopt any series, preferences or other classification of preferred stock. The issuance of shares of preferred stock, or the issuance of rights to purchase such shares, could be used to discourage an unsolicited acquisition proposal. For instance, the issuance of a series of preferred stock might impede a business combination by including class voting rights that would enable the holder to block such a transaction, or facilitate a business combination by including voting rights that would provide a required percentage vote of the stockholders. In addition, under certain circumstances, the issuance of preferred stock could adversely affect the voting power of the holders of the common stock.

As of the date of this Information Statement, the following series of preferred shares have been designated and created with the respective rights and preferences:

With respect to payment of dividends and other distributions on the capital stock of the Issuer, including the distribution of assets upon liquidation, the Series A preferred stock shall be equal to the common stock and junior to all other series of preferred stock. The holders of Series A preferred stock shall be entitled to receive dividends or distribution on a pro rata basis according to their holdings of shares of Series A preferred stock on an "as converted" basis. Each share of Series A preferred stock shall be convertible, at the option of the holder, at any time into 780 shares of common stock (the "Conversion Price"). In the event the Issuer declares a distribution, the holders of the Series A preferred stock shall be entitled to a proportionate share of any such distribution as though they were the holders of the number of shares of common stock into which their shares of Series A preferred stock are convertible as of the record date. The holders of the Series A preferred stock and the holders of common stock shall vote together and not as separate classes and the Series A preferred stock shall be counted on an "as converted" basis.

The Company valued the common stock given up at $430,000, based upon the closing market price of the Company's common stock on the date of the transaction. The Company accounted for the Pub Co. common stock received as a trading security and thus an immediate gain of $270,000 was recorded due to the fair market value of the Pub Co. common stock received having a fair market value of $700,000 based upon the closing market price of that security.

Reverse Stock Split

Pursuant to the terms and provisions of the Merger Agreement, the Board of Directors authorized and approved a reverse stock split of one for twenty thousand (1:20,000) of the Issuer's total issued and outstanding shares of common stock (the "Stock Split"). The Board of Directors considered further factors regarding approval of the Stock Split including, but not limited to: (i) current trading price of the Issuer's shares of common stock on the OTC Market Pink Sheets and potential to increase the marketability and liquidity of the Issuer's common stock; (ii) possible reluctance of brokerage firms and institutional investors to recommend lower-priced stocks to their clients or to hold in their own portfolios; (iii) desire to meet future requirements of per-share price and net tangible assets and shareholders' equity relating to admission for trading on other markets; and (iv) posturing the Issuer and its structure in favorable position in order to effectively negotiate with potential business partners or financings. The shareholders holding a majority of the total issued and outstanding common stock of the Corporation approved the Stock Split.

The Stock Split was effectuated on May 3, 2013 upon filing the appropriate documentation with FINRA. All share and per share amounts have been reflected throughout this document.
