NOHO, INC.
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
Consolidated/Unaudited
For the Year Ended December 31, 2014

NOTE 1 – SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Organization

The Company was incorporated on December 3, 2010 (Date of Inception) under the laws of the State of California, as Dolce Bevuto, LLC. On February 8, 2013, the Company was domiciled from a California limited liability company to a Nevada corporation. As a result of conversion from a limited liability company to a corporation, the financial statements of the Company have been prepared retroactively as if the Company was a corporation as December 3, 2010.

On April 1, 2013, we acquired 100% of the issued and outstanding common stock of Dolce Bevuto, Inc. Under the share exchange agreement, Noho, Inc. issued 12,713,763 shares of its common stock to various individuals and entities in exchange for 100% of Dolce Bevuto, Inc. Additionally, under the share exchange agreement, the former officers and directors of Noho, Inc. agreed to cancel 19,760,000 shares of common stock. For accounting purposes, the acquisition of the Dolce Bevuto, Inc. by Noho, Inc. has been accounted for as a recapitalization, similar to a reverse acquisition except no goodwill is recorded, whereby the private company, Dolce Bevuto, Inc., in substance acquired a non-operational public company (Noho, Inc.) with nominal assets and liabilities for the purpose of becoming a public company. Accordingly, Dolce Bevuto, Inc. is considered the acquirer for accounting purposes and thus, the historical financials are primarily that of Dolce Bevuto, Inc. As a result of this transaction, Noho, Inc. changed its business direction and is now a beverage business. Dolce Bevuto, Inc. was incorporated on December 3, 2010 (Date of Inception) and accordingly, the accompanying financial statements are from the Date of Inception of Dolce Bevuto, Inc. through ending reporting periods reflected.

The financial statements of the Company have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and are expressed in U.S. dollars. The Company's fiscal year end is December 31.

Nature of operations

Currently, the Company is focused on the production and sale of NOHO, a beverage for hangover defense. The Company purchases raw materials and outsources the manufacturing to a third party.

Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ significantly from those estimates.

Fair value of financial instruments

We utilize ASC 820-10, Fair Value Measurement and Disclosure, for valuing financial assets and liabilities measured on a recurring basis. Fair value is defined as the exit price, or the amount that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants as of the measurement date. The guidance also establishes a hierarchy for inputs used in measuring fair value that maximizes the use of observable inputs and minimizes the use of unobservable inputs by requiring that the most observable inputs be used when available. Observable inputs are inputs market participants would use in valuing the asset or liability and are developed based on market data obtained from sources independent of our Company. Unobservable inputs are inputs that reflect our Company's assumptions about the factors market participants would use in valuing the asset or liability. The guidance establishes three levels of inputs that may be used to measure fair value:

Level 1. Observable inputs such as quoted prices in active markets;
Level 2. Inputs, other than the quoted prices in active markets, that are observable either directly or indirectly; and
Level 3. Unobservable inputs in which there is little or no market data, which require the reporting entity to develop its own assumptions.

As of December 31, 2014, and 2013, we did not have any level 2 or 3 assets or liabilities.

Cash and cash equivalents
For the purpose of the statements of cash flows, all highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less are considered to be cash equivalents. The carrying value of these investments approximates fair value. As of December 31, 2014 and 2013, there are no cash equivalents.

Accounts receivable
The Company uses the allowance method to account for uncollectible accounts receivable. The allowance for doubtful accounts represents the Company's best estimate of the amount of probable credit losses in the Company's existing accounts receivable. The Company determines the allowance based on specific customer information, historical write-off experience and current industry and economic data. Account balances are charged off against the allowance when the Company believes it is probable the receivable will not be recovered. Management believes that there are no concentrations of credit risk for which an allowance has not been established. Although management believes that the allowance is adequate, it is possible that the estimated amount of cash collections with respect to accounts receivable could change. Accounts receivable are presented net of an allowance for doubtful accounts of $0 and $0 at December 31, 2014 and 2013, respectively.

Inventory
Inventories are stated at the lower of cost (first-in, first-out basis) or market (net realizable value).

Fixed assets
The Company records all property and equipment at cost less accumulated depreciation. Improvements are capitalized while repairs and maintenance costs are expensed as incurred. Depreciation is calculated using the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of the assets or the lease term, whichever is shorter. Leasehold improvements include the cost of the Company's internal development and construction department. Depreciation periods are as follows:

Computer equipment 3 years
Furniture and fixtures 7 years

Intangible assets
ASC 350 requires that goodwill and intangible assets with indefinite useful lives no longer be amortized, but instead tested for impairment at least annually in accordance with the provisions of ASC 350. This standard also requires that intangible assets with definite useful lives be amortized over their respective estimated useful lives to their estimated residual values, and reviewed for impairment. As of December 31, 2014 and 2013, the Company recorded $0 and $0 of impairment of its intangible assets.

The Company's intangible assets consist of the costs of filing and acquiring various patents and trademarks. The trademarks are recorded at cost. The Company determined that the trademarks have an estimated useful life of approximately 11 years and will be reviewed annually for impairment. Amortization will be recorded over the estimated useful life of the assets using the straight-line method for financial statement purposes. The Company commenced amortization during March 2011.

Stock-based compensation
The Company records stock-based compensation in accordance with the guidance in ASC Topic 505 and 718 which requires the Company to recognize expenses related to the fair value of its employee stock option awards. This eliminates accounting for share-based compensation transactions using the intrinsic value and requires instead that such transactions be accounted for using a fair-value-based method. The Company recognizes the cost of all share-based awards on a graded vesting basis over the vesting period of the award.

The Company accounts for equity instruments issued in exchange for the receipt of goods or services from other than employees in accordance with FASB ASC 718-10 and the conclusions reached by the FASB ASC 505-50. Costs are measured at the estimated fair market value of the consideration received or the estimated fair value of the equity instruments issued, whichever is more reliably measurable. The value of equity instruments issued for consideration other than employee services is determined on the earliest of a performance commitment or completion of performance by the provider of goods or services as defined by FASB ASC 505-50.

Revenue recognition
The Company recognizes revenues from sale of products when the items have shipped and title has transferred to the purchaser.

As of December 31, 2014, the Company had deferred revenue of $0.

Advertising costs

Advertising costs are anticipated to be expensed as incurred. Advertising costs included in general and administrative expenses totaled $136,571 and $309,986 for the years ended December 31, 2014 and 2013, respectively.

Income taxes

We account for income taxes in accordance with ASC 740-10, Income Taxes. We recognize deferred tax assets and liabilities to reflect the estimated future tax effects, calculated at currently effective tax rates, of future deductible or taxable amounts attributable to events that have been recognized on a cumulative basis in the consolidated financial statements. A valuation allowance related to a deferred tax asset is recorded when it is more likely than not that some portion of the deferred tax asset will not be realized. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are adjusted for the effects of the changes in tax laws and rates of the date of enactment.

ASC 740-10 prescribes a recognition threshold that a tax position is required to meet before being recognized in the financial statements and provides guidance on recognition, measurement, classification, interest and penalties, accounting in interim periods, disclosure and transition issues. We classify interest and penalties as a component of interest and other expenses. To date, there have been no interest or penalties assessed or paid.

We measure and record uncertain tax positions by establishing a threshold for the financial statement recognition and measurement of a tax position taken or expected to be taken in a tax return. Only tax positions meeting the more-likely-than-not recognition threshold at the effective date may be recognized or continue to be recognized.

The Company has no income tax provision for the period ended December 31, 2013, and 2014, due to recurring net losses.

Loss per common share

Net loss per share is provided in accordance with ASC Subtopic 260-10. We present basic loss per share ("EPS") and diluted EPS on the face of the statements of operations. Basic EPS is computed by dividing reported losses by the weighted average shares outstanding. Loss per common share has been computed using the weighted average number of common shares outstanding during the year.

Recent pronouncements

In August 2014, the FASB issued Accounting Standards Update No. 2014-15, Presentation of Financial Statements—Going Concern, which requires management to evaluate, at each annual and interim reporting period, whether there are conditions or events that raise substantial doubt about the entity's ability to continue as a going concern within one year after the date the financial statements are issued and provide related disclosures. ASU 2014-15 is effective for annual periods ending after December 15, 2016 and interim periods thereafter. Early application is permitted. Management is still in the process of assessing the impact of ASU 2014-15 on the Company's consolidated financial statements

There are no other recently issued accounting pronouncements or standards updates that the Company has yet to adopt that are expected to have a material effect on its financial position, results of operations, or cash flows.

NOTE 2 – GOING CONCERN

The accompanying unaudited financial statements have been prepared assuming that the Company will continue as a going concern, which contemplates the recoverability of assets and the satisfaction of liabilities in the normal course of business. Since its inception, the Company has been engaged substantially in financing activities and developing its business plan and marketing. As a result, the Company incurred accumulated net losses from inception (December 3, 2010) through the period ended December 31, 2014 of $10,673,804.

The ability of the Company to continue as a going concern is dependent upon its ability to raise additional capital from the sale of common stock or through debt financing and, ultimately, the achievement of significant operating revenues. These financial statements do not include any adjustments relating to the recoverability and classification of recorded asset amounts, or amounts and classification of liabilities that might result from this uncertainty.

"NOHO® Gold"

Our flagship product NOHO® – The Hangover Defense® ("NOHO") is a dietary supplement, taken before and after the consumption of alcohol that may help to prevent the symptoms associated with a hangover. Industry Overview

The functional lifestyle beverage category includes relaxation drinks, and ready-to-drink (RTD) teas and coffees. Functional beverages play an important role in our everyday lives. They can help people stay hydrated, some are designed to prevent and help address health conditions, or simply contribute to overall nutritional well-being. These beverages include functional ingredients such as nutrients (vitamins, minerals, amino acids, nutraceuticals, etc.), zero-calories sweeteners and stabilizers.

The global functional drinks market has been forecast to increase at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8.7% for the five-year period 2011 - 2016, increasing from total revenues of $59,103.9 million in 2011, to a value of $89,665.6 million by the end of 2016. Manufacturing and Distribution

We do not directly manufacture our products, but instead outsource the manufacturing process to third-party bottlers and contract packers.

The Company’s distribution strategy is grounded in providing access to the product by initially penetrating key strategic metropolitan service areas. The Company’s plan is focused on developing a deep, versus wide distribution channel, by engaging in strategic partnerships. The Company’s goal is to develop local markets, drive demand locally in each of these markets, and create strong brand awareness and consumer loyalty.

Marketing and Advertising

NOHO is one of the first companies to market a liquid-based hangover protection beverage, positioned as “an over-the-counter proprietary formulation called “NOHO®”—“The Hangover Defense®.” NOHO has also the created a new beverage category branded as the “Premium Lifestyle Beverage.”

NOHO is the one of the first liquid hangover protection products targeting persons from all walks of life including businessmen, socialites, college students, mothers, casual drinkers, and image and lifestyle conscious consumers. Our marketing strategies and sales tactics will incorporate the many attributes we believe are important to this target market and will include associative advertising and promotion by celebrity influencers and influential local consumers to proactively develop this underdeveloped and untapped market. “NOHO”—“The Hangover Defense is the first custom-marketed hangover protection liquid solution sold On-Premise, at the point of consumption.

NOHO has developed key relationships with influential nightclubs, local radio, Celebrities, DJs and athletes as part of its Marketing and Promotion strategy. In addition to traditional promotion, viral marketing campaigns, including Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, and Instagram and, finally, assimilation with product promotions with other products such as premium spirit brands will be employed. The Company’s marketing message will be effectively communicated while also advocating the safe and responsible consumption of alcoholic beverages. Sponsorship and promotion activities will portray an active lifestyle and hangover-free experience, utilizing adults, teams of NOHO representatives and various forms of local and regional promotion and product sampling. As part of its sales strategy and tactics, the Company is developing a team of experienced beverage sales personnel to form key relationships with On-Premise establishments, convenience and mass-market stores, and wholesalers/distributors.

Symptoms and Causes of Hangovers

The common term "hangover" describes the physiological effects following consumption of alcohol. It is associated with an assortment of symptoms that may include dehydration, fatigue, headache, nausea, and a variety of other symptoms (see generally http://www.mayoclinic.com/print/hangovers/DS00649). The symptoms vary person by person and may begin several hours after drinking. Hangovers are a frequent unpleasant experience among people who drink. Despite the prevalence of hangovers, this condition is not well understood scientifically. Multiple possible contributors to the hangover state have been investigated, and researchers have produced evidence that alcohol can directly promote hangover symptoms. (see http://www.mayoclinic.com/health/hangovers/DS00649/DSECTION=causes).

Anti-Hangover Remedies

The anti-hangover market is highly fragmented with many competing products most of which are not effective. This has created a perception in the minds of consumers that the categories of products generally do not work. The consumer continues to attempt to treat a hangover with over-the-counter medication that can potentially have dangerous side effects. For example, ibuprofen (Advil, Motrin) and acetaminophen (Tylenol) are not recommended to be taken with or after alcohol consumption. Other products, used as alcohol mixers containing caffeine, can lead to the development of caffeine toxicity. This is caused by alcohol's ability to inhibit the metabolism of caffeine resulting in agitation, inability to sleep (a contributor to hangover), and a higher risk of cardiovascular side effects. However, we believe that preventing the effects of alcohol consumption by preventing alcoholic ketoacidosis (AKA) is the most effective method.

According to Medline Plus, as service of the U.S. National Library of Medicine, AKA is a buildup of ketones, a type of acid that forms when the body breaks down fat for energy; generally caused by excessive alcohol use (see http://www.nlm.nih.gov/medlineplus/ency/article/000323.htm). This is where the Company's proprietary non-stimulant formulation comes into play. AKA is typically reversed by combining sugar, water, fats and a special blend of trace elements. NOHO is intended to help prevent hangover by placing and replacing some of these elements into the body prior to drinking alcohol.

Unlike other remedies that focus on reversing a hangover, which is a difficult task, NOHO seeks to help those taking it as a preemptive measure. It is also helpful in pre-plenishing the body with electrolytes to avoid the aggravating electrolyte disturbances. Unfortunately, diuresis (increased production of urine) removes many of the essential minerals from the body that may be useful in preventing a hangover. NOHO preloads your body with these vital elements. The addition of herbal remedies commonly believed to help alleviate other symptoms, most notably ginger's effect on nausea, allow NOHO to address many of the common contributing factors that characterize a hangover. Despite the incomplete scientific data related to hangover treatment, a sizeable market opportunity exists for an innovative product that can potentially prevent or mitigate the symptoms of a hangover. The Company has developed such a product, has sampled it with random consumers, and has received promising feedback on its effectiveness. NOHO can help fortify and protect the body from the adverse effects of alcohol. NOHO is recommended for use when consuming even small amounts of alcohol.

The Hangover Protection Market

People make a wide variety of choices about drinking including whether to drink at all, and how much to consume if they do decide to drink. According to the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, in the United States it is estimated that 17.1% of Americans (10.33% of men and 6.77% of women) over the age of 18 have at least one drink a week. As a result, hangovers may affect millions of people annually as a result of drinking and the hangover market has been cluttered with home remedies and various combinations of over-the-counter medications. The Company believes the liquid anti-hangover category, unlike the energy drink category, is underdeveloped and underserved. In addition, this category has never been developed using a proactive approach despite the many competing solid-dosage product offerings.

The Company believes that anti-hangover remedies have traditionally been marketed as medicinal remedies for those actively experiencing hangover symptoms. This approach has likely reduced the sales potential for these brands versus the Company's preventative approach. The Company, unlike its many potential competitors, will market and sell the product at the point of alcohol consumption ("On-Premise"), as well as in traditional retail outlets. On-Premise sales in establishments such as bars, restaurants, nightclubs and casinos, will be a focus of all Company promotional activities to help create market and brand awareness to a multitude of consumers. This is in addition to marketing and selling NOHO through the more traditional sales channels that include convenience stores, drug chains and mass retailers. There are currently about 50 products on the market that purport to cure hangovers, none of which are currently offered at "on premise" locations.

Competition

The beverage industry is highly competitive. A number of companies who market and distribute anti-hangover drinks have recently emerged, including Hangover Joe's Recovery Shot, Security Feel Better – Anti-Hangover Drink, and Mercy Hangover Prevention.

The principal areas of competition are pricing, packaging, development of new products and flavors as well as promotional and marketing strategies. NOHO competes with other hangover related drinks produced by a number of companies, many of which have substantially greater financial, marketing and distribution resources than we do.

Important factors affecting our ability to compete successfully include taste and flavor of products, trade and consumer promotions, rapid and effective development and marketing of new, unique cutting edge products, attractive and different packaging, branded product advertising, and pricing. We also compete for distributors who will give our products more focus than those of our competitors, provide stable and reliable distribution and secure adequate shelf space in retail outlets. Competitive pressures in the "lifestyle," "alternative" and "functional" beverage categories could cause our products to be unable to gain or to lose market share or we could experience price erosion, which could have a material adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

We are also subject to increasing levels of regulatory issues particularly in relation to the registration and taxation of our products in certain new international markets, which may put us at a competitive disadvantage.
