NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED
FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
For The Nine Months Ended
SEPTEMBER 30, 2015
(Unaudited)

1. The Company's Organization, History, and Current Operations

Saddle Ranch Media, Inc. (OTC Pink: SRMX), formerly Automated-X, Inc. and Interline Resources Corporation, has three new operating divisions which collectively represent Saddle Ranch Media. These three divisions are Saddle Ranch Pictures, which produces and finances genre films primarily intended for youth audiences (ages 13-30) ,focusing on comedies and action films in the $5-25 million budget range; Saddle Ranch TV, which produces original content in reality, scripted and documentaries, bringing the most compelling characters to traditional television, as well through alternative distribution models, and Saddle Ranch Digital, which provides interactive and dynamic cutting edge digital technology and award winning content for digital TV networks.

The Company was originally formed in the State of Utah on October 7, 1988, as Port City Corp. In October 1990, the name of the Company was changed to Interline Resources Corporation ("Interline") which operated in the oil and gas industry involving natural gas gathering and processing, a crude pipeline operation, propane retails sales and oil well production in east-central Wyoming and eastern Utah. On October 15, 2009, Interline filed a Form 15 terminating its registration as a 12(g) company and choosing to adopt an alternative-reporting standard for the filing of its subsequent (unaudited) financial reports. On September 21, 2013, Interactive Pipeline Co., which was a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company operating in oil and gas, was spun off in consideration for the surrender back to the Company of a total of 208,597,412 of the Company's common shares by the two senior executives of Interline. At that date, the Company no longer had an interest in pursuing any oil or gas operations. Just prior to the aforementioned spin-off, on August 31, 2013, the Interline acquired Mindstream Media LLC ("Mindstream") through a cashless Stock Exchange Agreement.

On March 26, 2014, DNDK Partners purchased controlling interest in Interline Resources Corp. by acquiring 1,000,000 shares of restricted Series B Preferred Stock and 446,541,107 restricted shares of common stock of the Company. The Series B Preferred Stock has the right to vote 80% of the votes on any matter requiring the vote of shareholders.

On April 8, 2014, the Company reduced its authorized share capital from 2,000,000,000 shares to 500,000,000 shares, and on May 21, 2014, it received approval to process a 1 for 5,000 reverse split of its issued shares such that at that date there were only 166,277 shares issued and outstanding.

On May 27, 2014, the Company then acquired QUICKflickUSA, Inc. ("QUICKflick"), a company incorporated in the State of Washington on August 29, 2011 as an entertainment rental kiosk company, for 60,000,000 shares of common stock of the Company.

On July 10, 2014, the Company announced, through its Board of Directors, that it had commenced the preparation of a Regulation A filing statement for submission to the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). The offering, subject to market, valuation and business conditions, and other prevailing factors, was anticipated to be for 10 million shares of Regulation A qualified common stock to be offered at between $0.15 to $0.20 per share, not to exceed two million dollars. Due to subsequent corporate events that strengthened the company's operations, the company has not yet amended or refiled the Regulation A statement.

On November 20, 2014, the Company announced a corporate name change to Automated-X, Inc. and that the Board of Directors and majority Shareholders had approved a 5-for-1 forward split. The name change to Automated-X, Inc., better reflecting the strategy and direction of the Company, was approved as an amendment to the Company's Articles of Incorporation by the state of Utah. The Company then proceeded to report to the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) for name change approval as well as request for the new stock trading symbol of AUTX, from IRCE. The 5-for-1 forward split became effective December 3, 2014, while the name and symbol change became effective January 5, 2015.

On January 8, 2015, the Company moved its corporate headquarters to 222 Merchandise Mart Plaza, Suite 12245, Chicago, IL 60654 (from 2950 North Loop West, Suite 500, Houston, TX 77092).

On January 23, 2015, two majority shareholders retired a total of 200 million shares of restricted stock to the Company's stock treasury account. The retirement of this stock reduced the total issued and outstanding shares to 114,669,205 shares, significantly increasing the ownership percentage of the Company by its public shareholders.

On April 6, 2015 the Company issued a total of 2,073,346 restricted common shares to Certain Officers in lieu of compensation, which increased the total issued and outstanding common shares to 116,742,551.

Effective August 25, 2015 the Company moved its executive offices to 3780 W. Richmar Avenue, Las Vegas, NV 89139.

On August 25, 2015 Philp Cohen agreed to surrender back to the Company's Treasury 30,000,000 of the Company's common shares that he received from the SRPI acquisition, such that his holding was reduced to 55,500,000 common shares. Also on August 25, 2015 the Company agreed to issue 500,000 common shares to John White (a former Vice President and Secretary of the Company) in recognition of his continuing services as a consultant to the Company.

The net result of the August 15 and 25, 2015 events resulted in the reduction of the Company's issued and outstanding common shares from 116,742,551 to 87,242,551, while the Company's issued and outstanding Series B preferred shares remained unchanged at 1,000,000.

Description of Business

Saddle Ranch Media, Inc. (the "Company") engages in the acquisition, development, packaging and sale of projects (the "Projects") in the film, television, and digital media areas of the entertainment industry through its Film Production, Television Production and Digital Media divisions.

Besides producing films under its own label including "Grooming Giselle." "Rock and Roll: The Movie" and "Dream in American," Saddle Ranch Pictures is a partner in Troika Pictures, Inc. which produced "The Call" with Academy Award winners Halle Berry and Abigail Breslin, "The Road Within" with Zoe Kravitz and Dev Patel, and the soon to be released "Careful What You Wish For" starring Nick Jonas with Isabel Lucas, Dermot Mulroney and Paul Sorvino.

Saddle Ranch TV has produced two recent documentaries, "Getting to the Point: The Truth about Vaccines" and "Swallow This" Navigating the Dietary Supplement Industry."

Saddle Ranch Digital ("SRD") is a partner in PetCARE TV, LLC which airs over 100 educational programs in veterinary waiting and exam rooms and a web-based network at www.mypetcaretv.com. SRD produces all the award-winning educational content for place-based media networks, KidCARE TV, PetCARE TV, and Women's HealthCARE TV. This programming airs daily in thousands of physician offices. SRD also services clients such as Jet Blue, Sears and Metro-PCS with creative digital video production.

Film Production Division

Through its Film Division, the Company will continue the historical business of Saddle Ranch Pictures of sourcing, developing and producing quality independent theatrical-release films.

Film Division Projects may be developed internally from initiation, or entered into at any stage in development. Developed Projects may be "packaged" and sold prior to production, or produced by the Company. A "packaged" Project is one in which all elements needed to begin production have been accomplished, including script development and casting, other than financing. For any Projects not sold by the Company, the Company will be at least a co-producer, and will generally seek co-producers to its produced Projects, both to validate viability and to minimize dollars at risk.

Film Division Projects may come from a variety of sources, including:

- Unsought script submissions, or directed script development
- Developed and partially or completely "packaged" projects from other developers or producers
- Developed and partially or fully "packaged" projects from the Company's relationships with talent agencies.

The Company's focus on filmed entertainment is a product of its view that filmed entertainment industry has grown consistently over the past 80 years, and has proven to be one of the most recession-proof revenue streams. According to PWC's Global Entertainment and Media Outlook, 2014 – 2018, filmed entertainment revenue will surpass $100BN annually by 2017, rising at a CAGR of 4.5%. PWC projects that the risk will come in all markets—mature markets like the U.S., U.K. and Japan, and emerging markets. While PWC projects that traditional box office will grow, the risk will be particularly strong in video-on-demand (VOD) and over-the top streaming services (OTT), such as Netflix and Hulu.

Through its acquisition of Saddle Ranch Pictures, the Company already owns all or (in the case of its participation in Troika Pictures) a portion of many filmed entertainment Projects.

The Company owns a 7.5% partnership interest in Troika Pictures, where Philip Cohen, the Company's Chief Executive Officer, also serves as an executive producer.

On October 21, 2015 the Company announced that it had finalized negotiations with Clark Koelsch, screenwriter of a unique film to be titled "Saber 3-1." The film will begin as an action-packed war movie before morphing into a suspenseful detective procedural. The film will be produced by Kate Cohen and Jeff Kloss for anticipated release in early 2017.

Television Production Division

Through its Television Production Division, the Company intends to produce one or more "reality" television projects and made-for-TV documentaries. Such project presently in active development include a reality TV show based on Hollywood's legendary club and party promoter, Mac Africa, centered on her film festival parties and her exclusive Oscar viewing party and hip nightclub openings and a reality TV show based on Hollywood's Veterinarian to the Stars, Dr. Jeff Werber entitled "Hollywood's Rich and Furry".

The Company's focus on "reality" television is a result of its view that the prevalence of "reality" programming on television is due as much to its profitability as to its attractiveness to viewers. For such Projects, production costs are limited relative to "scripted" television projects (due to the general lack of expensive sets, special effects and screenwriting), and talent costs are typically very low until the show has run profitably for several years. Reality television programming is also much more amenable to "product placement" or other cross-marketing advertising, the revenues from which can offset some or all of the development and production costs. As a result, reality television programming has been the highest grossing and netting segment of television over the past several years.

Digital Media Division

Through its Digital Media division, the Company intends to monetize the digital media assets acquired through Saddle Ranch Pictures, as well newly-developed assets, via all possible new and developing digital distribution methods.

As part of its acquisition of Saddle Ranch Pictures, the Company acquired all or a portion of the content and rights to several place-based media properties, including KidCareTV, the Women's Health Television Network, and PetCare TV.

The Company's focus on Digital Media is a result of its view that for all such content properties, the opportunities for profitable exploitation continue to multiply with the proliferation of new content distribution methods.

Entertainment Project Development Industry

This section contains an overview of the complex process of developing motion pictures, television programs and digital content and is intended to be an aid to investors in understanding the entertainment business. This overview does not necessarily describe the steps involved in the development of Projects by the Company. More detailed information regarding the economics of the entertainment industry can be found in Harold L. Vogel, Entertainment Industry Economics: A Guide for Financial Analysis (8th ed., Cambridge University Press, 2010) and Jeff Ulin, The Business of Media Distribution: Monetizing Film, TV and Video Content in an Online World (1st ed., Focal Press, 2009).

Content Development

In the development stage, underlying literary material for a motion picture, television series and/or digital program project is acquired, either outright, through an option to acquire such rights or by engaging a writer to create original literary material. If the literary material is not in script form, a writer must be engaged to create a script. A title search in conducted to verify the ability of the title and certain clearances for use obtained for brands, persons, buildings, locations and objects named in the script. The copyright to the script must be registered and the chain-of-title to the underlying work accurately verified. The script must be sufficiently viable and of sufficient quality and stature so that it can attract the attention of a recognized director, and appropriate talent. An experienced line producer is then usually hired to prepare a detailed production budget. A casting director may also be hired to reach out to possible talent who may agree to become "attached" to the project. The attachment of cast to a Project may also be achieved through collaboration with one or more of the industry's Talent Agencies. A promo, or sizzle reel, is then often produced to help sell the project to a third-party for acquisition. Combined, all of the foregoing elements constitute the "packaging' of a Project such that all of the development work has been done and the Project can go promptly into pre-production. Studios and distributors are interested in acquiring already packaged Projects because it can take many months, if not years, to fully develop a Project and such Studios and distributors can save time and expense in acquiring such Projects, and are willing to pay a premium accordingly. Hence the vibrant market in the entertainment industry for properly developed Projects. A sale of a Project to a third – party may be simply for all cash upfront to acquire all rights, or the acquisition of a particular selection of rights or an upfront cash payment plus a participating interest in the third-parties ultimate distribution and exploitation revenues relating to that Project.

Operating results for the 9 months ended September 30, 2015

For the 9 months ended September 30, 2015 revenue derived from the Company's interests in content totaled $46,211 compared with $ 198,689 for the 9 months ended September 30, 2014.

We incurred production related costs of $52,054 during the 9 months ended September 30, 2015 (compared with none in the 9 months ended September 30, 2014).

Including an expense for trade shows and exhibits of $43,588, our operating costs for the 9 months ended September 30, 2015 totaled $ 155,471, compared with operating costs of $17,805 for the 9 months ended September 30, 2014. However, the 9 months ended September 30, 2015 reflects a full period of operations, together with additional corporate restructuring costs associated with the August 15,2015 spin-off of QUICKflickUSA, Inc and the acquisition of Saddle Ranch Pictures, Inc., and the development of new motion picture and television projects.

After net interest expense, we incurred a net loss of $(223,335) for the 9 months ended September 30, 2015, compared with a net income of $ 42,838 for the 9 months ended September 30, 2014. However, it should be noted that 2015 is the first period of full operations and accordingly, we incurred substantially increased operating costs this year in implementing our Business Plan and in organizing our operations.

Industry Overview

The film business has a high profile among consumers worldwide which can be leveraged for ancillary revenue, marketing and promotional activities. While new technologies continue to expand the revenue and profit potential of motion pictures, the film entertainment industry has proven to be relatively resistant to the economic cycles that adversely affect other businesses, resulting in multi-billions in annual revenue dollars. We are engaged in the development, financing, and production phases of the film and television industries.

According to the Motion Picture Association of America, Inc. (MPAA) its annual Theatrical Market Statistics Report for 2014 reported that global box office receipts for all films released around the world reached $36.4 billion in 2014, an increase of 1% over the previous record in 2013. The increase was due to international box office ($26.0 billion), which was up 4% from 2013 and accounted for 72% of global box office in 2014. International box office in U.S. dollars is up 24% over five years ago.

Growth continued to be driven by a dramatic expansion in the Asia Pacific region, which was up by 12% overall, including China, which jumped 34% and became the first international market to exceed $4 billion in box office ($4.8 billion total). The global growth occurred despite a drop in the U.S./Canada box office, which at $10.4 billion was down 5%.

Additionally, the report showed that films released in the U.S./Canada by MPAA member studios increased for the first time in five years, reaching 136 in 2014. Total films and total films released by non-MPAA member studios also increased from 2013 (up 7% and 5%, respectively). In the U.S. and Canadian marketplace, more than two-thirds of the population (68%) – or 229.7 million people – went to a cinema at least once in 2014, comparable to the previous year. Frequent moviegoers who go to the cinema once a month or more continue to drive the movie industry, accounting for 51% of all tickets sold. Movie theaters in North America continue to draw more people than all theme parks and major U.S. sports combined. The average cinema ticket price increased by 4 cents (less than 1%) in 2014, less than the 2% increase in inflation as measured by the Consumer Price Index (CPI). A movie still provides the most affordable entertainment option, costing under $40 for a family of four. Young people in the 12-17 and 18-24 age groups continue to oversample relative to their portion of the population. The 12-17 age group represented 11% of moviegoers and 14% of tickets sold in 2014, compared to only 8% of the population. 18-24 year olds represent 10% of the population, but 13% of moviegoers and 16% of tickets sold. Among the most populous U.S. States, the percentage of 2014 moviegoers was highest in Texas (75%), 7 percentage points above the national average, followed by California (73%), and Florida (71%). Texas, California, and Florida also had the highest proportions of frequent moviegoers.

Total cinema screens increased 6% worldwide in 2014 to over 142,000, due in large part to continued double digit growth in the Asia Pacific region (+15%). Global digital cinema continues to grow (+14%), although the rate of growth is slower relative to prior years. 90% of the world's cinema screens are now digital, up 7 percentage points from 2013 (83%). Among individual regions, Africa/Middle East has the lowest percentage of digital screens at 77%. Growth in digital 3D screens in 2014 continued for all regions, and pace of global growth (22%) increased for the first time since 2007. The global portion of 3D digital screens increased to 51% from 47% in 2013. In 2014, the 3D digital proportion of total digital screens in the Asia Pacific region grew to exceed two thirds (70%), and was higher than any other region.

Production Process

The process begins with the development of a screenplay or teleplay. During the development phase, the studio engages writers to draft and revise the screenplay and begins to obtain commitments from a director and principal cast. These steps, called packaging, are necessary to ascertain the value of a project prior to financing. Once a value is established, the producer is than able to create a funding plan to "greenlight" (i.e., approve) the film for production. A proposed production schedule and budget may also be prepared during this phase.

In recent years, independent film companies have been able to attract top-level talent because the large studios are more interested in creating "tent-pole" franchise films such as the Marvel movies. This focus away from the smaller, character driven drama or thriller has created opportunity for independent producers such as Saddle Ranch Media that has the experience and deal-flow, to attract cutting edge filmmakers with an eye toward producing star driven, theatrical movies. In addition, Saddle Ranch Media has the skill-set and access to the crews needed to produce films for substantially less than a large studio, including lower development and overhead costs. This adds up to Saddle Ranch Media being able to take calculated creative risks that do not rely on franchises, sequels and formulaic approaches which can very attractive for filmmakers and stars.

The production process starts with the acquisition and development of a screenplay and continues with i) pre-production, ii) principal photography, and iii) post-production as seen below. Pre-production includes the securing of necessary production facilities and personal, the finalization of motion picture budgets and production schedules, and the selection of motion picture shooting locations and the building of necessary sets.

Production involves principal photography.

Post-production includes picture editing, the creation of special visual effects and opticals, the composing and recording of the musical score, sound editing, synchronizing dialogue, sound effects and music insertion, and ultimately the "final cut" and completion of the elements necessary for distribution.

Distribution to traditional media

Films are distributed through several windows of exploitation. Theatrical exhibition occurs first when release prints of the film are distributed to movie theaters worldwide in concert with extensive advertising (P&A, prints and advertising expense). Typically, theater owners retain approximately 50-60% of consumer ticket prices which in the aggregate comprise box office gross. Theatrical releases overseas occur at different times in each country and can be as much as 6 months after the U.S. release.

About 4-6 months after theatrical release is the VOD / DVD release. Distributors receive wholesale prices on product that is sold directly to consumers from retail outlets such as Wal-Mart and Best Buy and earn a percentage of rental income from chains such as Blockbuster and Netflix. Related costs for advertising, duplication, packaging, mastering and shipping typically run about 35% of distributor's revenue. The DVD "street date" and the pay-per-view window are concurrent.

The pay TV window (HBO, Showtime, Encore) begins approximately 18 months after theatrical release. Prices received by distributors are based on contractual output arrangements and are tied to the film's box office performance. A year or two later, the distributor will sell the film to a network or major cable channel and then about 5 years later, the film will be sold into syndication or re-sold to pay or cable.

The major film studios perform all of these activities in the U.S. and through owned and operated offices in about 30 overseas markets that comprise the lion's share of international revenue. Producers often sell a film's distribution rights through a sales agent to separate independent distributors in each overseas market. These sales are referred to as "pre-sales", "advances" or "minimum guarantees". These independent distributors, many of which are owned by major media companies and have considerable leverage in their home markets, will perform the above mentioned distribution functions. For each unit of revenue earned, the local distributor deducts a distribution fee, local distribution costs, and the advance that it paid and remits the remainder to the producer.
