10. CRITICAL ACCOUNTING ESTIMATES

Critical accounting estimates

- i. Share-based payments is subject to estimation of the value of the award at the date of grant using pricing models such as the Black-Scholes option valuation model. The option valuation model requires the input of highly subjective assumptions including the expected stock price volatility. Because the Company's stock options have characteristics significantly different from those of traded options and because the subjective input assumptions can materially affect the calculated fair value, such value is subject to measurement uncertainty.
- ii. The determination of income tax is inherently complex and requires making certain estimates and assumptions about future events. While income tax filings are subject to audits and reassessments, the Company has adequately provided for all income tax obligations. However, changes in facts and circumstances as a result of income tax audits, reassessments, jurisprudence and any new legislation may result in an increase or decrease in our provision for income taxes.
- iii. The Company uses historical warranty claim information, as well as recent trends that might suggest that post cost information may differ from future claims. Factors that could impact the estimated claim information include the success of the Company's productivity and quality initiatives, as well as parts and labour costs. Actual claims costs may differ from management's estimates depending upon whether the actual claims costs were significantly different than the estimates.
- iv. Management reviews the useful lives of depreciable assets including property, plant and equipment and customer contracts at each reporting date based on the expected utility of the assets to the Company. Actual results, however, may vary due to technical obsolescence.

The Company completed an RTO with MobSafety Inc. on March 27, 2015 and concluded that the transaction did not qualify as a business combination as significant inputs and processes that constitute a business were missing. Refer to Note 4 for additional details.

Critical accounting judgments

- i. The determination that the Company will continue as a going concern for the next year.

11. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

Financial instruments are agreements between two parties that result in promises to pay or receive cash or financial instruments. The Company classifies its financial instruments as follows: cash is classified as a financial asset at FVTPL; GST/HST receivables as loans and receivables, and accounts payable and accrued liabilities as other financial liabilities, which are measured at amortized cost. The carrying value of these instruments approximates their fair values due to their short term to maturity.

The Company has exposure to the following risks from its use of financial instruments:

- Credit risk;
- Liquidity risk; and
- Market risk.

a) Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk that one party to a financial instrument will cause a financial loss for the other party by failing to discharge an obligation. The Company's cash is held in a Canadian financial institution. The Company does not have any asset-backed commercial paper.

The Company's receivables primarily consist of GST receivables due from the government of Canada. As at June 30, 2016, the Company's exposure to credit risk is minimal.

b) Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Company will not be able to meet its financial obligations as they fall due. The Company currently settles its financial obligations out of cash. The ability to do this relies on the Company collecting its accounts receivable in a timely manner and by maintaining sufficient cash in excess of anticipated needs. At June 30, 2016 the Company's accounts payable and accrued liabilities were $648,439 (June 30, 2015 - $652,468).

c) Market risk

Market risk is the risk that changes in market prices, such as interest rates will affect the Company's income or the value of its holdings of financial instruments.

Interest rate risk

Interest rate risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market interest rates.

The risk that the Company will realize a loss as a result of a decline in the fair value of the short-term investments included in cash and cash equivalents is minimal.

Price risk

The Company is exposed to price risk with respect to commodity and equity prices. Equity price risk is defined as the potential adverse impact on the Company's earnings due to movements in individual equity prices or general movements in the level of the stock market. Commodity price risk is defined as the potential adverse impact on earnings and economic value due to commodity price movements and volatilities. The Company closely monitors commodity prices of gold, individual equity movements, and the stock market to determine the appropriate course of action to be taken by the Company.

As at June 30, 2016, the Company is not exposed to significant market risk.

12. RISK FACTORS

Prior to making an investment decision investors should consider the investment risks set out below and those described elsewhere in this document, which are in addition to the usual risks associated with an investment in a business at an early stage of development. The directors of the Company consider the risks set out below to be the most significant to potential investors in the Company, but are not all of the risks associated with an investment in securities of the Company. If any of these risks materialize into actual events or circumstances or other possible additional risks and uncertainties of which the Directors are currently unaware, or which they consider not to be material in relation to the Group's business, actually occur, the Group's assets, liabilities, financial condition, results of operations (including future results of operations), business and business prospects, are likely to be materially and adversely affected. In such circumstances, the price of the Company's securities could decline and investors may lose all or part of their investment.

Potential Acquisitions and Investments

The Company expects to continue acquiring or investing in businesses, products and technologies that expand or complement the Company's current business, products and services. Such acquisitions or investments may involve significant commitments of financial or other resources of the Company. There can be no assurance that any such acquisition or investment can be satisfactorily financed or, if acquired, will generate revenue, income or other returns for the Company, or that financial or other resources committed to such activities will not be lost. Such activities could also place additional strains on the Company's administrative and operational resources and its ability to manage growth.

Financial Condition, Liquidity, and Requirements Outlook

The Company's cash balance and working capital position are not adequate to sustain the Company's existing operations. If the Company is unable to continue to raise capital from issuances of shares, loans or by other means, its cash and working capital position could be affected.

Major Contracts

The Company has and may enter into major contracts that are complex and have several delivery milestones. These contracts are often subject to delay, change, revision and renewal. There is no guarantee that the Company can complete all activities on time and on budget and that the funding available will be adequate to meet adjustments to the contract. Failure by the Company to fulfill such contracts on a timely basis is a significant risk to the Company.

Risk to Reputation

Reputation is a critical asset in the investment industry. Potential damage to that reputation is a significant risk for the Company. Any of the risks identified herein could damage the Company's reputation, which in turn, could result in a lack of client or employee confidence, legal liability and difficulties in raising capital.

Risks Related to Investments

The Company intends to expand its operations and business by investing in additional businesses, products or technologies. Investments may involve a number of special risks, including diversion of management's attention, failure to retain key personnel, unanticipated events or circumstances, and legal liabilities. In addition, there can be no assurance that the businesses, products or technologies, if any, will achieve anticipated revenues and income. Investments could also result in potentially dilutive issuances of equity securities. The failure of the Company to manage its investment strategy successfully could have a material adverse effect on the Company's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Dependence on Key Personnel

The success of the Company is largely dependent on the performance of its key senior management employees. Failure to retain key employees and to attract and retain additional key employees with necessary skills could impact the Company's growth and profitability. The Company's progress to date in commercializing its proprietary products has been dependent, to a significant extent, on the skills of its senior management. The departure or death of certain members of the executive team could have an adverse effect on the Company. The Company has experienced changes in its management personnel and further changes may occur in the future. The Company may face transitional difficulties in connection with these changes, and there can be no assurance that the Company will be able to attract and retain highly-skilled and qualified personnel to replace employees who leave the Company.

Industry Growth

There can be no assurance that the market for the Company's existing products will continue to grow or that the Company will be successful in independently establishing markets for its products. If the markets in which the Company's products compete fail to grow or grow more slowly than the Company currently anticipates, or if the Company is unable to establish markets for its new products, the Company's operating results and financial condition could be adversely affected.

Economic Slowdown

From time to time markets have witnessed the weakening of global macro-economic conditions. This weakness could have adverse effects on the investments of the Company's ability to continue as a going concern.

Management of Future Growth and Expansion

Planned expansion of the Company's business and its future success will depend on its ability to manage growth as it expands its products and marketing capacities, which may place a significant strain on the Company's management resources, employees and operations, as well as its ability to finance such growth. To manage growth effectively, the Company will be required to continue to implement changes in certain aspects of its business, expand its operations, and develop, train, manage and assimilate an increasing number of management-level and other employees. If management is unable to manage growth effectively, the Company's business, prospects, financial condition and operating results could be affected. The Company does not have a history of mining operations and there is no assurance that it will produce revenue, operate profitably or provide a return on investment in the future.

Legislative, Insurance, Compliance Costs, Regulatory Action and Environment

To comply with various increasing and complex regulatory reporting and standards involves significant cost. Changes to securities regulatory standards, account policy, and compliance reporting could place an additional expense burden on the Company. Insurers may increase premiums as the Company's business continue to grow so future premiums for the Company's insurance policies, including directors' and officers' insurance policies, could be subject to increase.
