A. Summarize the issuer's business operations (If the issuer does not have current operations, state "no operations")

Through the efforts of its president and CEO Takatoshi Nakamura, who holds advanced degrees from universities in Japan as well as Massachusetts Institute of Technology ("MIT"), the Issuer has developed a suite of software applications that provide the highest level of internet security as well as enabling the creation of a new generation of digital products, such as cash and securities, that carry the highest level of encryption. A company controlled by Mr. Nakamura has executed a license agreement with the Issuer for the use of the dozen patents issued based on Mr. Nakamura's efforts. These patents form the basis of a portion of the software that the Issuer will offer to its clients. It has become commonplace for one country to hack or infiltrate another to disrupt its military, banking and commercial operations or misappropriate proprietary data and sensitive personal information. Banks, utilities, defense contractors have all suffered repeated thefts of sensitive information. The Issuer's software and underlying patents address these concerns and is designed to thwart any unauthorized intrusion.

B. List any subsidiaries, parent company, or affiliated companies.

The issuer's only subsidiary is CMK Nevada.

C. Describe the issuers' principal products or services.

The Issuer has developed software that realizes remote authorization and confidential communication using modern ciphers that have proven to be resistant to quantum computers. Mr. Nakamura is a noted authority on cipher security and encryption and has written and lectured extensively on these subjects. He has discussed the benefits of a cashless society and how the Issuer's software provides maximum security for all parties. Mr. Nakamura has met with central bankers in many countries, government leaders in Japan and elsewhere, insurance companies and military contractors to inform them of the level of protection and security that the Issuer's software affords. Additionally, the level of encryption that the Issuer's software provides is a key component in a series of new products and services that the Issuer can offer to its clients. The Issuer has developed a fee structure for potential users of its software and related technology. Depending on the needs of each client, it can be an annual fee, a license agreement or a fixed percent of the value of the remittance amount of transactions effected, such as banking, brokerage or e-commerce.

(FORMERLY CMK GAMING, INC.)
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
FOR THE PERIOD ENDED SEPTEMBER 30, 2025

SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Organization and Business Operations

CMK Gaming International, Inc. (the Company) was originally incorporated in Colorado in 1987 under the name Brown Disc Products, Inc. The Company changed its name to the Quartz Group, Inc. in 1997 and in 2005 to Tenguy World International, Inc." In 2016, the Company purchased another subsidiary operation based in Taiwan, but the relationship lasted until spring 2017 and was rescinded. This is where the name CMK Gaming International, Inc. originated. In 2022, the Company changed its name to Cipher Core, Inc.

In February 2022, the Company acquired all of the stock of Cipher-Core, LTD, a Japanese Corporation located in Tokyo, Japan. Cypher-Core is seeking an exclusive license for software to conduct business by applying to "Crypto Cash Technology" and then seeking to market the services worldwide. Some of the objectives of technology will be used to:

-Provide an appropriate remote authentication function and a confidential communication environment with cipher technology to protect financial services conducted over the internet,

-Provide a remittance environment with software from Japan to overseas and later, overseas to-to-overseas with enhanced security.

-Provide an environment for the issuance, transfer, and use of digital cash represented by CBCD (Central Bank Digital Currency). In addition to community and local cashes, and later enable the issuance of cash with additional conditions such as user information and expiration dates, etc.

-Provide a beta version of an environment for the issuance, transfer, and use of Crypto Cash with smart contract and so on, such as digital securities and digital insurance, with plans to provide the ability to establish and transfer ownership as well as administrative services such as land and address registration.

Basis of Presentation

The Company prepares its financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles in the US. In the opinion of management, all adjustments consisting of normal recurring adjustments necessary for a fair statement of the financial position on September 30, 2025, and December 31, 2024, the results of operations and cash flows for the periods then ended as presented in these financial statements.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the US requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Fair Value Measurement

All financial and non-financial assets and liabilities were recognized or disclosed at fair value in the financial statements. This value was evaluated on a recurring basis (at least annually). Generally accepted accounting principles in the US define fair value as the exchange price that would be received for an asset or paid to transfer a liability (an exit price) in the principal or most advantageous market for the asset or liability in an orderly transaction between market participants on a measurement date. The accounting principles also established a fair value hierarchy which requires an entity to maximize the use of observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs when measure fair value. Three levels of input were used to measure fair value.

Level 1: Quotes market prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.

Level 2: Observable market-based inputs or unobservable inputs that were corroborated by market data.

Level 3: Unobservable inputs that were not corroborated by market data.

Income Taxes

The Company accounts for income taxes using the liability method. As such, deferred tax assets and liabilities are recorded based on the differences between the tax basis of assets and liabilities and their carrying amounts for financial reporting purpose, referred to as temporary differences. Deferred tax assets and liabilities at the end of each period are determined using the currently enacted tax rates applied to taxable income in the periods in which the deferred tax assets and liabilities are expected to be settled or realized.

The Company has not recognized any deferred tax assets in association with losses from ongoing operations in the past due to tax limitations and uncertainties concerning its ability to generate taxable income in future periods. The tax benefit for the periods presented is offset by a valuation allowance (100%) established against deferred tax assets arising from the securities capital losses and other temporary differences, the realization of which could not be considered more likely than not. In future periods, tax benefits and related deferred tax assets will be recognized when management considers realization of such amounts to be more likely than not. The Company has net operating loss carryforwards (US only) of approximately $200,000 (US) resulting in a tax benefit of approximately $40,000 but is offset by the uncertainty of such losses being used in the near future. There is no indication that such losses in Japan operations can be used to increase the US losses or be used in any other country for the future.

Earnings Per Share

Basic earnings (loss) per share calculations are determined by dividing net income (loss) by the weighted average number of shares outstanding during the year. Diluted earnings (loss) per share are determined by dividing net income (loss) by the weighted average number of shares. As of September 30, 2025, and December 31, 2024, there were no options outstanding that were considered anti-dilutive. (See the preferred stock footnote below for any contingencies on this matter).

Stock Issuances

Besides the issuance of stock for the acquisition of the subsidiary, the only stock issuance in the last few years was an issuance of 1,105,000 shares to the CEO and major shareholder who has been funding the Company for many years. The Company had an outstanding loan balance of over $150,000, and the officer and the Company decided on a reduction of that payable by $110,528 for the issuance of the shares. Those shares were issued in the spring 2017.

With the acquisition of the subsidiary, the cash infused in the Company with that purchase paid off the loan balance with the primary stockholder and CEO except for the balance of cash used for the current quarters which was a temporary loan for current expenses for the years 2024 and 2025.

Recently Issued Accounting Pronouncements

The Company has adopted the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) 105-10, Generally Accepted Accounting Principles Overall (ASC 105-10), which was formerly known as SFAS 168, ASC 105-10 establishes the FASB Accounting Standards Codification (the "Codification") as the source of authoritative accounting principles recognized by the FASB to be applied by non-governmental entities in the preparation of financial statements in conformity with US GAAP. Rules and interpretive releases of the Securities and Exchange (SEC) under authority of federal securities laws are also sources of authoritative US GAAP for SEC registrants. All guidance contained in the Codification carries an equal level of grandfathered, non-SEC accounting literature not included in the Positions or Emerging Issues Task Force Abstracts. Instead, it will issue Accounting Standards Updates (ASUs). The FASB will not consider ASUS as authoritative. ASUS will serve only to update the codification, provide background information about the guidance, and provide the basis of conclusions on the change(s) in the Codification. References made to FASB guidance throughout this document have been updated for the Codification.

In May 2011, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) issued authoritative guidance regarding Fair Value Measurement: Amendments to Achieve Common Fair Value Measurement and Disclosure Requirements in US GAAP and IRFSs, which results in common requirements for measuring fair value and for disclosing information.

Preferred Shares

After the creation of the Company in 1987, the board of directors with the consent of the majority of shareholders created a Preferred class of shares with the state of Colorado. The shares had several similar attributes of typical rights and privileges of common stock. Most prevalent were the rights of dividends and a conversion feature to common stock (5 shares for every one share of Preferred). The Company has never reported this class of stock for the last 10 years until upon examination, the transfer agent shows 12,613 shares of outstanding class A Preferred stock with no par value.

None of the board of directors knew of this class, nor have the Company or any of the past officers and directors heard from any one of these shareholders. Action is currently being made to identify these individuals and if they have any interest in pursuing any participation, conversion, or claims with the Company. The terms of the conditions of the rights of the Preferred stockholders do not include any preference for dividend distributions, voting rights, or stock conversion rights. Since there have been no dividends paid in the past 10 years (or even before that time from the memory of the current officers and directors), it is doubtful that any claims are outstanding.

If the conversion feature were to be exercised from the outstanding Preferred stock, only 63,065 common shares would be issued. This represents about .02% of the outstanding common shareholders of the Corporation.

It is uncertain what the current or future board of directors will interact or transact business with these Preferred shareholders.

Other Assets

Before the acquisition of the subsidiary, other assets were acquired by Cipher during the start-up phase of operations in Japan. Capitalized business commencement and patent expenses were capitalized by the Japanese company and is being currently being amortized over 15 years on a straight-line basis.
