6) Describe the Issuer’s Business, Products and Services

Describe the issuer’s business so a potential investor can clearly understand the company. In answering this item, please include the following:

A. A description of the issuer’s business operations;

The Company, with the assets acquired in acquisition of AeroQuest, has developed a unique plastic composite that can be used in a number of different products throughout a wide range of industries. Products made from the Company’s fiber reinforced thermoplastic sandwich panels are lighter in weight, stronger and more durable, and are less costly to produce than similar products made from conventional materials and manufacturing processes.

Products produced using the Company’s proprietary composite are stronger and lighter than comparable products. In addition, the technology allows for nearly all products to be made without releasing volatile organic compounds into the atmosphere as occurs with the conventional thermoset fiberglass process. As a thermoplastic, most manufacturing waste can be recycled into new products.

The Company plans to incorporate its technology into vehicle body panels, structural insulated panels, highway sound abatement walls and many other products in a wide array of industries will benefit from this exciting new technology. These products include: office partitions, industrial furniture, stage platforms, trade show decking and flooring, scaffolding, utility vaults, marine and R.V. sub-flooring, counter tops, divider walls, engine covers and any other product that would potentially benefit from lighter weight, greater strength and durability and, in most cases, lower cost.

B. Date and State (or Jurisdiction) of Incorporation:

The issuer was incorporated in Delaware on September 18, 2006.

C. Issuer’s primary and secondary SIC Codes;

The Primary SIC Code of the Company is 3999 – Manufacturing Industries, Misc.

D. The issuer's fiscal year end date;

The Company's fiscal year ends on December 31.

E. Principal products or services, and their markets:

The Company's products consist of composite panels for use in a variety of industries. Products using the Company's technology are lighter in weight, stronger and more durable, highly impact resistant and are less costly to produce than similar products made from conventional materials and manufacturing processes. The Company's products will be subject to regulation by federal, state and local regulatory agencies with respect to, among other things, safety, durability and other standards related to the use of its material in various applications. These governmental regulations significantly influence the Company's operating environment and may affect its ability to successfully market its products. The Company is unable to predict the impact on operating results from the future regulatory activities of any of these agencies. Changes in regulations or the imposition of additional regulations could have an adverse impact on the Company's results of operations and cash flows.

F. The nature of products or services offered.

1. The Company offers a number of all-composite products for the commercial and recreational vehicle industry, the housing and construction industries, the marine industry, and other industries where light-weight, impact resistant and durable structures have benefit.
2. The Company plans to primarily distribute its products directly to manufacturers. The manufacturers will then incorporate the Company's products on an OEM basis as components in the end product.
3. The Company previously announced the establishment of a distributor for its solar roofs. The Company still requires financing that will allow the Company to build prototypes for testing.
4. The Company is still in the development stage, but expects to compete in the market by forming partnerships with manufacturers who will use Company components in their products.
5. Raw materials used to make the Company's products will be sourced in the U.S., China and the Ukraine.
6. As the Company is still in the development stage, it is not reliant on any customers. Once the Company enters the market it will initially enter each market segments with a limited number of strategic partners and then strategically expand to additional partners. Each market segment will only have a few customers.
7. The Company currently has the right to use patent #5690378, for a chassisless, monocoque, transportation vehicle. The Company intends to purchase this patent upon the closing of a future round of financing. The technology covered by the patent allows any type of towed transportation vehicle to manufacture vehicles without any form of structural support (chassis, frame, etc.). The Company plans to apply for a number of other patents in the near future.
8. The Company does not currently need any material government approvals in connection with its business.

7) Describe the Issuer's Facilities

The nature and extent of the Company's facilities is limited to office space leased in Salt Lake City, Utah. Upon securing the necessary financing, the Company will lease space for the manufacturing and distributing of its products.
