Trends and Uncertainties. Our business, through our wholly-owned subsidiary, is developing micro-organisms and leaching methods bring the micro processing of precious metals to a higher level. We intend to provide architecture, design engineering, procurement, manufacturing and construction services for industrial, institution, public and commercial mining projects. We will face many challenges when working on large mining projects as they work with complicated systems. We are designing complex leaching systems for mining operations in North American, primarily Nevada. Our future operations may be adversely affected by our competitors, changing foreign laws and regulations and any prolonged recessionary periods.

Capital and Source of Liquidity. We expect that working capital requirements will continue to be funded through a combination of our existing funds and further issuances of securities and loans from Shareholders. Our working capital requirements are not sufficient to meet our needs for the next 12 months. Our working capital requirements are expected to increase in line with the growth of our business.

Investing Activities: For the quarter ended March 31, 2013 the issuer did not pursue any investing activities.

Financing Activities: For the quarter ended March 31, 2013 the issuer had a net cash flows provided by financing activities of $ 130,000.00.

Results of Operation (rounded to thousands): For the quarter ended March 31, 2013, the issuer, through its wholly-owned subsidiary, received revenues of approximately $65,000. For the quarter ended March 31, 2013, the registrant had expenses of approximately $165,000. These expenses for the quarter ended March 31, 2013, consisted of basic operating expenses, including equipment rental of $12,000; fuel of $11,000, insurance expenses of $4,000, interest expense of $1,000, parts of $14,000, payroll expenses of $6,000, and travel expenses of $2,000.

Plan of Operation: The issuer may experience problems: delays, expenses and difficulties sometimes encountered by an enterprise in the issuer's stage, many of which are beyond the issuer's control. These include, but are not limited to, unanticipated problems relating to additional cost and expenses that may exceed current estimates and completion.

Existing working capital, further advances and debt instruments, and anticipated cash flow are expected to be adequate to fund our operations over the next six months. We have no lines of credit or other bank financing arrangements.

Generally, we have financed operations to date through the proceeds of the private placement of equity and debt instruments. In connection with our business plan, management anticipates additional increases in operating expenses and capital expenditures relating to:

- (i) Mining projects
- (ii) Possible mining initiatives on current properties and future properties; and
- (iii) Future property acquisitions.

We intend to finance these expenses with further issuances of securities, and debt issuances. Thereafter, we expect we will need to raise additional capital and generate revenues to meet long term operating requirements. Additional issuances of equity or convertible debt securities will result in dilution to our current shareholders. Further, such securities might have rights, preferences or privileges senior to our common stock. Additional financing may not be available upon acceptable terms or at all. If adequate funds are not available or not available on acceptable terms, we may not be able to take advantage of prospective new business endeavors or opportunities, which could significantly and materially restrict our business operations.
