Item VIII The nature of the issuer's business.

A. Business Development

Quasar Aerospace Industries, Inc. (QAI) is an integrated aviation/aerospace corporation which has been created to pursue an innovative and highly synergistic business strategy. This strategy will be achieved through a process by which several businesses in the aviation/aerospace industry will be combined into an integrated and self-supporting network which will have the ability to operate in a more complex strategic environment and to achieve greater success than would have been possible if they were operating purely alone. Within this context QAI will not acquire and operate these business units according to some master corporate plan. Rather, the goal will be for these entities to retain their operational independence and unique corporate cultures. In this fashion, the resources, talents, insight, experience, and market potential of each will be supported and enhanced in a cooperative process which will lead to increased productivity, efficiency, and scalable economies resulting in increased profitability and market relevance.

Atlantic Aviation, Inc. (AAI) operates a flight school at Herlong Airport in Jacksonville, FL. The program runs for approximately 6 months and each student pays $66,000 for the full program. AAI is currently negotiating with the Jacksonville Aviation Authority for a long-term lease to build a state of the art flight training facility. The facility will be able to house six aircraft, a 6,750 square foot administration, training building, and ramp parking for 25 aircraft when completed. Once the initial school is operational, the goal is to market this "School Concept" as a turn-key franchise opportunity to aviation professionals around the country. AAI has signed a letter of intent with a group from India to train foreign flight students and has submitted an application to the U.S. Secretary of State for approval for this operation. When the program begins, the company will add ten students per month until they are fully operational with 60 students in training at all times at varying stages of training and a full capacity of 80 students. At full capacity the one school could generate approximately ten million dollars in revenue with margins ranging from 38-45%. As of March 27, 2009 there are 8 students enrolled.
