A. Business Development

The Company was originally organized as a Nevada corporation on April 7, 2000 under the name KoreaStation Corporation. Effective May 30, 2000, Envira Minerals, Inc. (an Arizona Corporation) was merged into the Company. Effective January 3, 2001, the Company changed its name from KoreaStation Corporation to E4 World Corporation. From fiscal year 2000 through July 13, 2006 the Company had minimal to no operations and generated minimal to no revenues.

On July 13, 2006, through a stock Purchase Agreement and Share Exchange, the Company acquired all of the outstanding shares of Xcelplus Global Holdings, Inc. (a separate entity formed in Nevada in February 2006), which became a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company. Effective July 27, 2006, the Company changed its name from E4 World Corporation to Xcelplus Global Holdings, Inc.

From July 27, 2006 through fiscal 2008, Xcelplus Global Holdings, Inc had minimal to no revenues. Most expenses incurred were paid with issuances of stock. Beginning with the management changes in February of 2009, Xcelplus Global Holdings, Inc began operations resulting in the revenues and expenses included in the accompanying financial statements.

On August 26, 2010, Xcelplus Global Holdings, Inc., changed its name to Clean Energy Pathways, Inc. (the Company) and continues to operate under that name.

The Company's fiscal year ends on December 31 of each year.

The Company has never been in any bankruptcy. There are no current legal proceedings against the company.

B. Business of the Company

Clean Energy Pathways, Inc. is a clean energy, green initiative company with a primary focus on fossil fuel replacement with a cleaner burning biomass fuel.

CEP is engaged in purchasing, blending, and selling non-petroleum biomass fuels for industrial applications where boilers and burners are used.

Currently the Company's main customers are heavy industrial companies. The Company contracts with sources that provide raw materials compliant with biomass renewable product standards (non-petroleum), and then contracts with various plant facilities to process, blend and store the products to specifications that meet federal standards. Ultimately, the company sells the finished biomass fuel and contracts with transportation providers to distribute the blended fuels to its end customers.

What sets the Company apart is that it provides a niche product that fits the current green push toward cleaner burning fuels. The Company's fuel is designed to be a cost competitive, cleaner alternative to diesel fuels.

The Company's products are easy to use without any equipment changes. The Company's products are standardized by the government and allow for any permitting changes the Company's customers might make to utilize the Company's fuels.

The Company is currently working on development of other CLEAN ENERGY niches to help implement solutions to our country's energy crisis and dependency.

On March 16, 2010, the Alabama Securities Commission delivered a subpoena requesting certain information relating to investors, securities offerings, sales commissions and uses of offering proceeds. On August 17, 2010, the Alabama Securities Commission ORDERED the Company (XcelPlus Global Holdings, Inc., J. Michael Parsons and Harrison Parrish) immediately cease and desist from further offers or sales of any security into, within or from the State of Alabama. To resolve the order, Effective December 30, 2010, the company entered into a consent order with the Alabama Securities Commission regarding the company's sales in 2009 of unregistered securities in Alabama. Under the order, the company paid $2,500 to the State of Alabama as an administrative assessment and $2,500 to the Commission in partial reimbursement of its investigation costs. The company and two of its directors (J. Michael Parsons and Harrison Parrish) agreed not to violate the registration provisions of the Alabama Securities Act and to ensure that proper procedures are enacted to preclude any future non-compliance with the Act. The order provides that neither the company, the directors nor any of their affiliates or employees shall be subject to any disqualification contained in the Federal securities laws, rules and regulations as a result of the order and that the commission does not intend for the order to constitute a Final Order based on a violation of any law or regulation that prohibits fraudulent, manipulative or deceptive conduct.

The Company's SIC Codes are: 4991; and 0001379697

B. Business of Issuer.

Clean Energy Pathways, Inc. is engaged in purchasing, blending and selling non-petroleum biomass fuels for industrial applications, primarily used in boiler applications. Currently, the Company's main customers are heavy industrial companies primarily in the eastern half of the United States. The Company contracts with sources that provide raw materials compliant with biomass renewable product standards (non-petroleum), and then contracts with various plant facilities to process, blend and store the finished product. The Company uses independent laboratories for testing the products to the specifications that meet federal standards. Ultimately, the company sells the finished biomass product and contracts with transportation providers to distribute the blended fuels to its end customers.

Item 9: The nature of the products and services offered

The legal name of the Corporation is Clean Energy Pathways Corporation a Nevada Corporation, and is traded on the pink sheets.com, stock Symbol, "XPGH". The Company is not presently doing business under any other assumed names or brands.

Based in Dothan, Alabama, Clean Energy Pathways, Inc. is a biomass based fuel developer and sales organization. Our products are cleaner burning than fossil fuels or diesel fuels. Because of the subsidies offered by the Federal government, and the trend toward cleaner burning fuels, Clean Energy has had some success in selling its fuel to a number of customers. The Company anticipates the green trend of fuels to continue and our fuels are in demand by industrial customers.

In addition, the Company purchased Sunfield Solar, a solar hot water company in 2010. It is anticipated that this market will grow due to the constant rise in gas and electricity prices and the trend toward becoming more energy independent. Currently the purchasers of solar technology receive a 30% tax credit and make this market segment cheaper for the public to afford.

The Company's focus is to continue to ride the growing trend of providing energy efficiencies to residential, commercial and heavy industrial customers with solutions for their energy goals. Our primary product is biomass fuel. Solar hot water system distribution is a growing sector and the Company continues to see opportunity with distribution of this product.

Distribution methods of the products or services

For its fuel distribution, the Company purchases feed stock from vendors and custom blends the fuel in strategically located bio refinery facilities. The finish product is then shipped by truck or rail to the Company's customer.

For its solar products, the Company has an agreement with an American solar manufacturer. The product is drop shipped to the Company's customer or the Company's dealer. For its imported solar product, the Company accepts orders for the solar products. Once the Company sells a container, the product is imported and then shipped to the dealer or warehoused in Dothan, Alabama.

Status of publicly announced new product or service

In 2010, the Company entered the solar market. The Company vies solar as a natural addition to the many pathways toward energy efficiencies.

Competitive business conditions, the issuer's competitive position in the industry, and methods of competition.

As to the Company's fuel business, the federal subsidy is in place thereby placing the Company in a position to resume fuel oil sales. There is very little competition for the Company's bio fuel oil.

As for the solar product, the solar market is very competitive. The Company is attempting to establish a dealer network with its solar products. In addition, the Company has developed a unique marketing strategy to provide a mechanism for selling solar units.

Source and availability of raw materials and the names of principal suppliers

As to its fuel business, raw materials are purchased based on commodity index. The Company cannot disclose its suppliers as it suffer a competitive disadvantage should other businesses attempt to penetrate this market.

Patents, trademarks, licenses, franchises, concessions, royalty agreements or labor contracts

The Company has applied for a trademark for its name "Clean Energy Pathways" and for its logo which appears at the top of this disclosure statement.

The Company has an agreement with Freedom Fuels, Inc., as a fuel sales organization for the Company's bio fuel. The agreement provides for payment of commissions to Freedom Fuels, Inc., upon the sale of the Company's bio fuel to new customers provided by Freedom Fuel, Inc.

The need for any government approval of principal products or services and the status of any requested government approvals or contract including their duration

Item 16: Management’s Discussion and Analysis or Plan of Operation

The Company is currently a clean energy sector company. With the trend towards energy efficiencies and cleaner energy solutions, management has decided to find niche areas within this sector to build the business.

The Company’s primary products are biomass based liquid fuels used primarily in the heavy industrial sector as a fuel to replace or co-burn with diesel fuel.

The Company acquired Sunfield Solar, a solar hot water system distributorship.

As new niches are found, management will expand its products and services to meet the ever growing need for cleaner energy and energy efficiencies.

The Company’s biomass based fuel was the initial product that launched the operations of the company in 2009. The launch was successful and partly because of a federal subsidy program that made the fuel cost effective. In 2010, the subsidy was not renewed and our fuel was not competitive and the Company had a difficult year.

The Company weathered the storm and the subsidy was reinstated and promises to help the fuel operations go forward again as the Company did in 2009.

The company’s financial position is stable and has endured a year without any significant revenue sources. The Company has largely lived on income from 2009. Although the company has no debt it has depleted significant cash as it worked to establish new income streams.

These efforts at new income streams are now paying off thereby resulting in less dependency on fuel sales for the financial success of the company. The Company, however, must continue to grow its solar sales and retrofitting business. Otherwise, it will continue to utilize its cash reserves to survive.

On the fuel side the business, the Company targets utilities and heavy industrial customers. The Company has submitted a number of bids. If the company succeeds in obtaining a portion of the outstanding fuel bids, the Company will once again experience dramatic growth.

Other than normal monthly expenses and payroll, the Company does not have any significant expenditures. Also, currently there are no off-balance sheet arrangements.

In addition to fuel sales, the Company is developing a solar hot water system distributorship. The Company hopes to add solar photo voltaic as additional product to augment this part of the business model.

The Department of Energy has published a report outlining the tremendous opportunity to save energy or reduce energy cost by retrofitting homes, businesses and industrial buildings. The government has grants and guaranteed loans available for retrofitting and energy efficiency measures. The government grants and government loans help pay for the retrofitting measures and also provides tax credits to further reduce the cost of the projects.

Our intent is to find a way to enter this sector and build this business model as well. The Company sees this as a growing favorite of the Department of Energy and the Company intends to follow their lead.

In summary, Clean Energy Pathways, Inc. is poised to find ways to make a difference in the energy efficiencies and clean energy efforts in this country.
