Item 3. Interim financial statements:

The Company's financial statements for the period ended December 31, 2010 are attached hereto.

Item 4. Management's discussion and analysis or plan of operation:

A. Plan of Operation

The Company's business plan remains the same. That is based on the Generative Business Model, which is designed to generate a steady stream of revenue well before any property is ever developed into a commercial mining operation.

The Generative Business Model comprises the following steps:

1. Targeting and acquiring properties with good historical assays.

TITAN RESOURCES INTERNATIONAL, CORP.

Annual Report

2. Identifying potential partners for the development of each of the Company's properties and entering into joint-venture or option agreements.

3. The partner or acquiring company also must commit to a specific work program over a period of several years to develop the property.

4. These work programs enable the Company to maintain our properties for little or no cost, as the annual maintenance fees due to the government are offset by the amount of money spent on property exploration and development paid for by our partners. Any surplus of expenditures beyond what is due to maintain the properties can then be applied as "portable assessment credits " towards the maintenance of other Company properties that are not yet producing revenue but which have good prospects of doing so in the future.

The business model generates cash on a relatively small amount of investment capital. It also provides our shareholders with multiple opportunities to profit from discoveries, preserves our capital, and minimizes the risk involved in exploration and development by essentially outsourcing the risk to other entities.

i. How long the issuer can satisfy its cash requirements and whether it will have to raise additional funds in the next twelve months;

The Company expects that it will need to raise additional funds in the next twelve months in order to sustain operations and continue its business model.

ii. Summary of any product research and development that the issuer will perform for the term of the plan;

ITEM XVI: Management's Discussion and Analysis or Plan of Operation.

Cautionary Statements Use of Forward Looking Statements

Except for statements of historical fact, some information in this document contains "forward-looking statements" that involve substantial risks and uncertainties. You can identify these forward-looking statements by words such as "anticipate," "believe," "could," "estimate," "expect," "intend," "may," "should," "will," "would" or similar words. The statements that contain these or similar words should be read carefully because these statements discuss our future expectations, contain projections of our future results of operations or of our financial position, or state other forward-looking information. We believe that it is important to communicate our future expectations to our investors. However, there may be events in the future that we are not able accurately to predict or control.

Further, we urge you to be cautious of the forward-looking statements which are contained in this annual report because they involve risks, uncertainties and other factors affecting our operations, market growth, service, products and licenses. The factors listed in this section as well as other cautionary language in this document and events in the future may cause our actual results and achievements, whether expressed or implied, to differ materially from the expectations we describe in our forward-looking statements. The occurrence of any of the events described as risk factors or other future events could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial position.

Since our common stock is considered a "penny stock" we are ineligible to rely on the safe harbor for forward-looking statements provided in Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act"), and Section 21E of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act").

A. Plan of Operation

The Company's business plan is based on the Generative Business Model, which is designed to generate a steady stream of revenue well before any property is ever developed into a commercial mining operation.

A traditional mining company is often a virtual money pit, where a never-ending flow of capital disappears into the ground and only rarely comes out the other end as a profitable commercial mining operation.

A more modern approach is to extract profits from a property during its early exploration stages rather than wait 10 or 20 years to see if a mine can ever be opened. Indeed, contrary to popular belief, the greatest profits on a percentage ROI basis from ownership of a mining property can occur not from opening a mine, but from the early exploration stages. This approach is called the Generative Business Model, and is the focal point of the Company's business plan.

The Generative Business Model comprises the following steps:

1. Targeting and acquiring properties with good historical assays
2. Identifying potential partners for the development of each of the Company's properties and entering into joint-venture or option agreements.
3. The partner or acquiring company also must commit to a specific work program over a period of several years to develop the property.
5. These work programs enable the Company to maintain our properties for little or no cost, as the annual maintenance fees due to the government are offset by the amount of money spent on property exploration and development paid for by our partners. Any surplus of expenditures beyond what is due to maintain the properties can then be applied as "portable assessment credits " towards the maintenance of other Company properties that are not yet producing revenue but which have good prospects of doing so in the future.

The business model generates cash on a relatively small amount of investment capital. It also provides our shareholders with multiple opportunities to profit from discoveries, preserves our capital, and minimizes the risk involved in exploration and development by essentially outsourcing the risk to other entities.

Item VIII of the Mining Disclosure Guidelines

(4) (i) Exploration State — The company is in the Exploration Stage.

Mining Operations

- (1) Location and access; The Property is located in the Slocan Area of British Columbia, Canada, just half way in between Zincton, and Retallack, an abandoned mining community 18 Kilometers northeast of New Denver. Present road structure and accessibility to the property and to the nearby smelting facilities located nearby are in good condition.
- (2) Brief description of lease/option; The Dinty Moore Property is located in close proximity to two significant past producers called The Wellington and Whitewater Mine. This property is strategically located approximately 500 meters along a strike from a well known showing called the “Horse Shoe Vein”, which has been explored in the past. Titan holds an option to purchase a 66% interest by making certain cash payments, as well as fulfilling the exploration expenditures.

Cash requirements; $10,000 upon signing. On or before December 31, 2010, Titan will make option payment totalling $100,000, on or before December 31, 2011, Titan will make cash payment totalling $250,000 and work expenditures cash payment totalling $250,000, on or before December 31, 2012, Titan will make cash payment totalling $250,000, and work expenditures totalling $400,000.

- (4) (i) Geological reports have indicated unexplored ore possibilities existing, geophysics, stream sediment sampling and diamond drilling have the potential to discover previously unknown mineralization. The property is exploratory in nature.
- (5) The property is part of the northwest-trending belt of sedimentary rocks called the Slocan Group. These units host the mineralized veins in this area which are steeply dipping silver-lead zinc veins. Silver is the primary mineral focus being explored for.
