NOTE 1 - SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Company's accounting policies conform to U.S. generally accepted accounting principles. The following policies are considered to be significant:

Business Organization

Marine Exploration, Inc. is incorporated in the state of Colorado. The Company was organized to engage in the business of maritime research, search and salvage. The Company is currently headquartered in Coral Gables, Florida.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash equivalents are generally comprised of certain highly liquid investments with original maturities of less than three months.

Equipment

Equipment is carried at cost net of accumulated depreciation. Depreciation expense is computed principally on the straight-line methods in amounts sufficient to write off the cost of depreciable assets over their estimated useful life.

Normal maintenance and repair items are charged to costs and expenses as incurred. The cost and accumulated depreciation of property and equipment sold or otherwise retired are removed from the accounts and gain or loss on disposition is reflected in net income in the period of disposition.

Intangible Assets

Intangible assets subject to amortization may include patents, contracts and goodwill. Patents are amortized over the shorter of their legal or useful lives while goodwill is periodically reviewed for impairment.

Income Taxes

The Company uses an asset and liability approach to financial accounting and reporting for income taxes. The difference between the financial statement and tax basis of assets and liabilities is determined quarterly. Deferred income tax assets and liabilities are computed for those differences that have future tax consequences using the currently enacted tax laws and rates that apply to the periods in which they are expected to affect taxable income. Valuation allowances are established, if necessary, to reduce the deferred tax asset to the amount that will be more likely than not be realized. Income tax expense is the current tax payable or refundable for the period, plus or minus the change in the deferred tax assets and liabilities.

Income taxes are provided for the tax effects of transactions reported in the financial statements and consists of taxes currently due plus deferred taxes of operating losses that are available to offset.

Use of Estimates in the Preparation of Financial Statements

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect reported amounts of assets and liabilities, disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements, and revenues and expenses during the reporting period. In these financial statements assets, liabilities, and earnings involve reliance on management's estimate. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Advertising and Promotion

All costs associated with advertising and promoting the Company are expensed in the year incurred. The Company has not incurred any advertising expenses for the quarter ended June 30, 2011.

Management Review Date

In preparing these financial statements, the Company has evaluated events and transactions for potential recognition or disclosure through June 30, 2011.

A. Plan of Operations

The Company's future operations depend upon capital from future financing activities such as subsequent offerings of its stock. During the next twelve months, the Company plans to satisfy its cash requirements by additional equity financing as well as revenue generated from actual operations. The Company is currently in negotiations to raise such additional capital, but has not yet received a current material commitment. The Company plans to undertake private placements of its common stock in order to raise future development and operating capital. There can be no assurances that the Company will be successful in raising the capital it requires through the sale of its common or preferred stock.

B. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations.

As noted above, the Company is in negotiations with one or more private investors for the sale of the Company's equity. Upon completion of the funding event, the Company's liquidity will improve dramatically. Also, the Company's access to the public markets should improve liquidity. Further, the Company's efforts to produce revenue generation directly from its operations is anticipated to provided additional working capital in the next 12 month period.

C. Off Balance Sheet Arrangements.

The Company has no off balance sheet arrangement that is reasonably likely to have a current or future effect on its financial condition, changes in financial condition, revenues or expenses, results of operations, liquidity, capital expenditure or capital resources that is material to investors.

Item V: Legal proceedings.

The Company is involved in the current legal proceeding: X-Clearing Corporation v. Marine Exploration, Inc., Case No. 2010cv8563, District Court, City and County of Denver. This is litigation filed by the Company's former transfer agent. The litigation seeks approximately 100,000 in alleged fees and penalties because the Company allegedly announced its plans to move from physical transfer to electronic transfer of stock. The Company has raised numerous meritorious defenses to the suit and believes that the Plaintiff's allegations which would prevent the electronic transfer of stock are invalid, unconscionable and contrary to industry standards. The case is in the post discovery stage. Additionally, the Company has been sued in the Dominican Republic by several ex-divers making claims for unpaid wages. However, the divers were actually employees of the Company's joint venture partner, Hispaniola Ventures, LLC. Therefore, the ex-divers, if their claims are legitimate, have sued the incorrect company. The suit is currently being defended by the Company's Dominican counsel and is at the pre-discovery phase.
