

FERN - Announces Off-Grid Solar Initiative

Fountain Hills, AZ – (July 11, 2017) – Fernhill Corporation. (OTC PINK: FERN)

Fernhill Corporation is pleased to announce its strategy to launch a new line of off-grid solar products under the current corporate structure.

This initiative will enable Fernhill to design, develop and create a suite of custom off-grid solar solutions moving forward. The proposed new products will be tailored to meet the special demands of clientele in this rapidly growing industry.

Currently, the specialty market and off-grid manufacturing sector is a relatively untapped space that is not in the scope of large tier manufacturers. These off-grid products can provide lucrative margins from a market that does not have a steady supply of readily available products. Moving forward, Fernhill Corporation plans to develop a suite of solutions that can be integrated into electric vehicles, power storage units, and other recreational products. Having the ability to create practical solutions for off-grid products will allow Fernhill to expand its operations and take advantage of this emerging sector.

Management will continue to update shareholders with further advancements to these projects as they develop.
