NOTE 1 - ORGANIZATION

Organization and Line of Business

Transatlantic Capital Inc. was incorporated on May 22, 2002, under the laws of the State of Nevada, as Medina International Corp. On May 4, 2006, the Company changed its name to ACRO Inc., and again on May 24, 2014 to Transatlantic Capital Inc.

The Company was originally an oil and gas consulting company in Canada and the United States that later shifted operations to Israel to engage in development of products for the detection of military and commercial explosives for the homeland security market. On May 24, 2014 a change of control took place and the Company changed its business model to develop and manage real estate. As a result, the Company's address was moved from Israel to Georgia. On August 21, 2019, the Company acquired 100% of SGP Tanzania Ltd, a Tanzanian Limited Company for a $6.0 million note payable with interest accruing at 7%.

NOTE 2 – SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Presentation

The accompanying unaudited interim financial statements of Transatlantic Capital, Inc. have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America and rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission. In the opinion of management, all adjustments, consisting of normal recurring adjustments, necessary for a fair presentation of financial position and the results of operations for the interim periods presented have been reflected herein. The results of operations for interim periods are not necessarily indicative of the results to be expected for the full year.

Going Concern

In conformity with generally accepted accounting principles, it has been assumed that the Company will continue as a going concern. The Company, however, continues to incur losses from operations and has a negative working capital. This raises substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern for a period of one year from the issuance of these financial statements. Management intends to raise financing through public equity or other means and interests that it deems necessary. These financial statements do not include any adjustments that might be necessary should the Company be unable to continue as a going concern.

NOTE 3 – RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

From time to time, the Company received advances from a significant stockholder, IMIR Management LLC, as a loan which are unsecured, non-interest bearing and due on demand. During the three months ended March 31, 2018, no monies were loaned to the Company. As of March 31, 2020 and December 31, 2019, advances from IMIR total $64,907.

On June 1, 2014, the Company executed a funding agreement with NFA Securities LLC, a stockholder, to fund ongoing company operations with a loan of up to $150,000. During the three months ended March 31, 2018, no monies were loaned to the Company. As of the three months ended March 31, 2020 and December 31, 2019, advances from NFA total $116,949. These advances are unsecured, non-interest bearing and are due on demand.

The total related parties balance as of March 31, 2020 and December 31, 2019 are $181,856.

NOTE 4 – BUSINESS COMBINATION

On August 21, 2019, the Company acquired 100% of SGP Tanzania Ltd (“SGP”), a Tanzanian Limited Company for a $6.0 million note payable with interest accruing at 7%. The company $2.0 million in equipment and $4.0 million in raw material inventory. SGP is a manufacturing of pre-fabricated homes.

NOTE 5 – COMMON STOCK

SHELL STATUS OF TRANSLANTIC CAPITAL INC.

RE: Shell Status of Transatlantic Capital, Inc.

Dear Sir or Madam:

I am writing this supplemental letter the purposes of providing a CEO opinion to Transatlantic Capital, regarding the operations, assets, and whether the Company is a shell following the acquisition of SGP Tanzania Ltd, a foreign corporation ("SGP").

For purposes of this letter, I have made such legal and factual examinations and inquiries as I have deemed sufficient to make a proper opinion and have examined, among other things, originals or copies, certified or otherwise identified to my satisfaction as being true copies, of such documents, corporate records, certificates of public officials, and other instruments which, in my judgment, I deemed necessary or advisable to enable us to render the opinions expressed below.

In my examination, I have assumed (without investigation or inquiry) the genuineness of all signatures, the authenticity of all documents submitted to us as originals, the conformity to originals of all documents submitted to us as certified, photocopied or conformed copies, the authenticity of originals of all such latter documents, and the due execution and delivery of all documents where due execution and delivery are prerequisites to the effectiveness thereof. I have examined copies identified to my satisfaction as true copies of the originals of the following information and documents and all the exhibits thereto, as a basis for the opinions expressed below:

1. Correspondence, website, contracts, financial statements, and other documentation detailing the operations of the Company.
2. Filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission.
3. General review of the books and records of SGP and the Company.

"Shell Company" and Footnote 32

In SEC Release No. 33-8587, published on July 15, 2005 (the "Release"), the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") defined a "shell company" as a company with no or nominal operations, and either no or nominal assets or assets consisting of any amount of cash and cash equivalents and nominal other assets. In adopting this definition, the Commission stated in the Release that it was trying to better describe the type of companies that were involved in certain schemes referred to in the Release. Specifically, it was focusing on companies which were essentially non-operating public companies that had no business or purpose other than a potential business combination transaction. Thus, the purpose of the shell definition was to provide a mechanism to address these types of schemes, and not to hamper the development of startups and development stage companies.

Further, the Commission stated that it intentionally did not define the term "nominal" and it did not set a quantitative threshold of what constitutes a shell company. The Commission stated, "We are not defining the term 'nominal,' as we believe that this term embodies the principle that we seek to apply and is not inappropriately vague or ambiguous." Indeed, the challenge presented to the Commission is providing a definition that can fit a variety of industries. For example, an oil and gas company or manufacturing operation would likely require much greater assets and operations than a software as a service company. Merriam-Webster defines nominal as "existing as something in name only: not actual or real: very small amount." However, the Commission attempted to provide some clarity regarding what they deemed "nominal" as a footnote to the Release (generally referred to as "Footnote 32").

In addition, under the definition set forth in Rule 12b-2 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 405 of the Act (33), if a company has more than nominal operations, further inquiry is not necessary as the company is not a shell company. Both Acts define a shell company as follows:

The term shell company means a registrant, other than an asset-backed issuer as defined in Item 1101(b) of Regulation AB that has:

1. No or nominal operations; and 2. Either: a. No or nominal assets; b. Assets consisting solely of cash and cash equivalents; or c. Assets consisting of any amount of cash and cash equivalents and nominal other assets.

Thus, the rule requires an analysis of, first, the operations of the company as nominal or not. If it is determined that the issuer has greater than nominal operations, no further analysis is required. However, if nominal operations are determined, we must then analyze the assets. The assets can be neither nominal nor solely consisting of cash and cash equivalent. Again, the determination of nominal is on a case by case basis. However, if an issuer whose assets consist solely of cash or cash equivalents, the issuer would be deemed a shell. It should be noted that although revenues are a good indicator of actual operations, the lack of revenues alone does not deem an issuer to have less than nominal operations.

As previously stated, due to the less than precise definition of a "nominal" each issuer must be evaluated on a case by case basis. In evaluating an issuer's shell status, we must look at the requirements of the issuer to successfully operate their business. What is more, the Commission has expressly stated in Footnote 172 of the Release, the restrictions of a shell company as stated under Rule 144, generally, are not intended to "capture" startup companies with limited operating history. Therefore, the fact that an issuer has limited operations and assets or is a development stage company does not make an issuer a shell company, so long as it has taken active steps to implement a legitimate business plan, AND the issuer has no intention of placing an operating business, with operations and/or assets in excess of nominal within the issuer in order to avoid the restrictions of Rule 419 and seek an acquisition target otherwise.

In light of the discussion above and for the reasons set forth herein, I am of the opinion that the Company is not a shell company. This conclusion is based upon the following:

1. TransAtlantic Capital Inc. was incorporated on May 22, 2002, under the laws of the State of Nevada, as Medina International Corp. On May 4, 2006, the Company changed its name to ACRO Inc., and again on May 24, 2014 to TransAtlantic Capital Inc.

The Company was originally an oil and gas consulting company in Canada and the United States that later shifted operations to Israel to engage in development of products for the detection of military and commercial explosives for the homeland security market. On May 24, 2014 a change of control took place and the Company changed its business model to develop and manage real estate. As a result, the company's address was moved from Israel to Georgia. The Company's common stock was first listed on the Over-the-Counter Bulletin Board or "OTC Bulletin Board" in April of 2003. It now trades on the OTCQB under the ticker symbol "TACI".

2. SGP Tanzania LTD was incorporated in the country of Tanzania August 2015. Initial operations of SGP consisted of general corporate structure and planning consistent with the exception described in Footnote 172.[1] Beginning in 2016, SGP Acquired a prefab housing factory from Ireland that builds 10,000 homes annually to meet the demand in east Africa of 3million low income homes. In addition Sgp partnered with the Tanzania military SUMA JKT to serve as the construction arm to build all properties as provide government contracts to SGP's Factory..

3. On August 23, 2019, the date of the acquisition of SGP had assets in the form of inventory, including prefab equipment and machinery to build 10,000 homes annually and evidence of operations as shown through paid invoices and actual product design. I have reviewed the invoices and have confirmed the operations of SGP

[1] As SGP is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company, the analysis of shell status of TACI prior to the acquisition has no substantive value in regards to shell status analysis of the Company at the time of and immediately following the acquisition of SGP. I believe it provides additional evidence to the conclusion that the Company is not now and has never been a shell. Consistent with a company undergoing a new product launch. The lack of revenues is consistent with a small Company launching a new business line and is not indicative of a lack of operations.

Conclusion

Based on my analysis of the given facts, I have concluded that the Company is not now and has not been for at least 12 months a "shell company" as defined by Rule 405 of the Securities Act of 1933 having greater than nominal both assets and operations both before and after the acquisition of SGP and the spin-off of the previous business operations.

This letter is limited to the matters expressly stated herein. This opinion is rendered to the Company and is solely for its benefit to be used only in connection with the matters stated herein, except that it may deliver copies of this opinion to its professional advisors, to any governmental agency or regulatory authority or if otherwise required by law.
