NOTE-4 APPOINTMENT OF NOAH WAGLER PRESIDENT & CEO

On Sept 18 2025, Noah Wagler, an innovative Amish farmer, was named the new CEO and President of the company. This marks the beginning of a transformative chapter for SMEV under the leadership of CEO Mr. Wagler. In his new position, Noah will be forming a strategic team dedicated to regenerative farming and agriculture technologies, aiming to secure multiple contracts and agreements that promote sustainable products and processes, significantly benefiting the consumers.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION and ANALYSIS

Simulated Environment Concepts is now focused on livestock industry and regenerative farming via its new subsidiary 'Naturally Amish'. The various lines of business will include:

- 2.) Retail sales of Prime Beef nationwide (beginning immediately).
- 3.) Commercial sales of cattle for processing and delivery to retailers.
- 4.) Manure treatment for use as fertilizer
- 5.) 'Structured Water' for improved livestock health and protein uptake
- 6.) Feed additives for benefits for improved diet and health.

The retail beef program is ready to commence sales with a 'friends and family' marketing plan. Mr. Wagler has set aside over 2,500 cattle for this line of business and margins will be much higher as the beef will be of 'Prime' quality and taste testing has in some cases been comparable to Wagyu. Mr. Wagler has the ability to significantly ramp up volumes should the initial sales be strong. Initial marketing will begin immediately as of March 30, 2026.

The company has access to cattle inventory and has opportunities to begin a commercial supplier relationship. If successful, the closing of a commercial supply contract will yield meaningful immediate positive cash flow. This is another primary focus as any meaningful volume of cattle processed would immediately add significant cash flow. Mr. Wagler has sourced an initial 20,000 cattle per year for commercial sales. Margins are lower as these are 'wholesale' transactions however volumes are much higher.

The company began testing water treatment equipment for use in the commercial cattle business. The initial results have been positive, and the next step is to improve efficiency and reliability. The testing is being conducted at CEO Noah Wagler's large cattle operation and farm near Ft. Wayne. The 'structured water' can improve protein uptake and improved health. This will be a longer-term effort but with substantial future upside.

The company is also beginning testing of proprietary feed additives which are expected to have similar results to the water treatment. Farmers and ranchers would have the option of using either one or both products. Either product produces a requisite Return on Investment. When used together the results are expected to be multiplied.

The short-term focus is to get a commercial cattle supply contract signed for immediate significant cash flow. Then Simultaneously get the initial Prime Beef Shipping started. Successfully implementing both programs will add meaningful market value and cash reserves for continued expansion.
