

2025

A letter from our Chairman & CEO

Dear Fellow Shareholders,

Oak View Bankshares, Inc. delivered strong financial results again in 2025, underscoring the strength of our relationship-driven community banking model, disciplined capital allocation, and the commitment of our employees in executing our strategy. Our results demonstrate that prudent capital and risk management can generate attractive returns while serving customers and communities with integrity.

We wake up every day focused on helping our customers achieve their dreams, while building long-term value for our shareholders. Our success is built on relationships, not algorithms. By taking the time to understand our customers' needs, we earned trust that translated into $84.6 million in local deposit growth. These deposits supported $109.8 million in new loan originations to consumers and small businesses, driving job creation and economic vitality across our markets.

Our approach positions us to support our customers through all stages of the economic cycle while building a healthy, resilient institution that serves communities, attracts top talent, and delivers sustainable shareholder value. Careful management of credit, liquidity, and interest rate risks, noninterest expense control, and capital formation remain central to our strategy. We will continue to deploy capital responsibly through organic growth, balance sheet optimization, and opportunistic share repurchases as conditions allow.

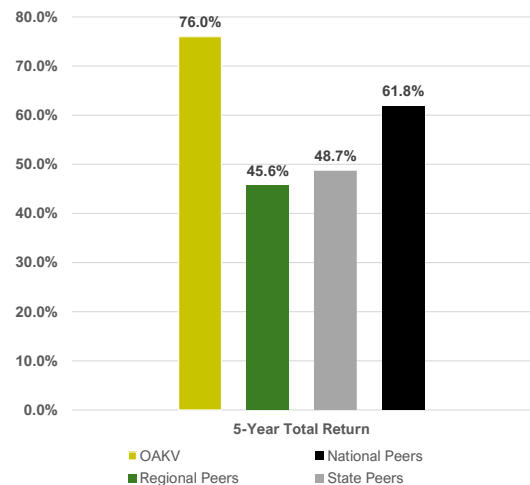

Shareholder Wealth

Creating shareholder wealth remains our top priority and our five-year track record speaks for itself. Since 2020, we have raised the annual common dividend every year, most recently to $0.27 per share in 2025, an increase of roughly 35.0% over the prior year. Tangible book value per share grew from $9.08 at year-end 2020 to $16.56 at year-end 2025, compounding at approximately 13% annually. All told, total shareholder return over the period was 76.0% or 12.0% per annum.

As reflected throughout this report, our disciplined focus on strategic priorities has begun to pay meaningful returns to shareholders. We allocate capital with a long-term focus while balancing asset growth with sound risk management. These results show that disciplined execution of the long-term strategy is paying off.

We raised additional common equity of $7.8 million and issued $10.0 million in subordinated debt. This new capital, combined with retained earnings, reinforces our commitment to provide reliable and growing returns to shareholders while retaining sufficient capital to fund future growth initiatives. The recently announced share repurchase program reflects our confidence in Oak View's future and a commitment to improving stock liquidity.

Leading to Significant Total Return to Shareholders

Return on Average Equity

Return on average equity exceeded 12% for the 4th consecutive year, which compared favorably with banks across Virginia. Oak View ranked in the 89th percentile among Virginia-based publicly traded banks with total assets between $250 million and $20.0 billion, reflecting strong operating performance while continuing to invest in infrastructure and increasing capacity for continued asset growth.

Earnings Per Share

Growth in Earnings Per Share (EPS) has outpaced peer institutions across U.S. publicly traded banks and thrifts with total assets between $250 million and $1.5 billion over the last 10 years, despite the 558,227 increase in the number of shares outstanding as a result of our common equity raise in March 2025.

Looking ahead, we enter our next chapter with confidence. Our strong presence in one of the most attractive markets in the country positions us well for excellent organic growth as we serve small businesses, non-profits and consumers. We will continue to prudently invest excess capital into our securities strategy, to provide a return until it is needed for organic growth. Our strategy is clear, our balance sheet is strong, and our culture remains grounded in accountability, integrity, and service. While economic and regulatory uncertainty persists, our discipline and long-term perspective position us well for continued success.

On behalf of the Board of Directors and the entire Oak View team, thank you for your continued trust and support. We are proud of what we have built and appreciate the contributions of so many that have made it possible.

Sincerely,

Michael A. Ewing
Chairman and Chief Executive Officer

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Board of Directors
Oak View Bankshares, Inc.

Opinion

We have audited the consolidated financial statements of Oak View Bankshares, Inc. and its subsidiary (the Company), which comprise the consolidated balance sheets as of December 31, 2025 and 2024, the related consolidated statements of income, comprehensive income, changes in shareholders' equity and cash flows for the years then ended, and the related notes to the consolidated financial statements (collectively, the financial statements).

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company as of December 31, 2025, and 2024, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAS). Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of the Company and to meet our other ethical responsibilities, in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audits. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Responsibilities of Management for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is required to evaluate whether there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern for one year after the date of the financial statements are issued or available to be issued.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not absolute assurance and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with GAAS will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with GAAS, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the financial statements.
- Conclude whether, in our judgment, there are conditions or events considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control-related matters that we identified during the audit.

Other Information Included in the Annual Report

Management is responsible for the other information included in the annual report. The other information comprises the letter from the Chairman and CEO to shareholders and stock information but does not include the financial statements and our auditor's report thereon. Our opinion on the financial statements does not cover the other information, and we do not express an opinion or any form of assurance thereon.

In connection with our audit of the financial statements, our responsibility is to read the other information and consider whether a material inconsistency exists between the other information and the financial statements, or the other information otherwise appears to be materially misstated. If, based on the work performed, we conclude that an uncorrected material misstatement of the other information exists, we are required to describe it in our report.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

Note 1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Oak View Bankshares, Inc. (the “Company”) is a holding company headquartered in Warrenton, Virginia. The Company is the parent company of its wholly owned subsidiary, Oak View National Bank (the “Bank”). The Company provides banking services in the communities in and around Marshall, Warrenton, Culpeper, and Rappahannock, Virginia.

The Bank has one wholly owned subsidiary, Oak View Investments, Inc., which was organized in November 2025 and is a Delaware corporation. Oak View Investments, Inc. was organized to hold and provide enhance risk management activities for certain types of investment securities.

The Company’s stock is traded on the OTC Markets Group’s OTCID under the ticker symbol “OAKV”.

Principles of Consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of Oak View Bankshares, Inc., and its wholly owned subsidiary, Oak View National Bank as well as indirect subsidiaries which are wholly-owned or controlled. All significant intercompany transactions have been eliminated in consolidation. The accounting and reporting policies of the Company conform to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAP) and to predominant practices within the banking industry.

Basis of Presentation

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. The material estimate that is particularly susceptible to significant changes in the near term relates to the determination of the allowance for credit losses on loans. In the opinion of management, all adjustments, consisting only of normal recurring adjustments, which are necessary for a fair presentation of the results of operations in these financial statements, have been made.

Subsequent Events

Subsequent events have been considered through April 16, 2026, the same day on which these financial statements were issued.

Reclassifications

Certain reclassifications have been made to the prior period financial statements to conform to the current period presentation. Such reclassifications are considered immaterial and have no effect on net income, total assets or shareholders’ equity as previously reported.

Business Segments

The Company's financial results are aggregated into one reportable operating segment with revenue derived from the business of community banking. Through its community banking segment, the Company offers a full range of products and services through various delivery channels. The banking products and services include the acceptance of deposits in checking, savings, time and money market accounts; the origination and servicing of consumer, commercial, construction and real estate loans; and other services including safe deposit boxes and wire transfers. The community banking segment derives revenues mainly from interest income on loans to customers, investment securities held, and fees and income related to the services listed above.

The accounting policies of the community banking segment are the same as those described in the summary of significant accounting policies. The Company's Chief Executive Officer, President, Chief Financial Officer and Chief Operations Officer are responsible for the day-to-day management of the Company, including regularly reviewing the operating and financial performance of the Company on a consolidated basis.

The primary measure of financial performance is consolidated net income which is used to assess performance and make decisions about resource allocation. Net income is used to monitor budget versus actual results as well as comparing the previous year's results. Comparative analysis along with the monitoring of budget versus actual results are used in assessing the performance of the segment. The presentation of financial performance to management is consistent with amounts and financial statement lines shown in the Company's consolidated balance sheets and consolidated statements of income. The Company's significant expenses are segmented by category and amount in the consolidated statements of income to include all significant items including salaries and employee benefits, occupancy expense, data processing, professional service fees and other general operating expenses.

Cash, Cash Equivalents, and Cash Concentrations

The Bank maintains cash accounts in various correspondent banks. At December 31, 2025, and 2024 the total amount by which these deposits exceeded the federally insured limits was $4.4 million and $4.0 million, respectively. For purposes of the statements of cash flows, cash and cash equivalents include cash on hand and amounts due from banks.

Interest-Bearing Deposits in Banks

Interest-bearing deposits in banks have various maturities of less than 12 months and are recorded at cost on the Company's consolidated balance sheets.

Securities

The Company has classified investments in debt securities as either held to maturity or available for sale, based on management's intent. The Company has no investments classified as trading. Purchase premiums are recognized in interest income using the effective interest rate method over the period from purchase to maturity or, for callable securities, the earliest call date, and purchase discounts are recognized in the same manner from purchase to maturity.

Held To Maturity (HTM)

Certain debt securities that management has the positive intent and ability to hold to maturity are classified as HTM and recorded at amortized cost. The Company's HTM securities portfolio is comprised of corporate debt securities made up of subordinated debt of U.S.

financial institutions and a U.S. Treasury bond. These securities are analyzed quarterly to determine the potential for credit losses on an individual security basis.

Available For Sale (AFS)

Debt securities not classified as HTM are classified as AFS and recorded at estimated fair value, with the unrealized gains and losses excluded from earnings and reported in other comprehensive income. These securities may be sold at any time based upon management's assessment of changes in economic or financial market conditions, interest rate or prepayment risks, liquidity considerations and other factors. Gains and losses on the sale of securities are recorded on the trade date and are determined using the specific identification method.

Restricted Stock

The Company's restricted stock portfolio consists of securities of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta ("FHLB"), the Federal Reserve Bank, Community Bankers Bank and Banker's Title. Because these securities do not have a readily available market, and they have no quoted market value they are recorded at cost on the Company's consolidated balance sheets.

Loans

The Company makes mortgage, commercial and consumer loans to customers. Loans that management has the intent and ability to hold for the foreseeable future or until maturity or payoff are reported at amortized costs. Amortized cost is the principal balance outstanding, net of purchase premiums and discounts and deferred fees and costs. The Company has elected to exclude accrued interest receivable from the amortized cost basis. Interest on loans is accrued based on the unpaid principal balance outstanding.

The Company segments its loan portfolio into loans secured by real estate, commercial loans, and consumer loans. Loans secured by real estate are further divided into the following classes: construction, land development and other land loans, residential real estate, commercial real estate and home equity loans.

Risk factors evaluated include the economic environment's impact on each portfolio segment and the following specific risk factors:

- Construction and land development loans are granted for residential and commercial construction along with land. Risks are associated with the completion of the project, the value of the collateral, and the continued creditworthiness of the borrower.
- Residential real estate loans are loans collateralized with 1–4 family single family homes. This segment includes loans for consumer and investment purposes. Single family residential loans for consumer purposes have risks associated with the continued creditworthiness of the borrower and the value of the collateral. Single family residential loans for investment purposes have risks associated with the continued creditworthiness of the borrower, the value of the collateral, and either the net operating income generated from the lease of the real estate collateral or income generated from the sale of the collateral.
- Commercial real estate loans are loans secured by commercial property both owner and nonowner occupied. This segment includes owner-occupied and non-owner occupied commercial real estate loans. Owner-occupied commercial real estate loans have risks associated with the operations of the business occupying the property and the value of the collateral. Non-owner occupied commercial real estate loans have risk associated with either the net operating income generated from the lease of the real estate collateral or income generated from the sale of the collateral. Other risk factors include the creditworthiness of the sponsor and the value of the collateral.

- Home equity loans are loans granted based on equity on 1–4 family properties. Risks are associated with the continued creditworthiness of the borrower and changes in the value of the collateral.
- Commercial loans are secured and unsecured loans for working capital, expansion, and other business purposes. Risks are associated with the operations of the business and the value of the collateral, if any.
- Consumer loans are loans secured and unsecured to consumer customers. Risks are associated with the creditworthiness of the borrower and the value of the collateral, if any.

The accrual of interest is generally discontinued when a loan becomes 90 days past due and is not well collateralized and in the process of collection, or when management believes, after considering economic and business conditions and collection efforts, that the principal or interest will not be collectible in the normal course of business. Past due status is based on the contractual terms of the loan. A loan is considered past due when a scheduled payment has not been received 30 days after the contractual due date.

All accrued interest is reversed against interest income when a loan is placed on nonaccrual status. Interest received on such loans is accounted for using the cost-recovery method, until qualifying for return to accrual. Under the cost-recovery method, interest income is not recognized until the loan balance is reduced to zero. Loans are returned to accrual status when all principal and interest amounts contractually due are brought current, there is a sustained period of repayment performance, and future payments are reasonably assured.

Allowance for Credit Losses

The allowance for credit losses on loans, the allowance for unfunded loan commitments, and the allowance for held to maturity debt securities is established through charges to earnings in the form of a provision for credit losses on the consolidated statements of income. The allowance incorporates forward-looking information and applies a reversion methodology beyond the reasonable and supportable forecast. The allowance is increased by a provision charged to operating expenses. Management evaluates the appropriateness of the allowance at least quarterly. This evaluation is inherently subjective as it requires material estimates that may be susceptible to significant change from period to period.

Management may adjust its assumptions to account for differences between expected and actual losses from period to period. The variability of management's assumptions could alter the level of the allowance for credit losses and may have a material impact on the Company's future results of operations and financial condition. The loss estimation models and methods used to determine the allowance for credit losses are continually refined and enhanced.

Allowance for Credit Losses on Loans

The allowance for credit losses on loans is a valuation account that is deducted from the loans' amortized cost basis to present the net amount expected to be collected on the loans. Loans are charged off against the allowance when management believes the uncollectibility of a loan balance is confirmed. Expected recoveries do not exceed the aggregate amounts previously charged-off and expected to be charged-off. Accrued interest receivable is excluded from the estimate of credit losses.

The allowance for credit losses on loans represents management's estimate of lifetime credit losses as of the balance sheet date. The allowance for credit losses on loans is estimated by management using relevant available information, from both internal and external sources, related to past events, current conditions, and reasonable and supportable forecasts.

The Company measures expected credit losses for loans on a pooled basis when similar risk characteristics exist. The Company has identified the following portfolio segments and calculates the allowance for credit losses for loans for each using the Weighted Average Remaining Maturity (WARM) methodology.

The Company has elected to use the WARM methodology that uses an average loss rate and applies it to future expected outstanding balances of each pool. WARM determines look-back periods by using historical periods, that represents the approximation for projecting future credit loss trends. The Company calculates the WARM of its portfolio using prepayment assumptions and derives its quantitative loss rates by measuring the Company's loss rates over historical periods which are expected to be similar to the estimated life of the loans using data derived primarily from the Company's loss experience. To aggregate the portfolio with similar risk characteristics, the Company has elected to use the FFIEC Call Report data for loan segmentation.

Additionally, the allowance for credit losses on loans includes adjustments for qualitative factors that are likely to cause estimated credit losses to differ from historical experience. These qualitative adjustments may increase or reduce reserve levels and include adjustments for changes in general market, economic and business conditions; the nature and volume of the loan portfolio; the volume and severity of delinquencies and adversely classified loan balances; the value of underlying collateral; changes in lending policies and underwriting standards; concentrations of credit risk, if any; and the results of internal loan reviews and examinations by bank regulatory agencies pertaining to the allowance for credit losses.

Loans that do not share risk characteristics are evaluated on an individual basis. When the borrower is experiencing financial difficulty and repayment is expected to be provided through operation or sale of the collateral, the expected credit losses are based on the fair value of the collateral at the reporting date, adjusted for selling costs as appropriate. The Company had no individually evaluated loans at December 31, 2025, and 2024.

Allowance for Credit Losses for Unfunded Commitments

Financial instruments include off-balance sheet credit instruments, such as commitments to make loans and commercial letters of credit issued to meet customer financing needs. The Company's exposure to credit loss in the event of nonperformance by the other party to the financial instrument for off-balance sheet loan commitments is represented by the contractual amount of those instruments. Such financial instruments are recorded when they are funded.

The Company records an allowance for unfunded commitments, reported in other liabilities, for expected credit losses on commitments to extend credit that are not unconditionally cancelable by the Company. The reserve for unfunded commitments is measured based on the principles utilized in estimating the allowance for credit losses on loans and an estimate of the amount of unfunded commitments expected to be advanced. Changes in the reserve for unfunded commitments are recorded through the provision for credit losses.

Allowance for Credit Losses for Held to Maturity Securities

The Company's allowance for credit losses for HTM securities is deducted from the amortized cost basis of the HTM portfolio, with the losses recorded on the consolidated statements of income within the provision for credit losses. Expected credit losses on the Company's corporate debt securities, which are made up of subordinated debt of U.S. financial institutions, is measured based on the financial strength of each financial institution. The Company uses a database of current and historical financial trends as a basis for this analysis. The Company's investment in a U.S. Treasury bond, which is a direct obligation issued by the United States government, is not evaluated, as there is no evidence supporting the establishment of credit losses.

Allowance for Credit Losses for Available for Sale Securities

The Company evaluates the fair value and credit quality of its AFS securities portfolio on a quarterly basis. If the Company has the intent to sell the security, or it is more likely than not that the Company will be required to sell the security, the security is written down to fair value, and the entire loss is recorded in earnings.

If either of the above criteria is not met, the Company evaluates whether the decline in fair value is the result of credit losses or other factors. In making the assessment, the Company may consider various factors including the extent to which fair value is less than amortized costs, performance on any underlying collateral, downgrades in the ratings of the security by a rating agency, the failure of the issuer to make scheduled interest or principal payments and adverse conditions specifically related to the security. If the assessment indicates that a credit loss exists, the present value of cash flows expected to be collected is compared to the amortized cost basis of the security and any excess is recorded as an allowance for credit loss, limited to the amount that the fair value is less than the amortized cost basis. Any amount of unrealized loss that has not been recorded through an allowance for credit losses is recognized in other comprehensive income.

Changes in the allowance for credit losses are recorded as provision for (or reversal of) credit losses expense. Losses are charged against the allowance for credit losses when management believes an AFS security is confirmed to be uncollectible or when either of the criteria regarding intent or requirements to sell are met. At December 31, 2025, and 2024, there was no allowance for credit losses related to the AFS securities portfolio.

Loan Modifications to Borrowers Experiencing Financial Difficulties

Occasionally, the Company modifies loans to borrowers in financial distress. Management strives to identify borrowers in financial difficulty early and work with them to modify their loan to more affordable terms before their loan reaches nonaccrual status. These modified terms may include rate reductions, principal forgiveness, payment forbearance and other actions intended to minimize economic loss and to avoid foreclosure or repossession of the collateral. In cases where borrowers were granted new terms that provided for a reduction of either interest or principal, impairment is measured on the restructuring as noted above for individually evaluated loans. The Company did not modify any loans to borrowers experiencing financial difficulty during the years ended December 31, 2025, and 2024.

Transfers of Financial Assets

Transfers of financial assets are accounted for as sales when control over the assets have been surrendered. Control over transferred assets is deemed to be surrendered when (1) the assets have been isolated from the Company, (2) the transferee obtains the right (free of conditions that constrain it from taking advantage of that right) to pledge or exchange the transferred assets, and (3) the Company does not maintain effective control over the transferred assets through a repurchase agreement before their maturity or the ability to unilaterally cause the holder to return specific assets.

Premises and Equipment

Land is carried at cost. Furniture, equipment, and software are carried at cost less accumulated depreciation and amortization computed on the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets, which range from 3 to 39 years, or the expected terms of the leases, if shorter. Maintenance and repairs are charged to the expense as incurred and major improvements are capitalized. Upon sale or retirement of depreciable properties, the cost and related accumulated depreciation are netted against proceeds, and any resulting gain or loss is included in income.

Income Taxes

The Company determines deferred income tax assets and liabilities based on temporary differences between the financial statement and tax bases of assets and liabilities that will result in taxable or deductible amounts in the future based on enacted tax laws and rates applicable to the periods in which the differences are expected to affect taxable income. Income tax expense includes taxes on income or loss that are taxable in the period and changes during the period in deferred tax assets and liabilities. The effects of changes in tax law are recognized in income tax expense in the period in which the changes are enacted.

The benefit of a tax position is recognized in the period during which, based on all available evidence, management believes it is more likely than not that the position will be sustained upon examination, including the resolution of appeals or litigation processes, if any. Tax positions taken are not offset or aggregated with other positions. Tax positions that meet the more likely than not recognition threshold are measured as the largest amount of tax benefit that is more than 50 percent likely of being realized upon settlement with the applicable taxing authority. Interest and penalties associated with the unrecognized tax benefits are recognized as a component of income tax expense.

Bank Owned Life Insurance

The Company has life insurance policies for certain executives and other officers. The Company receives the cash surrender value of each policy upon its termination or benefits are payable upon the death of the insured. These policies are recorded in the consolidated balance sheets at their net cash surrender value. Changes in net cash surrender value are recognized in noninterest income in the consolidated statements of income. Adjustments to cash surrender value and death benefits received, if recognized as income, are currently tax-exempt.

Other Real Estate Owned (OREO)

Assets acquired through, or in lieu of, foreclosure are held for sale and are initially recorded at fair value, less estimated costs to sell at the date of foreclosure. Physical possession of residential real estate securing consumer mortgage loans occurs when legal title is obtained upon completion of foreclosure or when the borrower conveys all interest in the property to satisfy the loan through completion of a deed in lieu of foreclosure or similar legal agreement. After foreclosure, management periodically performs valuations of the foreclosed assets based on updated appraisals, general market conditions, recent sales of similar properties, length of time the properties have been held, and the ability and intention regarding continued ownership of the properties. The Company may incur additional write-downs of foreclosed assets to fair value less estimated costs to sell if valuations indicate a further deterioration in market conditions. Revenue and expenses from operations and changes in the property valuations are included in other noninterest expenses and improvements are capitalized.

The Company records a gain or loss from the sale of OREO when control of the property transfers to the buyer, which generally occurs at the time of an executed deed. When the Company finances the sale of OREO to the buyer, the Company assesses whether the buyer is committed to perform the obligations under the contract and whether collectability of the transaction price is probable. In determining the gain/loss on the sale, the Company adjusts the transaction price and the related gain/loss on sale if a significant financing component is present.

As of December 31, 2025, and 2024 the Company had no properties classified as OREO. There were no consumer mortgage loans secured by residential real estate properties for which formal foreclosure proceedings were in process as of December 31, 2025, and 2024.

Advertising Costs

The Company follows the policy of charging the costs of advertising to expenses as incurred.

Earnings Per Common Share

Basic earnings per common share represent income available to common shareholders divided by the weighted average number of common shares outstanding during the period. Diluted earnings per share reflect additional common shares that would have been outstanding if dilutive potential common shares had been issued, as well as any adjustment to income that would result from the assumed issuance. For the years ended December 31, 2025, and 2024 there were no dilutive potential common shares outstanding.

Derivative Financial Instruments

The Company recognizes derivative financial instruments at fair value as either other assets or other liabilities in the consolidated balance sheets. Accounting for changes in fair value of derivatives is dependent on whether the derivative is designated and qualifies in a hedging relationship. For those derivatives to which hedge accounting is applied, the Company formally documents the hedging relationship and the risk management objective and strategy for undertaking the hedge. This documentation identifies the hedging instrument, the hedged item or transaction, the nature of the risk being hedged, and, unless the hedge meets all the criteria to assume there is no ineffectiveness, the method that will be used to assess the effectiveness of the hedging instrument. The Company typically assesses effectiveness at inception and on an ongoing basis. In 2025 and 2024, all the Company's derivative financial instruments, which consisted solely of interest rate swaps, had been designated and qualified as either cash flow or fair value hedges.

Gains or losses on the Company's cash flow hedges are reported as a component of other comprehensive income (loss), net of deferred income taxes, and reclassified into earnings during the same period(s) during which the hedged transactions affect earnings. Changes in the fair value of a derivative that has been designated and qualifies as a fair value hedge, along with the changes in the fair value of the hedged asset or liability that is attributable to the hedged risk, are recorded in current period earnings. Accrued settlements on both cash flow and fair value hedges are recorded in interest income or interest expense, based on the item being hedged.

The Company discontinues hedge accounting when it determines that the derivative is no longer effective in offsetting changes in the fair value or cash flows of the hedged item, the derivative is settled or terminates, a hedged forecasted transaction is no longer probable, or the treatment of the derivative as a hedge is no longer appropriate or intended. When hedge accounting is discontinued, subsequent changes in fair value of the derivative are recorded as noninterest income or expense. When a cash flow hedge is discontinued but the hedged cash flows or forecasted transactions have a more than remote probability of occurring, gains or losses that were accumulated in other comprehensive income are amortized into earnings over the same periods which the hedged transactions will affect earnings. When a fair value hedge is discontinued, the hedged asset or liability is no longer adjusted for changes in fair value and the existing basis adjustment is amortized or accreted over the remaining life of the asset or liability. The Company's derivative financial instruments are described more fully in Note 11.

Revenue Recognition

Most of the Company's revenues are associated with financial instruments, including interest income from loans and securities. The Company's noninterest income includes service charges on deposit accounts, other service charges and fees and interchange fee income. Substantially all the Company's revenue is generated from contracts with customers. Noninterest income streams are discussed below.

Service Charges on Deposit Accounts

The Company earns fees from its deposit customers for overdraft and account maintenance services. Overdraft fees are recognized when the overdraft occurs. Account maintenance fees, which relate primarily to monthly maintenance, are earned over the course of a month, representing the period over which the Company satisfies the performance obligation.

Other Service Charges and Fees

Includes fees from customers for transaction-based services, such as safe deposit box, ATM, stop payment and wire transfer fees. In each case, these service charges and fees are recognized in income at the time or within the same period that the Company's performance obligation is satisfied.

Interchange Income

Interchange fees are earned from debit and credit cardholder transactions conducted through various payment networks. Interchange fees from cardholder transactions represent a percentage of the underlying transaction value and are recognized daily, concurrently with the transaction processing services.

Adoption of New Accounting Standards in 2025

Effective January 1, 2025, the Company adopted ASU 2023-09, “Income Taxes (Topic 740) – Improvements to Income Tax Disclosures.” These amendments required a public entity to disclose, on an annual basis, specific categories in the rate reconciliation and provide additional information for reconciling items that meet a quantitative threshold, the amount of income taxes paid disaggregated by federal, state and foreign taxes, and the amount of income taxes paid disaggregated by individual jurisdictions in which income taxes paid is equal to or greater than five percent of total income taxes paid. These amendments also required entities to disclose income from continuing operations before income tax expense disaggregated between domestic and foreign, as well as income tax expense from continuing operations disaggregated by federal, state and foreign. The amendments were applied retrospectively and did not have a material effect on the Company’s consolidated financial statements. Refer to Note 10 for more information about income taxes.

Recent Significant Accounting Pronouncements

In November 2024, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) issued Accounting Standards Update (ASU) 2024-03, “Income Statement – Reporting Comprehensive Income – Expense Disaggregation Disclosures.” The amendments in ASU 2024-03 require disaggregated disclosure of income statement expenses for public business entities. Such disclosures must be made on an annual and interim basis in a tabular format in the footnotes to the financial statements. The amendments require companies to disclose disaggregated information about specific natural expense categories that are considered relevant and applicable, including (1) purchases of inventory, (2) employee compensation, (3) depreciation, (4) intangible asset amortization, and (5) oil and gas activities. The amendments also provide clarification regarding identifying relevant expenses captions and requires disclosure of selling expenses on an annual and interim basis. Entities are required to apply the guidance in ASU 2024-03 consistently for all periods presented and is effective for all public business entities for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2026, and interim periods within fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2027. Early adoption is permitted. The amendments are to be applied on a prospective basis; however, retrospective application is permitted. The Company does not expect the adoption of ASU 2024-03 to have a material effect on its consolidated financial statements. Other accounting standards that have been issued by the FASB or other standards-setting bodies are not currently expected to have a material effect on the Company’s financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

In November 2025, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) issued ASU 2025-08, “Financial Instruments—Credit Losses (Topic 326): Purchased Loans.” The amendments in this ASU expand the population of acquired financial assets accounted for using the gross-up approach. Acquired loans (excluding credit cards) are deemed purchased seasoned loans and accounted for using the gross-up approach upon acquisition if criteria established by the new guidance are met. This change aims to enhance comparability, consistency, and better reflect the economics of acquiring financial assets. This ASU is effective for annual reporting periods beginning after December 15, 2026, and for interim reporting periods within those annual reporting periods. Early adoption is permitted in an interim or annual reporting period in which financial statements have not yet been issued or made available for issuance. If an entity adopts this ASU in an interim reporting period, it should apply it as of the beginning of that interim reporting period or the beginning of the annual reporting period that includes that interim reporting period. The Company does not expect the adoption of ASU 2025-08 to have a material impact on its consolidated financial statements.

Note 2. Securities

The Company invests in a variety of debt securities, principally obligations of the U.S. government and federal agencies, state and political subdivisions, mortgage-backed securities, asset-backed securities and corporations. As of December 31, 2025, and December 31, 2024, all debt securities were classified as held to maturity (“HTM”) or available for sale (“AFS”).

Unrealized losses on 47 AFS debt securities in the tables above represent temporary fluctuations resulting from changes in interest rates and market conditions. Unrealized losses in the AFS portfolio are accounted for as an adjustment, net of taxes, to other comprehensive income in shareholders' equity. The Company does not believe the securities presented above are impaired due to reasons of credit quality, as substantially all debt securities are rated above investment grade, and all are paying principal and interest according to their contractual terms. The Company does not intend to sell, nor is it more likely than not that it will be required to sell securities in a loss position prior to recovery of their cost, and therefore, management believes the unrealized losses detailed above do not require an allowance for credit losses relating to these securities to be recognized.

The following discussion provides additional information on the securities that are reflected in the table above:

- U.S. Treasury securities – Total of 8 bonds
These securities are backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. government and therefore not considered to be impaired.
- Asset-Backed Securities – Total of 11 bonds
These are the senior tranche of private label securities. The senior tranche receives principal payments first and losses last and has a built-in credit enhancement of 20%+, which the Company believes is sufficient protection against losses given relatively harsh stress case scenarios. Subordinate tranches absorb losses and do not receive principal until the senior tranche is paid in full.
- Mortgage-Backed Securities – Total of 13 Agency and 15 Nonagency
Agency mortgage-backed securities represent government-sponsored entities and agencies as well as mortgage-backed securities and collateralized mortgage obligations, which are all either issued by a direct governmental entity or a government-sponsored entity, have no historical evidence supporting expected credit losses.

Nonagency mortgage-backed securities are private-label mortgage-backed securities which are primarily driven by higher projected collateral losses, wider credit spreads and changes in interest rates. The Company evaluated credit impairment using an economic cash flow model which resulted in no impairment. Management continuously monitors the mortgage-backed securities portfolio for potential permanent impairment. Analytical tools used include robust credit risk analysis.

Allowance for Credit Losses – AFS Securities

Management evaluates debt securities to determine whether the unrealized loss is due to credit-related factors or non-credit related factors. This analysis occurs on a quarterly basis. Consideration is given to the extent to which fair value is less than cost, whether the debt securities are issued by the federal government or its agencies, whether downgrades by bond rating agencies have occurred, industry analysts' reports, and correlations between fair value changes and interest rate changes among instruments that are not credit sensitive. If the assessment reveals that a credit loss exists, the present value of the expected cash flows of the security is compared to the amortized cost basis of the security. If the present value of future cash flows expected to be collected is less than the amortized cost, an allowance for the credit loss is recorded. The loss is limited by the amount that the amortized cost exceeds fair value.

As of December 31, 2025, and 2024, the Company did not intend to sell any of the AFS debt securities, did not expect to be required to sell these debt securities, and expected to recover the entire amortized cost basis of all the debt securities. Based on the issuers' credit quality, the investment grade of the bonds, and payment status of principal and interest according to the contractual terms, management believes the unrealized losses detailed above are related to fluctuations in market conditions, primarily interest rates, and is not reflective of the deterioration in credit, and therefore an allowance for credit losses relating to these securities was not recognized.

Accrued interest receivable on AFS securities totaled $2.1 million and $1.3 million as of December 31, 2025, and December 31, 2024, respectively, and is included in accrued interest receivable on the consolidated balance sheets. The Company did not record any write-offs of accrued interest income on AFS securities for the years ended December 31, 2025, or 2024. No securities held by the Company were delinquent on contractual payments as of December 31, 2025, or 2024, nor were any such securities placed on nonaccrual status during the periods then ended.

Allowance for Credit Losses – HTM Securities

The Company evaluates the credit risk of its HTM debt securities on a quarterly basis. The HTM portfolio includes one debt security issued by the U.S. Treasury and 28 corporate debt securities. The U.S. Treasury debt security is a direct governmental obligation and has no historical evidence supporting expected credit losses; therefore, the Company has estimated no losses and will monitor this assumption in the future for any economical or governmental policies that could affect this assumption. The corporate debt securities are comprised of subordinated debt issuances of U.S. financial institutions. The Company estimates expected credit losses on HTM debt securities using an instrument-level process which measures the financial strength of each financial institution based on information obtained from independent databases of current and historical financial trends as a basis for this analysis. Based on management's evaluation of these securities, there was no provision for credit losses recorded as of December 31, 2025, and 2024, based on financial metrics of each of these individual institutions.

The following table presents the amortized cost of HTM debt securities by security type and credit rating:

The characteristics of the Company's risk classification ratings are as follows:

- Pass rated loans include all loans which are acceptable quality or better. Borrowers in this category have acceptable financial conditions with demonstrated repayment ability.
- Special mention loans have the potential for developing weaknesses that deserve extra attention. If the developing weakness is uncorrected or not mitigated, there may be deterioration in the ability of the borrower to repay.
- Substandard loans have a well-defined weakness and there is a possibility that future loss could be sustained if such weakness is not corrected.

- Doubtful loans have all the weaknesses inherent in loans classified Substandard, plus the added characteristic that the weaknesses make collection or liquidation in full highly questionable and improbable.
- Loss represents a classification for loans which are considered uncollectable and are in the process of being charged off.

Note 11. Derivative Financial Instruments

The Company utilizes derivatives in the form of interest rate swap agreements as part of its asset liability management strategy to help manage its interest rate risk position. The notional amounts of the interest rate swaps do not represent amounts exchanged by the parties. The amount exchanged is determined by reference to the notional amount and the other terms of the individual interest rate swap agreements. The Company does not use derivatives for trading or speculative purposes.

Cash flow hedges

At December 31, 2025, and 2024, the Company had designated four and one interest rate swap transactions as cash flow hedges, respectively. For transactions in which we are hedging the variability of cash flows related to a variable-rate asset, liability, or a forecasted transaction, changes in the fair value of the derivative instrument are reported in accumulated other comprehensive income (loss). The gains and losses on the derivative instrument, which are reported in comprehensive income, are reclassified to earnings in the periods in which earnings are impacted by the variability of cash flows of the hedged items. All of the Company's cash flow hedges at each period end were hedging future interest payments on base or replacement funding. The cash flow hedges mature beginning in 2028 and through 2031. Each of the hedges were determined to be effective for the duration of their time outstanding in 2025 and 2024, respectively.

The following table presents the notional amount and fair values of the interest rate swaps designated as fair value hedges as of December 31, 2025. Derivative assets are included in other assets and derivative liabilities are included in other liabilities in the Consolidated Balance Sheets.

Fair value hedges

At December 31, 2025 and 2024, the Company had designated fifteen and four interest rate swaps as fair value hedges, respectively. Interest rate swaps are designated as fair value hedges when they are used to manage exposure to changes in fair value of certain financial assets, referred to as the hedged items, which fluctuate in value because of movements in interest rates. These interest rate swaps were designated as fair value hedges of specific fixed-rate investment securities or closed portfolios of fixed-rate investment securities using the portfolio layer method. The portfolio layer approach allows the Company to designate as the hedged item a stated amount of the assets that are not expected to be affected by prepayments, defaults, or other factors affecting the timing and amount of cash flows. The fair value hedges mature beginning in 2028 and through 2045. Each of the hedges were determined to be effective for the duration of their time outstanding in 2025 and 2024, respectively.

The following table presents the notional amount and fair values of the interest rate swaps designated as fair value hedges as of December 31, 2025. Derivative assets are included in other assets and derivative liabilities are included in other liabilities in the Consolidated Balance Sheets.

Note 12. Financial Instruments with Off-Balance Sheet Risk

The Company is party to credit related financial instruments with off-balance-sheet risk in the normal course of business to meet the financing needs of its customers. These financial instruments include commitments to extend credit and standby letters of credit. Such commitments involve, to varying degrees, elements of credit and interest rate risk in excess of the amount recognized in the consolidated balance sheets.

The Company's exposure to credit loss is represented by the contractual amount of these commitments. The Company follows the same credit policies in making commitments as it does for on-balance sheet instruments.

The following table presents outstanding financial instruments whose contract amounts represent credit risk:

| (Dollars in thousands) | December 31, | |
|--|---------------------|------------------|
| | 2025 | 2024 |
| Commitments to extend credit | $ 8,063 | $ 12,508 |
| Unfunded commitments under lines of credit | 64,425 | 64,929 |
| Commercial and standby letters of credit | 4,105 | 3,214 |
| | $ 76,593 | $ 80,651 |

Commitments to extend credit are agreements to lend to a customer if there is no violation of any condition established in the contract. Commitments generally have fixed expiration dates or other termination clauses and may require payment of a fee. The commitments for equity lines of credit may expire without being drawn upon. Therefore, the total commitment amounts do not necessarily represent future cash requirements. The amount of collateral obtained, if deemed necessary, is based on management's credit evaluation of the customer.

Unfunded commitments under commercial lines of credit, revolving credit lines and overdraft protection agreements are commitments for possible future extensions of credit to existing customers. These lines of credit usually do not contain a specified maturity date and may not be drawn upon to the total extent to which the Company is committed. The amount of collateral obtained, if it is deemed necessary by the Company, is based on management's credit evaluation of the customer.

Commercial and standby letters of credit are conditional commitments issued by the Bank to guarantee the performance of a customer to a third party. Those letters of credit are primarily issued to support public and private borrowing arrangements. Essentially all letters of credit issued have expiration dates within one year. The credit risk involved in issuing letters of credit is essentially the same as that involved in extending loan facilities to customers. The Company generally holds collateral supporting those commitments, if deemed necessary.

Note 13. Capital Requirements

The Bank is subject to various regulatory capital requirements administered by the federal banking agencies. Failure to meet minimum capital requirements can initiate certain mandatory, and possibly additional discretionary, actions by regulators that, if undertaken, could have a direct material effect on the Company's and the Bank's financial statements. Under capital adequacy guidelines and the regulatory framework for prompt corrective action, financial institutions must meet specific capital guidelines that involve quantitative measures of the Bank's assets, liabilities, and certain off-balance-sheet items as calculated under regulatory accounting practices. A financial institution's capital amounts and classification are subject to qualitative judgments by the regulators about components, risk weightings, and other factors. Federal banking regulations also impose regulatory capital requirements on bank holding companies; however, given the Company has less than $3.0 billion in total assets on a consolidated basis it is currently exempt from the consolidated capital requirements. Prompt corrective action provisions are not applicable to bank holding companies.

Management believes, as of December 31, 2025, and 2024, that the Bank met all capital adequacy requirements to which it was subject. As of December 31, 2025, the most recent notification from the Bank's primary federal regulator categorized the Bank as well capitalized under the regulatory framework for prompt corrective action. To be categorized as well capitalized, an institution must maintain minimum total risk-based, Tier 1 risk-based, CET1 risk-based and Tier 1 leverage ratios, as set forth in the following tables. There are no conditions or events since these notifications that management believes have changed the Bank's category.

Federal and state banking regulations place certain restrictions on dividends paid and loans or advances made by the Bank to the Company. The total amount of dividends that may be paid at any date by the Bank is generally limited to the retained earnings of the Bank, while other measures of capital adequacy may also restrict the Bank's ability to declare dividends.

The Bank's actual capital amounts and ratios, as well as minimum capital requirements, are presented in the following tables:

| | Actual | | Minimum Capital Requirement | | Minimum To Be Well Capitalized Under Prompt Corrective Action Provisions | |

Note 14. Fair Value Measurements

The Company uses fair value measurements to record fair value adjustments to certain assets and liabilities and to determine fair value disclosures. The fair value of a financial instrument is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. Fair value is best determined based upon quoted market prices. However, in many instances, there are no quoted market prices for the various financial instruments. In cases where quoted market prices are not available, fair values are based on estimates using present value or other valuation techniques. Those techniques are significantly affected by the assumptions used, including the discount rate and estimates of future cash flows. Accordingly, fair value estimates may not be realized in an immediate settlement of the instrument.

Fair value guidance provides a consistent definition of fair value, which focuses on exit price in an orderly transaction (that is, not a forced liquidation or distressed sale) between market participants at the measurement date under current market conditions. If there has been a significant decrease in the volume and level of activity for the asset or liability, a change in valuation technique or the use of multiple valuation techniques may be appropriate. In such instances, determining the price at which willing market participants would transact at the measurement date under current market conditions depends on the facts and circumstances and requires the use of significant judgment. The fair value is a reasonable point within the range that is most representative of fair value under current market conditions.

In accordance with this guidance, financial assets and financial liabilities are generally measured at fair value in three levels, based on the markets in which the assets and liabilities are traded, and the reliability of the assumptions used to determine fair value. A financial instrument's categorization within the valuation hierarchy is based upon the lowest level of input that is significant to the fair value measurement.

- Level 1
Valuations based on quoted prices in active markets for identical assets and liabilities.
- Level 2
Valuations based on quoted prices for assets or liabilities in markets that are not active, or quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities or for which all significant inputs are observable, either directly or indirectly.
- Level 3
Valuations based on inputs that are unobservable and deemed significant to the overall fair value measurement, including situations where there is little, if any, market activity for the asset or liability.

Assets and Liabilities Measured at Fair Value on a Recurring Basis

The following describes the valuation techniques used by the Company to measure certain financial assets and liabilities recorded at fair value on a recurring basis in the financial statements:

Securities available for sale

The Company primarily values its investment portfolio using Level 2 fair value measurements but may also use Level 1 or Level 3 measurements based on the composition of the portfolio. The Company has contracted with a third-party portfolio accounting service for the valuation of its securities portfolio. The vendors' primary source for security valuation is the Intercontinental Exchange (ICE). ICE provides opinions using model-based pricing techniques that are partially based on available market data, including prices for similar instruments in active markets and prices for identical assets in markets that are not active. ICE uses proprietary pricing models and pricing systems, mathematical tools, and judgment to determine an evaluated price for a security based upon market information regarding that security or securities with similar characteristics.

Derivatives

- Fair value hedges
The Company recognizes interest rate swaps at fair value. The Company has contracted with a third-party to provide valuations for these interest rate swaps using a discounted cash flow model. These interest rate swaps are classified as Level 2.

- Cash flow hedges
The Company recognizes its cash flow hedges at fair value. The Company has contracted with a third-party vendor to provide valuations for this cash flow hedge using a discounted cash flow model. This cash flow hedge is classified as Level 2.

The following table presents the balances of financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value on a recurring basis.

Assets Measured at Fair Value on a Non-recurring Basis

The Company may be required, from time to time, to measure and recognize certain assets at fair value on a nonrecurring basis. The following describes the valuation techniques and inputs used in determining the fair value of certain assets recorded at fair value on a nonrecurring basis in the financial statements.

Individually Evaluated Collateral-Dependent Loans

Loans for which repayment is substantially expected to be provided through the operation or sale of collateral are considered collateral dependent and are valued based on the estimated fair value of the collateral, less estimated costs to sell at the reporting date, where applicable. Management utilizes various methods to estimate fair value of the collateral including appraisals, discounted cashflow and automated valuation methods. Accordingly, collateraldependent loans are classified within Level 3 of the fair value hierarchy. At December 31, 2025 and 2024, the Bank had no individually evaluated collateral-dependent loans.

Other Real Estate Owned (OREO)

The carrying amount of real estate owned by the Bank resulting from foreclosures is estimated at the lesser of cost or fair value of the real estate based on an observable market price or a current appraised value net of selling costs. If carried at market price based on appraised value using observable market data, it is recorded as nonrecurring Level 2. When an appraised value is not available or is not current, or management determines the fair value of the real estate is further impaired below the appraised value or there is no observable market price, the Bank records the real estate as nonrecurring Level 3. At December 31, 2025, and 2024 the Bank held no OREO.

The carrying amount and fair value of the Company's financial instruments are as follows:

The Company assumes interest rate risk (the risk that general interest rate levels will change) in the normal course of operations. As a result, the fair values of the Company's financial instruments will change when interest rate levels change, and that change may be either favorable or unfavorable to the Company. Management attempts to match maturities of assets and liabilities to the extent believed necessary to balance minimizing interest rate risk and increasing net interest income in current market conditions. However, borrowers with fixed rate obligations are less likely to prepay in a rising rate environment and more likely to prepay in a falling rate environment. Conversely, depositors who are receiving fixed rates are more likely to withdraw funds before maturity in a rising rate environment and less likely to do so in a falling rate environment. Management monitors interest rates, maturities and repricing dates of assets and liabilities and attempts to manage interest rate risk by adjusting terms of new loans, deposits and borrowings and by investing in securities with terms that mitigate the Company's overall interest rate risk.

Note 15. 401(K) Plan

The Bank has adopted a contributory 401(k) profit sharing plan which covers substantially all employees. Participating employees may elect to contribute up to the maximum percentage allowed by the Internal Revenue Service, as defined in the plan. The Bank contributes 3% of the employees' pay regardless of whether the employees contribute. The Bank also matches 100% of the employees' contribution, up to 4%. Therefore, in combination, the maximum that the Bank contributes is 7%. The amount charged to expense for this plan for the years ended December 31, 2025, and 2024 was $406 thousand and $409 thousand, respectively and is included in salaries and employee benefits in the consolidated statements of income.
