March 31, 2026

Dear Shareholders,

Fiscal year 2026 marked a year of resilience for Bonal International. Overall, our revenue dropped 26.4% to $1,277,609, down from $1,736,386 last year. Net income from operations in fiscal 2026 resulted in a net loss of $119,764 which included a $152,872 Employee Retention Credits (ERC) received under the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act. These credits recognized Bonal's commitment to retaining its dedicated staff without layoffs throughout the pandemic years of 2020 and 2021. Bonal is grateful for their support and proud of how we navigated those earlier challenges.

Fiscal 2026 began with tariffs being placed on imported steel and other imported supplies which created economic uncertainty in our target metalworking sectors. Tariffs significantly impacted the market environment throughout the year. This led to purchasing freezes by many prospective customers.

During fiscal 2026, we were especially pleased that our loyal customers once again demonstrated strong support for Meta-Lax equipment through their repeat business and referrals. Sales to current customers represented 51% of sales volume (even higher than 50% from the previous year). Notable companies that purchased additional Meta-Lax equipment included Komatsu Mining Equipment and BAE Systems. The aerospace and defense sectors delivered meaningful gains, while exciting new additions to our impressive customer list included Nike (a shoe and clothing manufacturer) and Blue Origin (a rocket engine manufacturer). Our flagship Model 2800 system continued to lead our sales, accounting for 55% of sales volume.

The fourth quarter, saw global energy/fuel prices rise significantly due to the U.S. conflict with Iran. Historically, higher fuel costs have increased demand for Bonal's Meta-Lax stress relief equipment. Meta-Lax represents a perfect solution to the current market needs since it is a superior, sustainable alternative to the high energy consuming traditional, thermal stress relief method. Stress relief is an essential step in the manufacturing of metal parts for preventing distortion and premature fatigue. Compared to natural gas-fired furnaces, Meta-Lax stress relief delivers dramatic energy related advantages especially by reducing energy consumption up to 98%. Beyond cost and time savings, the U.S. Department of Energy has reported that Meta-Lax significantly reduces air pollution, greenhouse gas emissions, and reliance on fossil fuels all of which support our customers' carbon neutrality goals. Our customers have also reported indirect energy savings due to lower rework, less maintenance, and reduced scrap rates. We believe these factors position Bonal to capture additional market share in the near future.

Looking forward, we are well-prepared to capitalize on the growing global interest in the best high-quality, energy-efficient alternative to traditional thermal stress relief. With Meta-Lax poised to gain even greater recognition, we look ahead with optimism.

Thank you for your continued loyalty and confidence in Bonal International.

Sincerely,

Thomas E. Hebel

Note 1 - Nature of Business and Summary of Significant Financial Accounting Policies

Principles of Consolidation - The accompanying consolidated financial statements include the accounts of Bonal International, Inc. and its wholly-owned subsidiary, Bonal Technologies, Inc. (collectively, the Company). All material intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated in the accompanying consolidated financial statements.

Nature of Business - Headquartered in Royal Oak, Michigan, Bonal Technologies, Inc. provides a complete variety of consulting, training, program design, and metal stress relief services to several industries including: automotive, aerospace, mining, petroleum, shipbuilding, welding, machine tooling, plastic molding, racing, engine building, armament, and die casting. The Company's patented technology and its three distinct product lines: (1) Meta-Lax Stress Relief, (2) Pulse Puddle Arc Welding (PPAW), and (3) Black Magic, are sold throughout the United States and in over 60 countries.

Basis of Accounting - The Company maintains its books on the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAP).

Cash and Cash Equivalents - The Company considers all highly liquid investments with original maturities of six months or less to be cash equivalents. The Company maintains balances in various cash accounts which may, at times, exceed the amount of related federal insurance. The Company has not experienced any losses on such accounts and believes it is not exposed to any significant credit risk on cash. At March 31, 2026 and 2025, cash and cash equivalents consisted of the following:

	2026	2025
Cash in financial institutions	$ 618,066	$ 728,010
Certificates of deposit	340,713	329,365
	$ 958,779	$ 1,057,375

Concentrations - The Company had four customers that accounted for approximately 70% and four customers that accounted for approximately 75% of accounts receivable-trade, net at March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. Due to the nature of the Company's business, the customers that comprise these concentrations change from year to year.

Use of Estimates - The preparation of consolidated financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the consolidated financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting year. Actual results could differ from those estimates, and such differences may be material.

Accounts Receivable and Allowance for Credit Losses - The Company operates in the metal working industries and its accounts receivable are primarily derived from wholesale customers. Since the Company's trade receivables are largely similar, the Company evaluates its allowance for credit losses as one portfolio segment. Accounts receivable are uncollateralized customer obligations due under normal trade terms requiring payment within 30 days from the invoice date. The Company does not charge interest on unpaid accounts receivable balances. Accounts receivable are stated at amounts billed to the customer.

Note 1 - Nature of Business and Summary of Significant Financial Accounting Policies (Continued)

Accounts Receivable and Allowance for Credit Losses (continued) - At each consolidated balance sheet date, the Company recognizes an expected allowance for credit losses. In addition, also at each reporting date, this estimate is updated to reflect any changes in credit risk since the receivable was initially recorded. This estimate is calculated on a pooled basis where similar risk characteristics exist. Accounts receivable are evaluated individually when they do not share similar risk characteristics which could exist in circumstances where amounts are considered at risk or uncollectible.

The allowance estimate is derived from a review of the Company's historical losses based on the aging of receivables. This estimate is adjusted for management's assessment of current conditions, reasonable and supportable forecasts regarding future events, and any other factors deemed relevant by the Company. The Company believes historical loss information is a reasonable starting point in which to calculate the expected allowance for credit losses as the Company's portfolio segment has remained consistent since the Company's inception.

The Company has elected to early adopt Accounting Standards Update 2025-05, Financial Instruments - Credit Losses (Topic 326): Measurement of Credit Losses for Accounts Receivable and Contract Assets. The Company has elected the practical expedient to assume that current conditions as of the consolidated balance sheet date do not change for the remaining life of the accounts receivable. The Company has also elected to apply the subsequent collection policy election by considering collection activity through the date the consolidated financial statements are available to be issued, when estimating expected credit losses for these assets.

The Company writes off receivables when there is information that indicates the debtor is facing significant financial difficulty and there is no possibility of recovery. If any recoveries are made from any accounts previously written off, they will be recognized in income or as an offset to credit loss expense in the year of recovery, in accordance with the Company's accounting policy election. The total amount of write-offs was immaterial to the consolidated financial statements as a whole for the years ended March 31, 2026, 2025, and 2024.

The Company had accounts receivable-trade, net of approximately $153,000 at April 1, 2024.

Inventories - Inventories consist of raw materials, work in progress, and finished goods and are stated at the lower of cost, determined on the first-in, first-out (FIFO) method, or net realizable value. Finished goods include a rental fleet for units rented to customers on a short term basis. At March 31, 2026 and 2025, approximately $96,000 and $83,000, respectively, relate to rental units within finished goods. A valuation allowance is provided for obsolete and slow moving inventory to write down costs to net realizable value. The Company has recorded an obsolescence reserve as of March 31, 2026 and 2025, of approximately $10,000.

Property and Equipment - Property and equipment are recorded at cost. Depreciation and amortization of property and equipment is provided by use of the straight-line and accelerated methods over the estimated useful lives of the assets as follows:

Machinery and equipment	7 - 10 years
Displays	5 years
Transportation equipment	5 years
Office furniture and equipment	3 - 10 years
Leasehold improvements	lease term

Revenue Recognition - The Company's revenues primarily result from the sale of new and used metal stress relief products and accessories and related rental, servicing, repair, and training services. The issuance of a purchase order is generally the point at which a contract is identified for accounting and financial reporting purposes. The Company recognizes revenue for the sale of new and used units, and the related servicing, repair, and training services when the Company satisfies its performance obligation under the contract by transferring the promised product or service to the customer when the customer obtains control of the product or service. For products, this generally happens at the point of shipment. Products sold by the Company are delivered via shipment from the Company's facilities. For services, this happens upon completion of the service. The Company's contracts primarily consist of a single performance obligation.

The Company utilizes the following practical expedients and policy elections when recognizing revenue and related costs: (1) to apply certain practical expedients available with respect to disclosure requirements, (2) the transaction price is not adjusted for any significant financing component, as the expected time period between when the Company transfers the promised goods to the customer and payment is less than one year, (3) incremental costs of obtaining a contract are expensed when the amortization period is one year or less, (4) ASC 606 is applied to a portfolio of contracts (or performance obligations) with similar characteristics, (5) all shipping and handling activities are accounted for as activities to fulfill the promise to transfer the good, not as a separate performance obligation, and (6) the transaction price excludes tax amounts assessed by governmental authorities that are both (i) imposed on and concurrent with a specific to nonpublic companies with respect to disclosure requirements and (ii) collected from customers.

The Company provides a warranty for its products. Such warranties, however, are limited to standard contractually based periods and are not separately sold, and are considered to be assurance-type warranties that are not separate performance obligations.

Rental revenues are recognized over the term of the lease agreement as the customer receives/consumes the benefit, typically monthly. Generally, rental customers are required to provide security deposits at the inception of the contract. Any remaining deposits are returned within 30 days of the end of the contract.

Leases - The Company determines if an arrangement is, or contains, a lease at the inception date. In evaluating contracts to determine if they qualify as a lease, the Company considers factors such as if the Company has obtained substantially all of the rights to the underlying asset through exclusivity, if the Company can direct the use of the asset by making decisions about how and for what purpose the asset will be used, and if the lessor has substantive substitution rights. This evaluation may require significant judgment.

Right-of-use (ROU) assets represent the right to use an underlying asset for the lease term and lease liabilities represent the obligation to make lease payments arising from the lease. Operating lease ROU assets and lease liabilities are recognized at the commencement date based primarily on the present value of lease payments over the lease term. In determining the discount rate used to measure the ROU assets and lease liabilities, the Company uses rates implicit in the lease, when available. If the rate implicit in the lease is not readily available, the Company has elected to use a risk-free rate for all classes of assets. The risk-free rate used is the “U.S. Treasury Bill Rate” in effect at the commencement of the lease for a similar term. The operating lease ROU assets also include any lease payments made at commencement and exclude lease incentives. Lease terms may include options to extend or terminate the lease when it is reasonably certain that the Company will exercise that option. Lease expense is recognized on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

The Company elected to apply the short-term lease exemption. Under this exemption, ROU assets and lease liabilities are not recognized for leases with an initial term of 12 months or less. The Company does not currently have any material short-term lease arrangements.

The Company elected the practical expedient to account for lease and non-lease components as a single lease component. For arrangements accounted for as a single lease component, there may be variability in future lease payments as the amount of the non-lease components is typically revised from one period to the next. Payments for non-lease components, which are primarily comprised of common area maintenance, utilities, insurance, capital expenditures, and real estate taxes that are passed on from the lessor in proportion to the space leased, are recognized in operating expenses in the period in which the obligation for those payments was incurred.

Income Taxes - Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the future tax benefits and consequences attributable to differences between the consolidated financial statement carrying amounts of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax bases. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect on deferred tax assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period that includes the enactment date. Deferred tax assets are reduced by a valuation allowance when, in the opinion of management, it is more likely than not that some portion or all of the deferred tax assets will not be realized.

The Company recognizes and discloses uncertain tax positions in accordance with GAAP. As of March 31, 2026 and 2025, and for the years ended March 31, 2026, 2025, and 2024, the Company did not have a liability for unrecognized tax benefits.

Note 1 - Nature of Business and Summary of Significant Financial Accounting Policies (Continued)

Earnings per Common Share - Earnings per common share are based on the number of common shares outstanding at the end of the year.

4) Issuer's Business, Products and Services

The purpose of this section is to provide a clear description of the issuer's current operations.
Ensure that these descriptions are updated on the Company's Profile on www.OTCMarkets.com.

A. Summarize the issuer's business operations (If the issuer does not have current operations, state "no operations")

Bonal International has no operations. However, its wholly owned subsidiary, Bonal Technologies, Inc., is the operations arm of the Company. Therefore, the business conducted by Bonal International is the business that is conducted by Bonal Technologies. Bonal Technologies developed and patented a high-tech sub-harmonic vibrational stress relieving process, and subsequent equipment, for metal parts called "Meta-Lax®." Meta-Lax stress relief is accomplished by using a precise, non-destructive, low frequency (sub-harmonic) vibration energy applied to the work piece. The Meta-Lax equipment can provide certification showing that stress relief is complete, a feature not provided from any other known method of stress relief in use today. In comparison to heat treat stress relief, the past traditional choice of stress relief, Meta-Lax is as effective and consistent as heat treat stress relief yet can be applied at a fraction of the time, cost and energy. Also, Meta-Lax does not generate any of the heat treat's negative side effects. Additionally, because the level of vibrational energy that Meta-Lax processing uses is so mild, they can be used during welding to prevent most of the weld distortion and weld cracking. Weld distortion and cracking are two of the most challenging problems facing the welding industry. Meta-Lax processing can treat work pieces ranging in weight from ounces to one million pounds. Bonal Technologies markets and provides services to customers in the aerospace, automotive, defense, die casting, machine tool, mold making, racing, shipbuilding, and welding industries among others. The primary and secondary SIC codes for the products of Bonal Technologies are 3829 and 3549 respectively.

B. List any subsidiaries, parent company, or affiliated companies.

Bonal Technologies, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company

C. Describe the issuers' principal products or services.

Description of Products – Meta-Lax Equipment
Bonal Technologies has a product line utilizing Meta-Lax technology which offers three types of control consoles and five different size force inducers. Each complete Meta-Lax system consists of an electric motor driven force inducer, a transducer, and an electronic control console. The Meta-Lax equipment can be used to stress relieve metal work pieces in place of heat treat stress relief and/or can be used during welding (weld conditioning) to gain many desirable benefits.

Series 2000. The Series 2000 is a portable Meta-Lax system designed for basic stress relief and weld conditioning applications. Series 2000 features a front flat-panel touch-screen display for ease of operation. Manual stress relief certification can be produced with this system. The Series 2000 is ideal for small machine and fab shops.

Series 2400. The Series 2400 is an upgrade to the Series 2000 and features graphic certification and the capacity to save data up to 100,000 treated work pieces on a flash drive for later retrieval and printout. The Series 2400 system is ideal for machine and fab shops where stress relief or weld conditioning is specified by another organization, or when graphic certification is desired, or for companies that are ISO 9000 compliant.

Series 2800. The Series 2800 is an upgrade to the Series 2400 and features computerized stress relief and weld conditioning operations. The operator sets up the equipment, inputs data, then lets the computer take over the stress relief operation for most work pieces. The Series 2800 is ideal for those companies that want the equipment's computer to make decisions regarding the stress relieving of their parts.
