

NEW COURSE FOR WORLDFLIX, INC.

WorldFlix, Inc. (OTC: WRFX), a provider of innovative and disruptive cybersecurity and mobile software, announces a change in substantial holder interest.

James “Mick” Davis, as of April 16, 2019, replaced the original Company’s founder as Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of the Board. Mr. Davis acquired all of the departing Chief Executive’s common and preferred shares and now fully controls the voting rights of the Company. As part of this transition, a significant incentive equity position of WorldFlix preferred and common shares will be awarded to him for achieving prescribed performance metrics for 2019.

Since assuming leadership, Mick has aggressively addressed a wide array of challenges and obtained control of all treasury, financial and social media accounts along with all business assets including intellectual property. WorldFlix has closed the Hollywood, California office and engaged cost effective virtual office spaces in Northern Arizona, the Nation’s Capital Region and a new Paranotek office in Buenos Aires.

In his new role, Mr. Davis is implementing a business strategy to build a strong foundation based on exceptional integrity, transparency and responsive system of governance. This includes plans for standard practice voting rights distribution for shareholders with well-planned and resourced shareholder meetings.

As part of his strategy, Mick enlisted the assistance of a handful of prosperous senior corporate veterans from the banking, energy and the logistics industries to co-develop a corporate governance program that meets the guidelines set forth by the SEC and NASDAQ for fully reporting companies.

The first phase of selecting (4) four willing candidates to serve as independent Board of Directors and (4) four Board Advisors has been completed. The formation of independent audit and compensation committees are scheduled agenda items for ratification during the first Board of Directors meeting.

As part of the rigorous corporate governance changes, Mr. Davis will establish new policies and procedures. A few of the key changes will include developing a code of ethics, establishing robust internal controls, and implementing independent audits which meet PCAOB standards.

Currently the transition team is in the process of vetting a top 25 audit firm and expects to engage their services in May. Mr. Davis expects the independent audit to provide an accurate and transparent view of the Company’s financial condition that will set the stage for the Company’s future growth plans.

Mr. Davis stated unequivocally, “there is no pressing need for a reverse split to raise capital and we are providing a formal notice to the SEC to withdraw last year’s Reg A+ submission”. Mick also voiced his appreciation for the warmth and loyalty shareholders have shown, and the faith they have placed in him to implement his business plan. The positive attitude and support motivate him, and he is confident in the future success of the Company.
