NOTE 2 – SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of presentation

The consolidated financial statements are prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America (“US GAAP”). The accompanying consolidated financial statements for the interim periods are unaudited and reflect all adjustment (consisting only of normal recurring adjustments), which are, in the opinion of management, necessary for a fair presentation of the financial position and operating results for the periods presented.

The consolidated financial statements of the Company include the accounts of our wholly-owned and majority owned subsidiaries. All significant inter-company balances and transactions have been eliminated.

Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with US GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect certain reported amounts and disclosures. Accordingly, actual results could differ from those estimates. Significant estimates in 2012 and 2011 include the allowance for doubtful accounts and the useful life of property and equipment.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

For purposes of the consolidated statements of cash flows, the Company considers all highly liquid instruments purchased with a maturity of three months or less and money market accounts to be cash equivalents.

Accounts receivable

The Company has a policy of reserving for uncollectible accounts based on its best estimate of the amount of probable credit losses in its existing accounts receivable. The Company periodically reviews its accounts receivable to determine whether an allowance is necessary based on an analysis of past due accounts and other factors that may indicate that the realization of an account may be in doubt. Account balances deemed to be uncollectible are charged to the allowance after all means of collection have been exhausted and the potential for recovery is considered remote. At September 30, 2012 and December 31, 2011, the Company has established, based on a review of its outstanding balances, an allowance for doubtful accounts in the amount of $165,452 and $161,765, respectively.

On December 31, 2010, the investment in marketable securities represents 1.4 million shares valued at $0.08 per share. Unrealized gains or losses on marketable securities available for sale are recognized on a quarterly basis as an element of comprehensive income based on changes in the fair value of the security. In accordance with SFAS No. 144, "Accounting for the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets", the Company examines the possibility of decreases in the Value of fixed assets when events or changes in circumstances reflect the fact that their recorded value may not be recoverable.

Advances from customers

We recognize an impairment loss when the sum of expected undiscounted future cash flows is less than the carrying amount of the asset. The amount of impairment is measured as the difference between the estimated fair value and the book value of the underlying asset.

In general, we record revenue when persuasive evidence of an arrangement exists, services have been rendered or product delivery has occurred, the sales price to the customer is fixed or determinable, and collectability is reasonably assured.

Foreign currency translation

Transactions and balances originally denominated in U.S. dollars are presented at their original amounts. Transactions and balances in other currencies are converted into U.S. dollars in accordance with ASC Section 830-20-35 and are included in determining net income or loss.

Our reporting currency is the U.S. dollar. The functional currency of our Chinese subsidiaries is the local currency; the Chinese dollar or Renminbi (“RMB”). The financial statements of the subsidiaries are translated into United States dollars using year-end rates of exchange for assets and liabilities, and average rates of exchange for the period for revenues, costs, and expenses. Net gains and losses resulting from foreign exchange transactions are included in the consolidated statements of operations. Translation adjustments resulting from the process of translating the local currency financial statements into U.S.

Income (loss) per common share

NOTE 7 – OPERATING RISK

Country risk

Currently, the Company's revenues are primarily derived from the sales in the Peoples Republic of China ("PRC"). The Company hopes to expand its operations to countries outside the PRC; however, such expansion has not been commenced and there are no assurances that the Company will be able to achieve

DRAGON CAPITAL GROUP, CORP. AND SUBSIDIARIES
NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

September 30, 2012

(Unaudited)

such an expansion successfully. Therefore, a downturn or stagnation in the economic environment of the PRC could have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial condition.

Product risk

In addition to competing with other manufacturers of product offerings, the Company competes with larger US companies who have greater funds available for expansion, marketing, research and development and the ability to attract more qualified personnel. The US companies may be able to offer products at a lower price or under better competitive terms, which would adversely affect our operations.

Exchange risk

The Company cannot guarantee that the current exchange rate will remain steady; therefore, there is a possibility that the Company could post the same amount of profit for two comparable periods and, because of a fluctuating exchange rate, actually post higher or lower profit depending on exchange rate of Renminbi converted to US dollars on that date. The exchange rate could fluctuate depending on changes in the political and economic environments without notice.

Political risk

Currently, the PRC is in a period of growth and is openly promoting business development in order to bring more business into the PRC. Additionally, the PRC allows a Chinese corporation to be owned by a United States corporation. If the laws or regulations are changed by the PRC government, our ability to effectively operate our PRC subsidiaries could be negatively affected.

NOTE 8 – FOREIGN OPERATIONS

For the nine month periods ended September 30, 2012 and year ended December 31, 2011, we derived all of our revenue from our subsidiaries located in the People's Republic of China. Identifiable assets by geographic areas as of September 30, 2012 and December 31, 2011 are as follows:

China	8,511,403	8,253,706
Total	$ 8,570,402	$ 8,315,691

NOTE 9 – DISCONTINUED OPERATIONS

On January 2, 2011, we entered into a disposition agreement with Wei Lu, the minority owner of both Shanghai Longri Information Technology Co., Ltd ("Shanghai Longri") and Shanghai Huice Electronic System Integration Co., Ltd ("Shanghai Huice"). DISCONTINUED OPERATIONS

On January 2, 2011, we entered into a disposition agreement with Wei Lu, the minority owner of both Shanghai Longri and Shanghai Huice. Pursuant to the agreement, we transferred all of our rights, title and 51% interest in Shanghai Longri and Shanghai Huice to Mr. Liu in exchange for an aggregate of 2,000,000 shares of our common stock held by Mr. Lu. As a result, a total of 2,000,000 shares of the Company's common stock held by Mr. Lu were to be cancelled, and Shanghai Longri and Shanghai Huice were discontinued as of January 2, 2011 and were sold effective as of that date. In April 2006, we acquired a 51% interest in Shanghai Huice, a Chinese limited liability company, in exchange for 8,000,000 shares of common stock of Dragon Capital.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONSIDERATIONS

As revenues from our operations in the PRC accounted for 100% of our net revenues for the quarters ended September 30, 2012 and 2011, how we report net revenues from our PRC-based operations is of particular importance to understanding our financial statements. Transactions and balances originally denominated in US dollars are presented at their original amounts. Transactions and balances in other currencies are converted into US dollars in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No. 52, "Foreign Currency Translation", and are included in determining net income or loss. For foreign operations with the local currency as the functional currency, assets and liabilities are translated from the local currencies into US dollars at the prevailing exchange rate on the respective balance sheet date.

Revenues and expenses are translated at weighted average exchange rates for the period to approximate translation at the exchange rates prevailing at the dates those elements are recognized in the financial statements. Translation adjustments resulting from the process of translating the local currency financial statements into US dollars are included in determining comprehensive loss.

The functional currency of our Chinese subsidiaries is the local currency, the Renminbi or the Chinese dollar, ("RMB"). The financial statements of our subsidiaries are translated into US dollars using period end rates of exchange for assets and liabilities, and average rates of exchange for the period for revenues, costs, and expenses. Net gains and losses resulting from foreign exchange transactions are included in the consolidated statements of operations. Since 1994, the value of the Renminbi relative to the US dollar has remained relatively stable; appreciating slightly against the US dollar. On July 21, 2005, the PRC announced that the Renminbi would be pegged to a basket of currencies rather than tied to a fixed exchange rate to the US dollar.

If any devaluation of the Renminbi were to occur in the future, returns on our operations in China, which are expected to be in the form of Renminbi, will be negatively impacted upon conversion to US dollars. Although we attempt to have most future payments, mainly repayments of loans and capital contributions denominated in US dollars, if any decrease in the value of the Renminbi were to occur in the future, our product sales in China and in other countries may be negatively affected.

CRITICAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES AND ESTIMATES

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Significant estimates in 2009 and 2008 include inventory valuation, the allowance for doubtful accounts, and the valuation of equity instruments and the useful life of property, plant and equipment.

Inventories, consisting of finished goods related to our products are comprised of electronic merchandise and salable components and are stated at the lower of cost or market utilizing the weighted average method.

Our financial instruments at September 30, 2012 and December 31, 2011 contain accounts receivable, other receivables, loans payable and accounts payable. The fair values of financial instruments approximate their recorded values.

We review the carrying value of property and equipment for impairment at least annually or whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable. Recoverability of long-lived assets is measured by comparison of its carrying amount to the undiscounted cash flows that the asset or asset group is expected to generate. If such assets are considered to be impaired, the impairment to be recognized is measured by the amount by which the carrying amount of the property, if any, exceeds its fair market value.

During the quarter ended September 30, 2012 and 2011, there have been no material changes to our critical accounting policies that impacted our unaudited consolidated financial condition or results of operations.

REVENUE RECOGNITION

We follow the guidance of the Securities and Exchange Commission's Staff Accounting Bulletin 104 for revenue recognition. In general, we record revenue when persuasive evidence of an arrangement exists, services have been rendered or product delivery has occurred, the sales price to the customer is fixed or determinable, and collectability is reasonably assured.
