We have developed a plan of operation reflecting our objectives for fiscal year ending June 30, 2013, and beyond. In our plan, we identify our cash requirements, our new product development, and our required staffing and additional funding requirements to fulfill our business objectives.

Cash Requirements

We estimate that we require a minimum of approximately $750,000 to operate for our current fiscal year. The minimum of $750,000 is required for operating expenses and general operational overhead. Additional funds of $1,000,000 would be required to fully implement our business plan which will include the following:

- o Product Development – This will include programming, engineering, and prototype building.

- Trade Shows – We plan to exhibit our existing products and roll out new product development through several trade shows during year.
- Prototype Engineering – This will include research and development of new technology to our existing products and any new products to be developed.
- U.S Patent Filings

To the extent we are unable to meet our operating expenses, we may borrow funds from our current management or other affiliates, or we may attempt to raise capital from private individuals or institutional investment equity funds. Any funds generated from product sales, if any, in our company that exceeds our operating expenses and debt repayments will be used to expand our operations.

Budget and Forecast for 2013

As we move out of the R&D phase and into production and distribution of our products, we have created a plan and forecasts for the business. As products enter the market we will continue to update and revise these projections based on feedback and product launch dates being achieved. The projections for 2013 can be found through the OTC Disclosure and News Service at <http://www.otcmarkets/stock/NTEK/Filings and Disclosure>.

B. Management Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Revenues

The Company recorded $37,655 in revenues from operations in the quarter ending September 30, 2012, which was generated from product sales, product licensing fees and other related business. These revenues have come mainly from the sale of products and software licenses. These sales were for units that we sell on our web store. We have several products that are nearing completion of development and once we have the funding to start a full production run anticipate being able to quickly ramp up sales to our target of $1,250,000 per month.

We currently have several OEM customers that are ready to purchase our Xtreme Rally Racing and MultiPin game machines once they are available.

The Adam Curry's Big App show went live in April 2012 and is now generating recurring revenue from advertising.

No sales of the licensed products had occurred during the year ending September 30, 2012.
