The Company, with the assets acquired in acquisition of AeroQuest, has developed a unique plastic composite that can be used in a number of different products throughout a wide range of industries. Products made from the Company's fiber reinforced thermoplastic sandwich panels are lighter in weight, stronger and more durable, and are less costly to produce than similar products made from conventional materials and manufacturing processes.

Products produced using the Company's proprietary composite are stronger and lighter than comparable products. In addition, the technology allows for nearly all products to be made without releasing volatile organic compounds into the atmosphere as occurs with the conventional thermoset fiberglass process. As a thermoplastic, most manufacturing waste can be recycled into new products.

The Company plans to incorporate its technology into vehicle body panels, structural insulated panels, highway sound abatement walls and many other products in a wide array of industries will benefit from this exciting new technology. These products include: office partitions, industrial furniture, stage platforms, trade show decking and flooring, scaffolding, utility vaults, marine and R.V. sub-flooring, counter tops, divider walls, engine covers and any other product that would potentially benefit from lighter weight, greater strength and durability and, in most cases, lower cost.

2. The Company is a development stage company.

These governmental regulations significantly influence the Company's operating environment and may affect its ability to successfully market its products. The Company is unable to predict the impact on operating results from the future regulatory activities of any of these agencies. Changes in regulations or the imposition of additional regulations could have an adverse impact on the Company's results of operations and cash flows.
