The Agreement provides for the rooftop installation of a solar energy collection system at a number of CubeSmart facilities. Design and Permitting is anticipated to be concluded in the next few months, and the initial construction is expected to started by end of 2020.

"We are honored that CubeSmart would be so quick to expand the already existing Agreement we had negotiated and executed just last month," stated Madeline Cammarata, President of Green Stream Holdings. "The community solar model is a proven path to private sector implementation of renewable energy infrastructure. Energy from the Sun will hit the CubeSmart facility whether we install the means to collect it or not. We believe this installation will represent an effective demonstration of how our model can make better use of that resource, and we look forward to ongoing and future discussions with proprietors of many similar facilities over the near term as Green Stream continues to expand our Community Solar footprint."
