Green Stream Holdings, Inc. Profiles CEO Madeline Cammarata: Evolving Solar from Function to Fashion

Malibu, California--(Newsfile Corp. - July 30, 2020) - Green Stream Holdings Inc. (OTC PINK: GSFI) (<http://www.GreenRainSolar.com>), an emerging leader in the solar utility and finance space, announces today a mission statement from fashion maven turned solar visionary, Madeline Cammarata, Green Stream's founder and CEO.

Madeline Cammarata (fka Madeline Harmon) hails from an illustrious background in fashion. Her career began as a fashion model where she was soon discovered by the iconic and provocative fashion photographer Helmet Newton, launching Cammarata to the runways of Europe. Returning to the US, Madeline found a powerful niche in the high fashion world of denim, where she was instrumental in providing fabric development for powerful brands like 7 For All Mankind and provided thousands of pieces to celebrity and business elites from Steve Jobs to Morrissey and everywhere in between.

Madeline Cammarata comments, "My work in high-end vintage fashion continues to be a highlight for me. Working with some of the most powerful people in entertainment and fashion had its perks, but it also left me wanting more. By that, I mean, I wanted to impact people on a larger scale and the last place I thought that would land me is renewable energy; however, I have been greatly inspired by architect Anthony Morali, our design partner, the man responsible for innovations like the first "solar balcony" - early in his career he built what was nicknamed the 'glass condominium', featuring broad balconies with photovoltaic glass railings to convert solar energy into electricity. This is where function meets fashion in a highly impactful way. I have always been deeply passionate about how I can make the world a better place and, as an entrepreneur, the opportunity in solar is enormous, and growing exponentially as technology continues to advance. This advancement is key to what we are achieving here with Mr. Morali,” states Cammarata.

“I’ve always been a fan of aesthetics and my career and contacts with some of the most influential people in the world has paved the way for a perfect storm in our agenda here at Green Stream, where function of solar becomes fashionable. In addition to the lucrative utility contracts we are cultivating, the design work is attracting larger conversations with solar production entities realizing that it doesn’t have to be the typical obtrusive, clunky hardware attached to otherwise beautiful buildings—it can be a seamless extension or feature of the beautiful buildings.”

She adds, “Mr. Morali and I, and our whole team at Green Stream are looking to change the way solar is presented to the world. Using my contact base and Morali’s innovative design talents, we have already cultivated a short-list of influencers conducive to this space that we intend on working with. Now that we are positioned in the market with transition to a new transfer agent, ridding the public company of the toxic baggage created by previous management, and squashing nuisance threats from known bad actors in the markets, we are ready to brighten the world in a big way. Positioned with a clean share structure, no toxic debt, a top-tier executive staff and talented market support, Green Stream will lay out our strategic direction in accomplishing this.”
