The market data underscores the potential for significant growth in the digital business card sector. The global digital business card market was valued at $159.4 million in 2022 and is projected to reach a staggering $505.2 million by 2032. This exponential growth highlights the increasing acceptance and adoption of digital business cards across various industries. Investing in a digital business card company now positions you at the forefront of a burgeoning market, offering substantial returns as the trend towards digitalization continues. With businesses continually seeking innovative ways to connect and engage, digital business cards are not just a trend but a critical tool for modern networking and branding.

With Mobicard™'s two granted patents & being the 1st and only publicly traded digital business card there is a significant advantage to gaining the majority of the market share. As we start to amp up our advertising and marketing efforts for our crowd funding, and Mobicard™ 2.0 apps set to release in the coming weeks ahead, we are thrilled to have these new AI chatbots for our iHub page as well as our website home page. Furthermore adding an AI to our actual apps would be an exceptionally unique idea further differentiating us from our competitors. When I said that the year 2024 was going to be our year in our annual letter to shareholders this year, I meant it, we are a little behind schedule, but we are about to make some major moves. With the Reg CF exemption I can now say if there was ever a time to buy stock in PTOPTOP now is the time, concluded CEO Joshua Sodaitis.
