AOXG Announces Strategic Acquisition of InfoEd Tech Limited and Transition to Educational Technology

NEW YORK, NY – AOXG, a U.S. - based OTC-listed company (OTC: AOXG), is pleased to announce a significant strategic development in its business model. The company has successfully acquired InfoEd Tech Limited, a premier educational technology firm based in Hong Kong, which is also co-owned by major shareholders Dr. Frankie Lo and Mr. Ramen Chim.

As part of this transition, AOXG will discontinue its previous operations in the development, manufacturing, and marketing of active pharmaceutical ingredients for narcotics and neurological drugs. Instead, the company will focus on providing innovative educational technology solutions aimed at overcoming language barriers in the Asia Pacific region.

Leadership Expertise

Dr. Frankie Lo, a seasoned expert in training and financial planning, brings over three decades of experience to AOXG. He has significantly impacted the financial services industry through his training initiatives, positively influencing nearly 10,000 financial planners across various esteemed organizations. Dr. Lo's leadership roles include serving as the President of InfoEd Tech Limited and the Chairman of the International Association of Registered Financial Consultants (IARFC) Asia Pacific Council. His connections with the University of Sunderland further enhance AOXG's credibility and outreach in the educational sector.

Mr. Ramen Chim also adds exceptional value to AOXG with over 20 years of experience in the financial services industry. His proven track record in sales management and leadership positions at various insurance companies underscores his capability to drive AOXG's new educational initiatives. Together, Dr. Lo and Mr. Chim form a formidable team uniquely positioned to capitalize on the growing demand for accessible education across the Asia Pacific region.

Addressing Educational Barriers

The acquisition of InfoEd Tech Limited aligns with AOXG's mission to provide high-quality educational resources tailored to the diverse linguistic landscape of the Asia Pacific. Dr. Lo's extensive experience as a trainer has revealed that language barriers significantly hinder learning opportunities for many citizens in the region. By converting training programs into video formats and utilizing AI for multilingual support, AOXG aims to democratize access to education, enabling learners to benefit from global expertise.

Exciting Opportunities Ahead

With the backing of the University of Sunderland and the IARFC, AOXG is poised to offer accredited training programs that cater to the needs of professionals across various industries. This strategic pivot not only positions AOXG as a leader in educational technology but also opens doors for trainers worldwide to collaborate and expand their reach in the Asia Pacific market.

"We believe this transition represents a transformative opportunity for both AOXG and our shareholders," stated Dr. Frankie Lo. "By leveraging our unique connections and expertise, we are committed to creating a platform that empowers individuals and enhances learning experiences across the region.”

Conclusion

As AOXG embarks on this exciting new journey, we invite our shareholders and potential investors to join us in this promising venture. The shift to Educational Technology is not just a change in direction; it is an opportunity to invest in a future where education knows no boundaries.
