Solidus Communications, Inc. ($SLDC) Announces ChefLumi as New Educational Technology Brand Ahead of February Launch

Ormond Beach, FL — January 27, 2026 — Solidus Communications, Inc. (OTC: SLDC) today announced that it has selected ChefLumi as the official brand name for its educational technology platform, with the public launch of the ChefLumi website and platform slated for February 16, 2026.

ChefLumi is was developed as an interactive, standards-aligned educational platform designed for Kindergarten through Grade 5 (K–5) learners, including use in after-school programs, homeschool environments, and Voluntary Prekindergarten (VPK) settings. The platform combines hands-on, activity-based instruction with digital tools intended to support foundational learning, cultural education, nutrition awareness, and STEAM-adjacent concepts in an age-appropriate format.

ChefLumi will enter the rapidly expanding U.S. education technology market, which continues to experience sustained growth as schools, families, and institutions adopt flexible digital learning solutions that support both in-class and at-home instruction. The platform is designed to complement existing curricula while offering educators and facilitators an engaging and practical instructional resource.

In addition to primary education audiences, Solidus Communications is pursuing government and public-sector agency adoption for ChefLumi. The platform is well suited for agencies and institutions that require foreign, cultural, or international education as part of training, workforce development, community outreach, or international engagement initiatives. ChefLumi's modular design allows content to be adapted to varied instructional objectives while maintaining consistency and measurable outcomes.

"ChefLumi represents a strategic step forward in our educational technology initiatives," said William J. Sanchez, Chief Executive Officer of Solidus Communications, Inc. "The new brand reflects our focus on clarity, scalability, and long-term adoption across classrooms, homes, and public-sector environments."

ChefLumi was and is continued to be developed with features that support educators and facilitators, including structured lesson modules, adaptable content delivery, and compatibility with both guided classroom instruction and independent learning models. Additional announcements regarding platform features, pilot programs, and partnerships are expected as the February launch approaches.
