

Starfleet Innotech Engages with Financial Advisory Firm Soft Landings to Manage Philippine-based Real Estate Projects

New York, USA, 26 July 2022 — Starfleet Innotech, Inc. (OTC Pink: SFIO) today announced a formal engagement with financial advisory firm Soft Landings Business Accelerators, Inc., to facilitate the deployment of Starfleet’s Philippines-based projects.

Soft Landings’ services span financial advisory, M&A, asset joint ventures, project term loans, general project management, sales and marketing management, and more. For over forty years, their key principals have supported startups and large-scale companies undergoing expansions, acquisitions, and pivots. Billion-peso accounts handled by these principals include the packaging and funding of Pepsi-Cola Products (Phils.), Inc.’s acquisition, as well as the investment packaging of world-class amusement park Enchanted Kingdom. Among their other accomplishments is the successful raising of P1.5 billion ($27 million) to finance the completion of the Imperial Palace Waterpark Resort & Spa (now JPark Island Resort), a 556-room five-star hotel/condotel venture in Mactan, Cebu.

“We are excited to be working alongside Soft Landings to work with our ground teams in the Philippines as we mobilize our global network in that region,” said Starfleet CEO Jeths Lacson. “Their decades of experience and expertise will allow us to move quickly and confidently in the Philippines, a massive growth region for Starfleet, specifically for Moraya.”

Starfleet has a number of major projects lined up in the Philippines within their real estate division, led by divisional flagship company Moraya. These include waterfront township developments in global tourism destinations such as Palawan and Batangas. These townships offer a wellness-oriented lifestyle, with integrative medicine facilities onsite and technology platforms leveraging health data for proactive insights into community wellness.

With a focus on Starfleet’s real estate projects under Moraya, Soft Landings will ensure these projects properly navigate local regulatory frameworks through business and financial consulting, while also providing access to the networking, advisory, and management services needed to secure proper funding and ensure their success.
