Sportsquest, Inc. SPQS Forward Guidance Solar Carport Merger

January 10 2022 Buffalo New York, Sports Quest (OTC:SPQS) www.sports-quest.co is proceeding as planned by management with the solar power carport manufacturer and distributor.

“Due diligence process is taking longer due to SPQS COVID illness’ which is now over and the merger candidate currently entertaining a nation-wide potential distribution through their channel partners. We took our time to explore the opportunity and to make sure that this deal has real potential which our shareholders and followers will benefit of” – Jeff Burns CEO stated, “the solar power carport manufacturer is currently located in Canada, and they are working on expanding to the USA and Europe.”

As per a research report conducted by our R&D department, by 2030, the US market for services to support the charging of electric-vehicle fleets could be worth $15 billion.

Canada currently has about 15,000 public or semi-private chargers available, and at least another 2,000 are in various stages of construction with public funding. Natural Resources Canada has another $180 million in the existing budget to build 17,000 or so more in the next three years.

The Liberals promised to spend another $700 million by 2026 to build an additional 50,000 new ones.

The platform that is attached to the carport has so many options that can and will be added besides the 5G Wi-Fi network, credit card payment, and many others. Spqs is looking to include a new, NFT - Non-Fungible Token, unique block chain solution. More about this feature will be released soon. <https://www.theverge.com/platform/amp/22310188/nft-explainer-what-is-blockchain-crypto-art-faq>.

More updates and filings will be released on a timely basis including the SPQS corporate website. <https://sports-quest.co>
