This merger was not successful, and the Company continued with its research and development operations as a development stage company. During this time, the Company actively conducted operations and sought out mergers and acquisitions that would help finance operations and continue its business plans.

Due to the Company's difficulty to further and finance its research and development activities after the unsuccessful merger with Advanced Definition Systems, Inc., the Company's Board of Directors and President determined to explore other business opportunities.

In 2006 the Company was presented with opportunities for possible mergers with business entities in the oil and gas industries. The Company actively held investigations and conducted due diligence with a number of possible merger candidates, and coincidentally held management meetings, board meetings and meetings of key shareholders holding a majority of the voting rights in the Company, regarding the Company changing business direction and plans and adopting a plan of operation focused on the oil and gas industry, specifically focusing on exploration and development.

These efforts led to the Company to material acquisition negotiations and due diligence investigations in the oil and gas space. The Company filing an Amendment to its Articles of Incorporation on May 31, 2006 changing its name to Hightowers Petroleum Holdings, Inc. in anticipation of its merger with a group of privately held oil and gas assets. This transaction failed to close, but the Company determined to continue with its oil and gas planning based on the amount of time and effort devoted to the space for approximately two years. The Company amended its Articles of Incorporation on July 12, 2006 to change its name to International Oil and Gas Holdings Corp. Thereafter, the Company continued to try to leverage its research, development, networking and operational growth strategies to advance its oil and gas development ambitions.

During the period from July 12, 2006 to May 3, 2011, the Company remained in the development stage while attempting to enter the oil and gas industry. The Company attempted to attract partners, additional investors, mergers and acquisitions and joint ventures for the acquisition and/or exploration of oil and gas claims, and also explored options for also entering the oil and gas space to obtain related equipment for lease or sale necessary to extract, process and otherwise explore for oil and gas with unrelated third parties. The Company was ultimately unsuccessful in these start up efforts and in 2011 the Company determined to discontinue its development stage efforts in the oil and gas space in favor of a different opportunity presented by INSCOR, Inc.

INSCOR, Inc.'s business focused and specialized in providing significant funding solutions utilizing high cash-value life insurance contracts combined with low-cost financing. INSCOR's business plan was tailored to municipalities, other government entities and corporations, and offered its services to facilitate low-cost solutions to funding retiree and other employee benefits. In addition, INSCOR marketed a variation of the plan to affluent individuals as well.

In 2018 the Company returned to the mining industry and the Company intends to discover and acquire land leases on properties known to have gold deposits. Oicindra's target market is precious metals mining operations. Oicindra's proprietary process significantly improves on environmental hazards typically associated with processing ore to extract valuable precious metals significantly reducing the use of mercury by small- & medium-scale miners, and the use of cyanide by medium- & large-scale miners. NOTE 2 – SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Presentation

The accompanying unaudited financial statements of the Company have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (“U.S. GAAP”) for interim unaudited financial information. Accordingly, they do not include all of the information and footnotes required by generally accepted accounting principles for complete financial statements. The unaudited financial statements include all adjustments (consisting of normal recurring adjustments) which are, in the opinion of management, necessary in order to make the condensed financial statements not misleading. Notes to the financial statements which would substantially duplicate the disclosures contained in the annual financial statements for the most recent fiscal period, as reported in the Annual Report, have been omitted.

Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncements

The Company has implemented all new accounting pronouncements that are in effect and that may impact its financial statements and does not believe that there are any other new pronouncements that have been issued that might have a material impact on its financial position or results of operations.

Income Taxes

The Company accounts for income taxes using the asset and liability approach that requires the recognition of deferred tax assets and liabilities for the expected future tax consequences of events that have been recognized in the Company’s financial statements or tax returns. In estimating future tax consequences, the Company generally considers all expected future events other than enactments of changes in the tax law. For deferred tax assets, management evaluates the probability of realizing the future benefits of such assets. The Company establishes valuation allowances for its deferred tax assets when evidence suggests it is unlikely that the assets will be fully realized. The Company recognizes the tax effects of an uncertain tax position only if it is more likely than not to be sustained based solely on its technical merits as of the reporting date and then only in an amount more likely than not to be sustained upon review by the tax authorities. Income tax positions that previously failed to meet the more likely than not threshold is recognized in the first subsequent financial reporting period in which that threshold is met. Previously recognized tax positions that no longer meet the more likely than not threshold is derecognized in the first subsequent financial reporting period in which that threshold is no longer met. The Company classifies potential accrued interest and penalties related to unrecognized tax benefits within the accompanying consolidated statements of operations and comprehensive income (loss) as income tax expense.

Stock-based Compensation

The Company has share-based compensation plans under which employees, consultants, suppliers and directors may be granted restricted stock, as well as options and warrants to purchase shares of Company common stock at the fair market value at the time of grant. Stock-based compensation cost to employees is measured by the Company at the grant date, based on the fair value of the award, over the requisite service period under ASC 718. For options issued to employees, the Company recognizes stock compensation costs utilizing the fair value methodology over the related period of benefit. Grants of stock to non-employees and other parties are accounted for in accordance with the ASC 505.

Basic Income (Loss) Per Share

Under the provisions of ASC 260, “Earnings per Share,” basic loss per common share is computed by dividing net loss available to common shareholders by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding for the periods presented. Diluted net loss per share reflects the potential dilution that could occur if securities or other contracts to issue common stock were exercised or converted into common stock or resulted in the issuance of common stock that would then share in the income.

NOTE 3 - GOING CONCERN

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared on a going concern basis which contemplates the realization of assets and the satisfaction of liabilities in the normal course of business. As shown in the financial statements, the Company has incurred recurring net losses since its inception and has raised limited capital. These factors raise substantial doubt regarding the Company’s ability to continue as a going concern. The financial statements do not include any adjustment relating to the recoverability and classification of liabilities that might be necessary should the Company be unable to continue as a going concern. The Company is taking certain steps to provide the necessary capital to continue its operations. These steps include but are not limited to: 1) focus on our new business model and 2) raising equity or debt financing.
